

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 21, 1914.

Commander W. T. Shaw,
R. E. Lee Camp,
Fort Worth, Texas.

~~Dear Sir:~~

Your Committee, appointed for the purpose of drafting Resolutions commemorative of our deceased comrade, Joseph B. Littlejohn, submit the following report:

Comrade Joseph B. Littlejohn was born on the 24th day of September, 1841, in Fayette County, Tenn. At the age of about twenty years he enlisted in Company K, 8th Louisiana Infantry, General Duke Taylor's Brigade, Early's Division, Stonewall Jackson's corps, Army of Northern Virginia, and on the organization of his regiment was made Sergeant Major of the regiment. He participated in the battles of Cross-Keys, Fort Republic, Gaines Mill, Malvern Hill, Cedar Mountain, Bristow Station, Second Manassas, first and second days at Harpers Ferry, Sharpsburg, Rappahanock Station, Gettysburg, The Wilderness, and other minor engagements participated in by the renowned corps of Jackson. He was wounded several times, and lost an arm in ~~one of the~~ the battle of the ~~Wilderness~~ Wilderness engagements. His record as a soldier was distinguished by courage, fidelity and constant service with his commands, when not disabled by wounds, up to the close of the war.

After the close of the War, Comrade Littlejohn came to the State of Texas and engaged in business at Marshall, and for the last thirty years his residence and place of business has been in the city of Fort Worth..

As a citizen and member of society, he has always maintained the reputation of a highminded, honest, honorable and useful citizen. His integrity was never questioned, and his generous heart was always open to help those who needed his help. He was faithful to every duty as husband and father. His wife died many years ago, and since her death his constant solicitude has been with his children, whom he reared in the walks of usefulness and who all became honored members of society.

and other minor engagements participated in by the renowned corps of Jackson. He was wounded several times, and lost an arm in one of the engagements. His record as a soldier was distinguished by courage, fidelity and constant service with his commands, when not disabled by wounds, up to the close of the war.

After the close of the War, Comrade Littlejohn came to the State of Texas and engaged in business at Marshall, and for the last thirty years his residence and place of business has been in the city of Fort Worth.

As a citizen and member of society, he has always maintained ed the reputation of a high-minded, honest, honorable and useful citizen. His integrity was never questioned, and his generous heart was always open to help those who needed his help. He was faithful to every duty as husband and father. His wife died many years ago, and since her death his constant solicitude has been with his children, whom he reared in the ways of usefulness and who all became honored members of society.

Comrade Littlejohn never gave cause for the enmity of any justminded person, and those who knew him best appreciate most his honorable qualities of mind and heart, and his long and useful life has been without blemish or spot.

As a soldier of the Confederacy he was true to every duty, and since the close of the war he has labored with his fellow ~~citizens~~<sup>Soldiers</sup> in upholding the honor and glory of their cause, and he has ever been active in cherishing the principles for which they contend, and has been active in helping those of his comrades who needed his aid.

He died an honored citizen of his country, a useful member of his community, a true and devoted friend and a loving father.

We, therefore, submit for the adoption of the Camp, the following Resolutions, expressive in some part of our high regard for our departed comrade:-

Resolved, First: That in the death of Comrade Joseph B. Littlejohn, society has lost a useful member, the state an honored and patriotic citizen, this Camp one of its most devoted members and his family a devoted, self-sacrificing and loving father.

Resolved, Second: That we commend to those who are left behind him the example of his noble life, and we extend our profound sympathy to his children in their irreparable loss, and to this Camp we express our profound grief in the loss of one of our most estimable members.

Resolved, Third: That a copy of this report and these resolutions be furnished to the family of Captain Littlejohn, and to the press of our city, and that the same be spread upon the Minutes of this Camp.

Comrade Littlejohn never gave cause for the enmity of any justified person, and those who knew him best appreciate most his honorable qualities of mind and heart, and his long and useful life
