NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 -- Dr. Robert M. White, Administrator of the Environmental Sciences Services Administration, will discuss "Oceanography in Transition" at the Symposium on Science and Engineering in the Gulf of Mexico Thursday and Friday (Sept. 8-9) in New Orleans.

Texas Tech President Dr. Grover E. Murray will preside at the meeting which is sponsored by the Gulf Universities Research Corporation. Dr. Murray, president of GURC, said the Symposium is intended to provide an opportunity for scientists and administrators to review known facts about the Gulf and to discuss needs for new research.

The Symposium will feature speakers of national and regional eminence from colleges and universities, state and federal agencies and industry. It is expected to attract participants from throughout the United States.

Tech Geosciences Prof. Dan E. Feray will present a paper on "Hurricane Carla and Coastal Erosion."

LUBBOCK, Sept. 7 -- More than 700 coeds are expected to begin arriving Friday (Sept. 9) for Texas Tech's annual Rush Week activities conducted by the College's 13 sororities.

The young women, who will be among an estimated 19,000 students entering Tech this fall, will meet with active sorority members in convocation at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Tech Union Ballroom for an orientation session to begin the week's activities.

A series of parties for rushees and members will be held throughout the week, beginning with open house events at 8:30 a.m. Saturday and culminating with the issuing of "bids" (invitations to membership) between 1 and 3 p.m. on Sept. 17.

The traditional "Week of Silence" will be observed from the convocation hour until formal bids are distributed.

Rushees and sorority members will be housed in Tech residence halls during the week. Active members have been on campus since Monday for preliminary meetings known as "pre-rush."

The executive council of Tech's Panhellenic Association is in charge of Rush Week, said Assistant Dean of Women Jacqueline Golightly. Margaret Griffith of Cleburne is Panhellenic's rush chairman.

Nancy Taylor of Dallas is Panhellenic president. Judith Haworth of Houston, Panhellenic vice president, is in charge of the convocation program.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 9 -- Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray will deliver two addresses in Abilene Saturday where he will participate in the annual meeting of the Texas Section of the American Institute of Professional Geologists, and then speak at a get-together of Tech Exes.

Dr. Murray's topic at the AIPG meeting will be "Responsibilities of the Geologist to His Profession." A recognized authority in his field, Dr. Murray has served as president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and of the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists.

He currently is Chairman of the U.S. National Committee on Geology and is a member of the Board of Directors of the American Society for Oceanography.

His talk to the Abilene Exes at 8 p.m. at the Starlite Motel will mark his first appearance before Tech Alumni groups since assuming the presidency Sept. 1. Tech 1958 graduate Gerald Galbraith is president of the Abilene Exes.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 13 -- The first Texas Tech pep rally of the season will be held Thursday night (Sept. 15) at Saddle Tramp Circle on campus, Bob Philpot, president of the student spirit and pep booster group, announced Tuesday.

The Red Raiders launch their current football campaign Saturday against the University of Kansas in Lawrence, and Philpot said the 8:30 p.m. Thursday rally was scheduled to insure a warm send-off for the team.

All Tech students, townspeople, fans and supporters are cordially invited. New assistant Red Raider coach Grant Teaff will speak and will introduce the Tech squad.

Philpot said the Monterrey High School band will play during the 30-minute rally, which will be highlighted by a huge bonfire.

Saddle Tramp Circle may be reached by entering the campus at either the Sixth Street or North Boston entrances and proceeding to the vicinity of the Men's Gymnasium, or by entering at Ninth Street at Bledsoe Hall. Ample parking will be available.

The Saddle Tramps also will give the team/^alast minute send-off at Municipal Airport Friday morning when the Raiders depart at 11:20 a.m. for Lawrence.

BATON ROUGE, La. -- Announcement has been made here of the appointment of Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray as Consulting Professor in the Department of Geology at Louisiana State University.

Dr. Murray, former Vice President for Academic Affairs for the LSU System and past Chairman of the LSU Geology Department and Boyd Professor of Geology, became eighth president of the Lubbock, Tex., institution on Sept. 1.

The appointment associates President Murray with an outstanding group on the LSU faculty with the same rank as Dr. George F. Kirby, president of Ethyl Corporation; Dr. Paul Delahay, Professor of Chemistry at NYU and former Boyd Professor at LSU; Dr. Gordon I. Atwater of the New Orleans consulting firm of Atwater, Cowan & Associates; and Dr. Alan H. Cheetham of the Smithsonian Institute.

The rank of consulting professor was established by the LSU Board of Supervisors two years ago upon the recommendation of Dr. Murray to utilize the services of outstanding leaders in the academic and professional world as advisors to the University's academic programs.

It is a rank established to associate outstanding individuals with Louisiana State so that they are available from time to time for advice and consultation regarding LSU's programs and activities.

LUBBOCK, Tex. -- Muneya Nishimura of Kyoto, Japan, will become the first Rotary Foundation Fellow ever to enroll at Texas Technological College when he launches undergraduate work in accounting this fall.

The dark-haired, energetic student, who arrived here in mid-September, said he was anxious to begin his studies in Tech's School of Business Administration after learning of its "excellent reputation."

Tech Board member and former chairman J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls, a past president of Rotary International, was a member of the Foundation Fellowship's board of trustees at the time of Nishimura's selection.

"I selected Tech from a long list of U.S. colleges and universities," Nishimura said, "because it has an advanced educational program. I think Texas is the state that best symbolizes America," he added.

While having some difficulty understanding Texas drawls, Nishimura is working on the problem and has received warm receptions from members of both Rotary clubs in Lubbock. "It's fine when they talk slowly," he explained, "it's the fast talking I have trouble with."

The Rotary Clubs here are serving as informal hosts to Nishimura during his stay. Tech Speech Department Head Dr. P. Merville Larson, Chairman of the Lubbock Rotary Club's Foreign Student Committee, has helped Nishimura get acquainted at Tech.

A graduate of Kyoto's Prefectural Rakuhoku High School, Nishimura was recommended by the Kyoto Rotary Club.

He formerly headed a service station company and electronics manufacturing firm in Kyoto, and currently is employed by a Japanese instrument manufacturing firm where he directs management and cost analysis.

Nishimura is married and has a four-months-old son.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 13 -- Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray will address the Lubbock chapter of the Tech Ex-Students Association at 7 p.m. Wednesday (Sept. 14) in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

Lubbock chapter president J. Q. Warnick Jr. (of 3506 44th St.) said the meeting would mark the local group's annual observance of Texas Tech Day, an event usually held in the spring but postponed this year so Lubbock alumni could meet with Dr. Murray.

The session will mark Dr. Murray's second meeting with Exes since assuming the presidency of Tech Sept. 1.

He spoke to Tech Exes Saturday in Abilene, telling them it was "no exaggeration" to characterize Tech's fantastic growth "as a case of the triumph of the human spirit over adversity."

Warnick also said the Wednesday night meeting here would include election of new officers for the coming year. Posts to be filled, he said, included president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, program chairman and publicity chairman.

Coffee and donuts will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 15 -- The death Thursday in Fort Worth of former Texas Tech Board Chairman R. Wright Armstrong, 73, was received here among friends and associates with widespread expressions of grief.

Armstrong, appointed to the Tech Board of Directors in 1961 by then Gov. Price Daniel, resigned last April 23 because of ill health. He was succeeded as Chairman by J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls.

Services will be held at 4 p. m. Friday (Sept. 16) in the First Methodist Church in Fort Worth with burial to follow in Greenwood Cemetery in that city.

Tech President Grover E. Murray ordered the American flag to be flown at half-staff over the campus Friday, and designated former President R. C. Goodwin as the college's official representative at the services.

Dr. Murray observed that Armstrong had given "many years of devoted service to Texas Tech. He was dedicated, not only to this institution, but to the cause of higher education throughout the state. He shall be sorely missed."

Dr. Goodwin termed Armstrong's death "a great personal loss. I will miss him deeply."

Wayne James, Executive Secretary of the Tech Ex-Students Association, said, "Wright Armstrong was a friend to Tech in the truest meaning of the word. He was interested in every area of the College, and gave unflaggingly of his time. He was working for Tech at the time of his death. I, and all Tech Exes everywhere, shall miss him greatly."

Said McLaughlin, "Tech, West Texas and the state of Texas has lost a great builder. His dedicated work for Tech will be long remembered. With his passing, I have lost a great personal friend."

Board Member and former Vice Chairman Al Allison of Levelland added that Armstrong's death "is a great loss to Texas Tech. Although he had left the Board, he still had a great interest in the school. The influence he has had on Tech over the years will be greatly missed."

Director Harold Hinn of Plainview and Dallas said: "I've known Wright for nearly 40 years, and he has always had the deepest interest in the development of West Texas, and along with it, Texas Tech. Wright always had a deep sense of responsibility. We have lost a very fine man."

Present Board Chairman Roy Furr of Lubbock added that "Tech has lost a real friend. I have known Wright Armstrong for 30 years. He had always a very deep interest in Tech, even before he became a member of the board, and since then has worked tirelessly toward the development of a top flight university."

"Mr. Armstrong," said Director Retha Martin of Lubbock, "was a fine, capable gentleman dedicated to Texas Tech and to West Texas. He gave generously of his time toward building Tech into one of the finest universities in the nation; a university of which West Texas and all of the state can be proud."

"Hospitality, Precision Impressess Tech Mathematician"

LUBBOCK, Tex. -- Russian hospitality and precision organization were among impressive features of the International Congress of Mathematicians, said Texas Tech's Dr. Ali Reza Amir-Moez, recently returned from the 10-day conference in Moscow.

Dr. Amir-Moez presented papers at two sectional meetings, one of a select few to be honored twice at the conclave of more than 6,000 experts from nations around the world.

"Meetings convened promptly on schedule," commented the Tech mathematician, "and moved forward with a minimum of confusion despite the problems posed by language differences."

Four languages were in general use by the lecturers: English, French, German and Russian. Many Russian speakers, however, made an effort to give their talks in either English or French, in response to the language preference indicated by their audiences.

Dr. Amir-Moez, an Iranian, experienced no difficulty in the language field, since he speaks English, French and his native Persian with equal fluency.

He presented a 50-minute lecture-demonstration on "Quasi Inversion" at a sectional meeting on algebra. His second paper, stemming from a longtime interest in the accomplishments of a fellow countryman, twelfth century Persian poet-mathematician Omar Khayyam, was presented at a History of Mathematics sectional meeting. Entitled "Khayyam and Irrational Numbers," the work also has been selected for publication in Scripta Mathematica, a professional journal.

Dr. Amir-Moez found his hosts to be not only hospitable, but "sharp mathematicians as well," dedicated to the pursuit of excellence and able competitors in their respective fields.

Amir-Moez -- add one

This professional enthusiasm arises, he feels, from the Russians' deep-rooted regard for scholarship plus recently added incentives in the form of financial rewards for outstanding achievement.

"Respect is important to the scholar," Dr. Amir-Moez noted, "and is a powerful incentive in itself."

A corresponding lack of incentive was reflected in the type of personal services available in restaurants, hotels and those services which were under government supervision. He observed that the Western custom of tipping accomplished much the same results as in America -- quicker, better and more pleasant service.

"Moscow is one of the cleanest cities I have ever visited," said the Tech professor, adding that scarcely a scrap of paper was visible on the spic-and-span streets. As an artist, as well as a mathematician, he was particularly interested in the city's subways which have been acclaimed as among the world's most beautiful architecture.

Dr. Amir-Moez, who was born and reared in Teheran, Iran, earned his BA degree at the University of Teheran and taught at Teheran Technical College before deciding to come to the United States in 1947. After receiving his MA and PhD degrees from the University of California at Los Angeles, he taught mathematics at the University of Idaho, Queens College, Purdue and the University of Florida.

He was professor of mathematics at Clarkson College, N. Y., prior to joining the Tech faculty in 1965.

In addition to numerous articles for professional journals, Dr. Amir-Moez has authored supplemental math workbooks for children, illustrated articles for teaching journals and plays for young people.

One of his recent books, "Ruler, Compass and Fun," published by Ginn and Company, has been adopted by the Ginn Enrichment Program for supplemental instruction in teaching youngsters the use of ruler and compass in drawing accurate and attractive designs.

presents fascinating methods for teaching geometric designs.

One of Dr. Amir-Moez' more unusual volumes is a play, "Kaleelah and Demneh," based upon a Persian tale which originally was written in Sanskrit more than 2,000 years ago. Along with texts in both English and Persian, the book features water color illustrations by the author depicting the animal characters in Persian costumes of the nineteenth century.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 17 -- Texas Tech will be host to members of the Texas State Historical Association at a luncheon meeting Saturday (Sept. 24) in Tech Union Building, Association officials announced today.

Dr. Joe B. Frantz, Chairman of the University of Texas History Department and a TSHA director, will be principal speaker at the 12 to 2 p.m. session in the Coronado Room. His topic will be "The Present and Future of the Texas State Historical Association."

A Western historian noted for his campfire folk tales, Dr. Frantz is the author of Gail Borden: Dairy Man to a Nation, which received the Texas Institute of Letters Award, and co-authored The American Cowboy: the Myth and the Reality, and 6,000 Miles of Fence.

Tickets to the luncheon, which is open to all persons interested in Texas history, will be $2.25 each. Reservations may be mailed to Dr. Seymour V. Connor, Texas Tech History Department, Lubbock.

Founded in 1897, the Texas State Historical Association is the oldest learned society in the state. Association publications include the Southwestern Historical Quarterly, one of the most distinguished history publications in the nation, the two-volume Handbook of Texas, and numerous other books and pamphlets relating to Texas history.

Dr. Connor and Tech History Prof. Ernest Wallace are members of the Executive Council and Dr. Connor is president-elect of the Association.

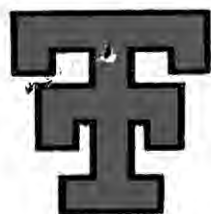

The Tech meeting will be unusual, the Tech professors noted, in that it will mark the first time that the Austin-based association has scheduled a meeting in another city. Previously, the TSHA has met only one annual meeting, in Austin, each spring.

THE SUMMER IS OVER--This was typical of the scenes at Texas Tech Monday as the first vanguard of an expected 19,000 students opened registration procedures for the fall semester. Coeds gathered to talk of summer vacation and class schedules as registration opened at the Lubbock institution. Registration for undergraduates will continue from 8 a. m. until noon and from 1:30 to 6 p. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday and from 8 a. m. until noon Thursday. (Tech Photo)

LUBBOCK, Sept. 19 -- Texas Tech, under cloudy but clement skies, opened registration Monday afternoon for the fall semester and by day's end reported a total of 5,281 students either registered or having begun the process.

Dean of Admissions Floyd D. Boze, in releasing the figures, pointed out that Monday's total included 3,214 freshmen who already had registered during one of Tech's numerous orientation sessions this summer.

He cautioned that the number of registered summer conferees had inflated the first day's figure, since registration hadn't begun until 1:30 p.m. as scheduled.

Dr. Boze said registration would continue from 8 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 p.m. until 6 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday and until noon on Thursday.

No late registration will be permitted, Dean Boze emphasized, although a period of restricted registration will be held from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturday for graduate students who have initiated but who have not completed the enrollment processes.

A total enrollment of some 19,000 is expected at Tech this fall, but officials say the final figure could vary somewhat.

Regular fall classes will begin at 8 a.m. Friday.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 19 -- Action Monday by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, included elevating the present Department of Education at Texas Tech to a School of Education, effective in September of 1967.

The approval, the result of a request made last December by the Tech Board of Directors, increases to eight the number of schools at Tech.

Already scheduled to go into operation next fall is the School of Law. Other schools at Tech include Agriculture, Arts & Sciences, Business Administration, Engineering, Home Economics and the Graduate School.

Tech President Grover E. Murray and Department Head Dr. Morris S. Wallace expressed "gratification" with the "recognition thus accorded the Department and the university's teacher training program."

Dr. Murray said he would appoint a campus-wide committee to consider qualifications of prospective appointees to the Deanship of the new school.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 20 -- Texas Tech Law School Dean Richard B. Amandes today announced receipt of a grant from Judge E. E. Jordan of the 47th Judicial District in Amarillo to establish a scholarship-loan fund for the new Tech school.

"This expression of support is most appreciated," said Dean Amandes in announcing that the $100 grant would go to a deserving Tech law student who will be selected later.

The Tech Law School is scheduled to open its doors in September of 1967 to an initial class of 75.

Judge Jordan, is a Tech alumni and a member of the Class of 1930. He was a pre-law major at the Lubbock institution.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 20 -- Texas Tech's first full day of registration for the fall semester was completed Tuesday with a grand total of 11,362 students either registered or having begun the process.

Tech, with an expectation of some 19,000 students for the first term, opened registration at 1:30 p. m. Monday for half a day.

Dean of Admissions Floyd D. Boze reported 5,281 students registered on Monday, including 3,214 who had signed up for fall classes during one of Tech's numerous summer orientation sessions.

Registration will continue from 8 a. m. until noon and from 1:30 p. m. until 6 p. m. Wednesday, and again until noon on Thursday.

No late registration will be allowed this fall, although a period of restricted registration will be held from 8 a. m. until noon on Saturday for graduate students who have initiated but who have not completed the enrollment process.

Regular fall classes will begin at 8 a. m. Friday.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 21 -- Tryouts for Shakespeare's "Richard III," the first of four Texas Tech University Theater productions for the current academic year, will begin Thursday in University Theater.

Auditions will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m. Thursday and Friday and from 2 to 5 p. m. Saturday. Any student, regardless of prior experience, may try for a part in the cast which includes some 50 roles, ranging from major parts to walk-ons, said Director Ronald Schulz.

Performances of the play, considered one of Shakespeare's most successful "tales of villany," will be Nov. 11 through Nov. 16.

Other highlights of the coming season will be Luigi Pirandello's dramatic comedy, "Right You Are! (If You Think You Are)" Feb. 3 through Feb. 6, and Roman playwright Plautus' classical farce, "The Haunted House," March 17 through March 20.

In its closing production, "Desire Under the Elms," May 12 through 15, the University Theater will return to gripping drama in Eugene O'Neill's moving story of vengeance and illicit love on a New England farm.

Season tickets, containing one admission to each of the four productions, are $6 each and may be purchased by mail if desired. Requests should be addressed to Box Office, University Theater, Texas Tech, Lubbock. Single admissions are $2 to the general public, 50 cents for Tech students and $1 for all other students. Further information may be obtained by calling PO2-8811, Ext. 2154.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 21 -- The last full day of registration for the fall semester at Texas Tech concluded Wednesday with 16,124 students either signed up for classes or having initiated the process.

The sun shone brightly all day for the first time since registration commenced at 1:30 p.m. Monday, and Dean of Admissions Floyd D. Boze said the total of students processed Wednesday was 4,862.

Dr. Boze said the final four hours of registration for underclassmen would be conducted Thursday from 8 a.m. until noon. No late registration will be permitted.

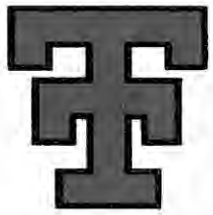

A period of restricted registration, however, is scheduled for Saturday morning until noon for those graduate students who have begun but who have not completed the enrollment process.

A total fall enrollment of 19,000 is predicted.

Regular fall classes will begin at 8 a.m. Friday, but Tech students will observe Thursday evening as All-Church Night with receptions and parties honoring new and returning students planned from 7 until 10 p.m. in the city's churches. Local congregations will serve as hosts.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 21 -- Two orientation sessions are scheduled for Texas Tech freshmen and new students Thursday with Tech President Grover E. Murray scheduled to address both meetings.

Dr. Murray also will talk at 7:30 p.m. at the annual meeting of the Littlefield Rotary Club honoring area teachers and wives of Rotary members. The meeting is slated for Littlefield's Community Center.

The Tech orientation sessions are scheduled for 9 a.m. until noon, and from 2 to 5 p.m. Both will be held in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Freshmen who attended Tech's summer orientation will meet in the morning session, and the newcomers will meet in the afternoon.

Student Body President Bill Beuck of Midland will bring greetings and 1965-66 Freshman Class President Wesley Wallace of Lubbock will give an explanation of the Freshman Council.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 24 -- Dr. Dan M. Wells has joined the Texas Tech faculty as Associate Professor of Civil Engineering and Director of the Water Resources Center.

A native of Graham, Dr. Wells received his bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from Tech in 1951, his masters from the University of Missouri in 1954 and his PhD from The University of Texas earlier this year.

Dr. Wells was a partner in the engineering firm of Campbell, Wells and Associates in El Paso from 1957 to 1963 where he participated in the design, design analysis and construction supervision of numerous major projects including runway and taxiway pavements at Biggs Air Force Base; and the utilities and drainage systems for new structures at the White Sands Missile Range.

He holds memberships in the American Society of Civil Engineers, National Society of Professional Engineers, American Water Works Association and Texas Water Pollution Control Federation. Listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest, Dr. Wells is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Chi Epsilon, Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Xi.

As director of Tech's Water Resources Center, Dr. Wells will coordinate the development of a broad-based interdisciplinary program in water resources education and research.

The Center, formed in 1965, has joined three other state institutions of higher education in a cooperative program of water resources research. Texas A&M, the University of Texas, University of Houston and Tech have joined in the effort which is designed to eliminate overlapping research and academic programs.

Dr. Wells' wife, the former Rena Thomas of Floydada, is a 1951 Tech Home Economics graduate. The couple has two children, Hal, 13, and Gary, 10.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 22 -- Texas Tech Union will launch its fall program with a series of special events beginning with an All-School Howdy Dance from 8 to 12 p.m. Friday in Municipal Coliseum.

The dance will be free to all Tech students, said Dance Committee Chairman Vicki White of Lubbock. The Tiaras will play.

Next on the agenda will be the International Interest Committee sponsored film, "The Secret Life of Adolph Hitler," at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Coronado Room of Tech Union. The film, a documentary, was compiled from interviews with close associates and intimate movies of Hitler, said Chairman Mary Lou Clements of Longview.

The Entertainment Committee takes over Tuesday with a program featuring John Reed and his guitar at 7:30 p.m. in Tech Union Ballroom, which will be decorated to resemble a German Rathskeller.

The Rathskeller will be open throughout the week under direction of Hospitality Chairman Diane Lewis of Lubbock for the purpose of distributing brochures about Union-sponsored programs and to arrange interviews for students applying for memberships on committees.

A silent movie, "Student of Prague," will be offered by the Ideas and Issues Committee at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Coronado Room. The vintage film, made in 1913, is credited with exerting a major influence on German productions for years afterward because of its innovations in theme and photography. Both movies will be free said committee chairman Bob Elkins of Bryan.

Tech Band members will present a varied program at a "Folken-Songen-Playen_Nacht" scheduled from 7:15 to 8 p.m. Sept. 29 in the Union Ballroom. Arrangements are under direction of Fine Arts Committee Chairman Claire Gillespie of Temple.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 22 -- Undergraduate registration for the fall semester at Texas Tech closed Thursday with the count standing at 18,150.

However, Dean of Admissions Floyd D. Boze pointed out that a period of restricted registration Saturday morning for graduate students only was expected to boost the final fall term figure to near the 19,000 mark which had been predicted earlier.

The Saturday morning period, running from 8 a. m. until noon, will be open only to those students enrolling in Tech's Graduate School.

Dr. Boze said the session would be opened both to those graduate students who had begun the enrollment process earlier in the week, and to those graduate students initiating registration for the first time.

All registration on Saturday, he explained, must be completed by noon.

Regular fall classes begin at 8 a. m. Friday.

Last year's enrollment for the fall semester was 16,305.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 23 -- A grant of $2,290 in unrestricted funds to Texas Tech's new School of Law from members of the Lubbock County Bar Association was announced Friday by Tech Vice President for Development Bill J. Parsley.

Law Dean Richard B. Amandes, who explained that the funds would be spent for such activities as recruitment of faculty and travel expenses not covered by state appropriations, extended his appreciation to the Bar and its members who participated.

Dean Amandes, who assumed his duties here in July, expressed his thanks in behalf "of the School and its students in the years to come. It is only with such assistance," he noted, "that a good school can become great."

The Law School is scheduled to admit its first class in September of 1967 with enrollment limited the first year to 75 students.

Parsley, who explained that the fund drive had begun this summer at the instigation of the Lubbock Bar, singled out Bar President Bill H. Brister, President-Elect Gene S. Cobb and John McFall, President of the Junior Bar, for helping make the campaign a success.

"We certainly appreciate the efforts of the local bar," Parsley said, "and especially the work of these three men. This expression of support demonstrates the tremendous interest in the School on the part of attorneys both here and throughout West Texas," he added.

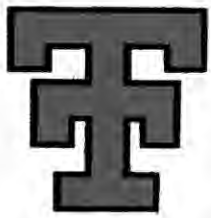

Brister said individual members of the Bar contributed amounts ranging from $25 to $100.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 26 -- Lt. Gov. Preston Smith will speak to the annual Presidents' Banquet of the Tech Board of Student Organizations at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday (Sept. 27) in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

BSO President Ronnie Brown, a Fort Worth junior, said presidents of approximately 170 recognized campus student organizations, in addition to invited university officials, would attend.

Brown said one purpose of the banquet was to inspire leadership, through example, among the organization presidents. Smith, a 1934 Tech graduate, will be introduced by Dean of Student Life James G. Allen.

He will speak on "New Roles for Future Leaders."

Brown said the program also would include a short explanation of the BSO and its various services.

Michele DeRieux, a junior English major from Amarillo, is in charge of arrangements for the banquet.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 28 -- Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray told students at an All-College Convocation Wednesday in Municipal Coliseum that he intends to "keep communication lines open between students and administrators."

Dr. Murray told the students that when communications break down, "trouble develops." It was his first talk to the entire college community since assuming office on Sept. 1.

Dr. Murray urged the students to fulfill their initial obligation which is the acquiring of knowledge. "Only you," he declared, "can take advantage of the elements of a university and absorb the education which is being offered you."

He said the students have many chances to develop qualities of citizenship and leadership that will accompany them throughout their lives.

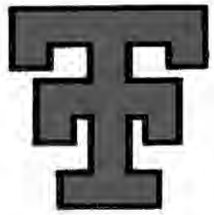

"There is no more satisfying reward," Dr. Murray said, "than that which comes from the feeling that one's responsibilities are being fulfilled and no more gnawing sense of self reproach than that which comes to haunt the person who has tried to sidestep his responsibilities."

Dr. Murray discussed the International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies and told the students he believes the ICASALS program will "put and keep, Tech in the main stream of knowledge," and will promote the spread and application of knowledge for the benefit of mankind.

Student senators and other Tech student leaders joined Dr. Murray on the speaker's platform.

LUBBOCK, Oct. 1 -- Texas Tech Education Professors Dr. Owen L. Caskey and Dr. Charles Jones have returned from Japan where they conducted a three-week series of behavioral science workshops for teachers and administrators in U.S. Defense Department Schools for Dependents.

Dr. Caskey, Chairman of Guidance and Counseling for Tech's Department of Education, planned the agenda which included sessions for administrators, counselors and school psychologists from all DOD schools in the Far East held at Tachikawa Air Force Base near Tokyo, training sessions in Tokyo for classroom teachers from DOD schools in Japan and individual visits by the educators to DOD schools throughout Japan. Third member of the team was Dr. Carroll H. Miller, Professor of Education at Northern Illinois University.

Planned around the theme "Understanding the Individual," the workshop was the first in-service training program of its type to be conducted for administrators and teachers in DOD schools, Dr. Caskey said.

More than 20,000 youngsters in grades one through 12 are enrolled in the 37 schools maintained for dependents of military and civilian personnel stationed in Japan.

During the final portion of their stay the educators visited Japanese public schools and conferred with education and psychology department faculties at several Japanese universities, including Gakugei University south of Tokyo.

While in Japan, Dr. Caskey and Dr. Jones met with fellow members of the Fulbright Committee and aided in selecting Japanese recipients of 1967 Fulbright Scholarships to the United States.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 30 -- Leaders of some 170 Texas Tech student organizations will attend the annual Tech Board of Student Organizations workshop and retreat Saturday (Oct. 1) beginning at 8 a.m. at the Plains Co-op Mill here.

The students, presidents of recognized Tech campus organizations, will participate in laboratory sessions conducted by Dr. Clay George Sr., scientist for the Human Relations Office at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Dr. George will discuss the effectiveness of leadership retreats and how they may be used for more effective organizations.

Participants will split up into smaller groups for discussions on various activities, ideas and problems.

BSO President Ronnie Brown said Tech officials will be present to explain how the student presidents may more effectively use their services to benefit their respective organizations.

Tech Public Information Director Ron Hamm will discuss how the organizations may formulate more effective publicity programs.

Dorothy Pijan, Tech Union Program Director, will talk on the use of facilities on and off the campus by student organizations.

Lonnie Dillard, Chief Justice of the Tech Supreme Court, will discuss the handling of organization funds.

The sessions will adjourn at 5 p.m.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 30 -- Dr. S. M. Kennedy, Dean of Texas Tech's School of Arts and Sciences, has been named to a five-member committee by the president of the Council of Colleges of Arts and Sciences to study the relationships of that body to other groups and organizations.

Other universities represented on the five-member panel include Kansas State University, Montana State University, Pennsylvania State University, and the University of New Mexico.

The Council is a separate organization of deans of arts and sciences from institutions represented in the 97-member National Association of State University Land Grant Colleges.

"Because of Tech's increased size," Dr. Kennedy said, "the organization should prove most helpful in giving the School of Arts and Sciences additional information and advice concerning budgeting and faculty recruiting."

Dr. Kennedy, who has been Arts and Sciences Dean since 1961, holds bachelors and masters degrees from Tech and the PhD from the University of Colorado.
