Wednesday.

My Dear, Dear Girl:-

The medical association session is a thing of the past. We had 15 or 20 visitors and they all seemed to enjoy it. The barbecue was quite a success. Dr. Anderson was with us. The most of the doctors visited both Sanitarium and one of them told me that we had two or three times as many patients as the other institution. I did not get to attend our half of the session but enjoyed what I did attend.

I have not seen Mr. Alexander and the house proposition is still "up in the air". Higginbotham will be in town tomorrow so I will find out something, but I feel like I know what his verdict will be. Dear girl, your card came to-day and I am still counting on seeing my sweetheart Sunday and I do hope you will be ready to come in Sunday, dear one. You don't know how I want to see you. It seems ages since my eyes feasted on your dear face and I heard that sweet voice that is music to my ears. I know nothing of the notes of the scale and music of that kind but I knew a dear girl whose very voice is sweet music to me and my ears are aching for just that kind of music.

Sureheart, in one of your letters a few days ago you said something I did not quite understand and I have not the letter with me so do not recall just the words but it was something to the effect that if you knew certain things or you wished you knew certain things you would be happier or something like that. I wondered if you meant there were certain things in a definite way you would like to know, or if you were just speaking of the indefinite things of life in general. Dearest and best of all, if there is any thing at all you want to know that I can tell you pray do not hesitate to ask and ask freely. I love you so dearly that I would not have a secret from you for the world. I have such supreme confidence and love in you I would not keep a thing from you that you wanted to know. So if you meant it in this way don't hesitate a moment.

The boys have grown so much and I am sure their trip gave them a larger view of life, and when they have your sweet influence and feel the influence of your love I know they will grow and develop into better boys and men.

Before I set down to write I think of so many things I want to tell you, but when I get to writing I am interrupted so much I know the letter is scarcely worth reading, but just know that my deepest emotions go out to the one to whom I am trying to write and that every letter and every word is intended as a message of love and that no words can express in any degree, how much I do really and truly love you.
God bless you is my daily prayer. Yours
M.C.O.
