Tech Football Stars of the '20's

Remember When...

... this genial fellow played practically every minute of every game as a stellar guard for Tech . . . when even as a Freshman he took complete charge of this position against all competition and held it with honors throughout the four years which were allowed in those days for varsity eligibility?

"Ox" Reed, as we remember him, was one of the most likable "cucces" ever to captain a Matador squad . . . he was always in a good humor in the game or out . . . and the boys on the field would tell us that he had more fun than all the rest of the team put together . . . no matter how tense the game.

In short he was a grand guy and a great football player . . . and now, ten years later, we pause to assure "Ox" that we certainly haven't forgotten him.

BOOK NEWS

"Let me be the first to tell you that there has just been published in this country a tender and gentle story as warming to the heart and as nourishing to the spirit as any I can remember. Like Ethan Frome, it is one of those unclassifiable works which lie in the untrodden domain between the short story and the novel, and it strikes certain chords which have not been plucked in just its way since that day when, for the last time and for all time, Colonel Newcome said 'Adsum', I refer to 'Good-Bye, Mr. Chips', by James Hilton . . . . It is a public duty and no small pleasure to pass the word along from house to house when anyone gives the world something as deeply satisfying as 'Good-Bye, Mr. Chips'."

—Alexander Woolcott

This statement was made several years ago when the book was originally published at $2.50.
