Welcome . . .

To you who are at the threshold of your college career, we welcome you, with the hope that the next four years will be made memorable by an active participation in campus activity. Tech offers you a well rounded schedule and an endless field of opportunity, so begin by getting behind that friendly campus spirit, and the rest will follow in its course.

Elizabeth Schmidt
President, A.W.S.

To the freshmen, transfers, and those who have been here before, may I give a welcome "howdy" as Doak Hall invites you to Tech. Especially to the new students at Tech, may I say how glad we are to have you, and that we need you to help keep the tradition of Tech spirit alive. As we become settled in the routine of college and dormitory life, may we strive to make this another successful and worthwhile year.

Corrine Rosenthal
Dorm I

The first peace time year since 1941 brings back that real Tech spirit, and many old and new faces to the campus.

It's a wonderful feeling to see the halls "buzzing" again. With all this, comes a hearty welcome to everyone of you. We especially want all the new girls to feel that they are a part of Tech.

We have many plans for this year, and with a cooperative spirit I'm sure it will be a successful one.

WOMEN'S RECOGNITION SERVICE

Women's recognition service is held each year in the spring honoring those girls who have high achievements in leadership and scholarship during the year.

Awards for the Fifteenth Annual Recognition Service for Women were based on high scholarship and on leadership ability as shown by participating in campus activities. No woman is recognized on the basis of leadership, however, unless she has a grade point average of 1.80 or over on all college work. The leadership achievements upon which the awards are based may be classified as follows:

1. Women members of national honorary professional organizations having chapters on Tech campus.
2. Women members of local honorary professional organizations.
3. Women outstanding in college activities which are open to all women.
4. Women who have received prizes and awards announced in the catalogue of the college.
5. Women students selected by Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

We Mustn't Forget . . .

THE CAMPUS BEAUTIFICATION FUND . . . established to aid in the landscaping of the campus. A fee of fifty cents will be taken from the breakage deposit of all students wishing to contribute to this fund. It provides for irrigation, shrubbery, perennial plants and well-kept lawns.

STUDENT UNION BUILDING FUND . . . dearest to the hearts of all. Now stands at $3,750 in War Bonds. This money will be used for the post-war construction of a Student Union Building which will house club rooms, co-operative cafeteria, soda fountain, bookstore, study rooms, lounges, play rooms, auditorium, ballrooms and (if we're lucky) a swimming pool. All students are asked to donate through the various campus organizations.

ACTIVITY TICKETS . . . costing $10.00 and paying for a good million dollars worth of entertainment. Football games, basketball games, three act plays, Toreador, Matador Band, stock judging teams, the Home Economics club and many other activities are supported by money from the Student Activity fund. The money is controlled by the Student Council.

Freshman Hats

Freshman girls begin wearing their little green caps the day they enter college. They are compulsory on the campus and to informal functions but are not compulsory to formals, teas, Artist Courses, or any "dress-up" affair. Get yours at Hemphill-Wells and put the year and your name on them (some cagey girls include phone numbers) and wear them till the Homecoming game. If we win that game, you can take off your freshman hat, but should we lose you will wear them until Thanksgiving.

Get one soon! Don't forget to wear it!

Ask Someone Who Knows . . .

In each dormitory there is a set of wing advisers . . . upper classmen girls who are there to help everyone . . . particularly freshmen . . . go to them when you are sick, sad, or simply perplexed.

CASA LINDA

Casa Linda, the women's cooperative house on the campus, is under the management of the business manager and the social director elected from the upper classmen of the house. It is a self-governing body and under the sponsorship of the Dean of Home Economics and the Dean of Women. Announcement of officers for Casa Linda will be made through the Toreador.

Our Own Women's Self-Governing Association

The officers of the other houses out in town are to be selected as soon as the fall term opens. Only those houses that have a representative to the Council of the Association of Women Students are eligible to give their senior students special privileges.

The Women's Self-Governing Association is just what the name implies—a self-governing group. Every woman in the dormitory is a part of the association and each girl should feel that it is her responsibility to contribute to the success of the work. Only with the cooperation and endorsement of every member can the organization function properly and smoothly. The House Senate carries out the wishes of the association. On each floor there are two Student Advisers, one on each wing, who will lend every assistance in working out problems.

The Women's Self-Governing Association attempts to plan a social program for the dormitory. A social fee of $0.50 a semester is paid by each student in order to make this possible.

To avoid misunderstandings at this time, students should remember that penalties are assessed for:

Unnecessary noise in the halls and rooms.

Smoking in the halls, baths, lounges, or dining room.

Lateness—coming in after the hours set by the Advisory Group.

Failure to be in room at the time set for checking.

Failure to sign out and in for the week-end.

Where definite penalties are assessed, the notice will be given and the student will conform to the regulations as given on the notice.

Won't you please confer with your Student Adviser and with the President or some member of the House Senate and Counsellors, if you find yourself confused about the directions. Your Social Director will be glad to help you in any way possible.

FINANCIAL REGULATIONS

Certain fees are charged for special services.

A fee will be charged for the use of a radio, for irons and other electrical equipment that may be used. Any damage resulting from the use of appliances will be charged against the student in whose name the appliance is registered.

The Social Director's office must be notified when students have over-night guests. A fee is charged for such guests. Guests should always be introduced to the Social Director.

Trays will be prepared for students who are ill. A small service charge is made for this. Request for trays are made through the Social Director not later than one hour before meal time.

If a key is lost, a charge is made to replace it. A fee is charged for unlocking a door when a key is misplaced.

A fee of twenty-five cents is made for unlocking the dormitory door before or after hours. If a group leaves, there will be only one charge, and the girl making the arrangements will be held responsible.

Property loss or damage will be charged against the "uniform breakage deposit" of $12.50 which is required of all students at registration. In case light globes are missing in rooms, they will be charged against the breakage deposit. Be careful to record on your room-check card any damage you find in your room as you move in.

Needed repairs in rooms should be reported by the occupants to the office of the Business Manager of the dormitory.

Remember that pictures and other hangings will damage the walls unless hung from picture molding.

Be careful about personal belongings. The college is not responsible for articles lost or stolen. Lost and found articles should be reported to the Social Director.

Each girl is expected to keep her room, and dust and lint are not to be swept into the halls. Room inspection will be made at intervals. At the second report of a disorderly room a maid will be employed to clean the room and the charge will be made against the occupants.

Outgoing and incoming long distance calls must be made and received over the pay telephone or made "collect." No calls may be charged to the dormitories. Penalty. Important messages, after the office is closed will be handled through the office of the Social Director.

The buzzer signals are operated as follows:

Persons having—

B key — 1 buzz for telephone call
1 long and short for downstairs call

C key — 2 buzzes for telephone call
2 long and 1 short for downstairs call

Emergency—regular signal repeated three times

Calls for a doctor are to be made through the Social Director only.

SOCIAL REGULATIONS

A student who is to be away from the hall in the evening is expected to sign the data sheet, giving the information called for. She need not sign this sheet when she returns since she will be checked by the Student Adviser on her hall at the hour designated for checking. This will prevent confusion at the desk.

Women students may use the lounge at any time that it is open and men may call in the afternoons and in the evening until ten o'clock on week nights, and at any time during the day on Sunday.

Hours at which entering freshmen women must be in their rooms:

8:30 p.m.—Monday through Thursday

Hours at which other students must be in their rooms:

Week-end hours.

12:00 p.m.—Friday and Saturday

1:00 a.m.—Dance nights

11:00 p.m.—Sunday night

Students on restricted privileges because of scholastic deficiencies will observe the 8:30 o'clock hour except on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Women on disciplinary social restrictions will observe the regulations sent them by the Discipline Committee.

All girls attending Artist Course programs or similar programs having the approval of the college must be in the dormitory within thirty minutes after the close of the program.

Women students residing in the dormitory must spend the night in their rooms in order that they may be located in case of emergency.

Dances which women students may attend will be scheduled on the Social Calendar which will be printed in the Toreador.

Students may not leave the college for the week-end except by special permission from their parents. This must be sent to the office of the Dean of Women not later than Thursday noon.

Permission is not granted for week-end visits with friends in town except for holidays.

Women students are not permitted to visit in men's boarding houses or dormitories except for special affairs which have been definitely arranged for either with the Social Director or the Social Activities Committee.

It is particularly necessary that women students understand that unauthorized absence from the dormitory, drinking, and improper conduct of any kind are matters which will be referred either by the Women's Self-Governing Association or the Social Director to the Women's Discipline Committee. This committee will cooperate with the Women's Self-Governing Association in every way possible in making the life in the dormitory thoroughly satisfactory for those students who have come to college for the purpose of study and achievement. In these times there is no place on a college campus for any person other than one with a definite purpose.

In the interest of both health and the defense program, students should have their lights out by twelve o'clock except where some special assignments require definite work. In this case, please see your Student Advisor.

These regulations are applicable to all boarding houses.

We Don't Study All the Time 'Cause:

Activities

Activities at college are as varied as personalities. Soon after school begins the Tech coed should investigate those that appeal to her. Some of the activities are listed here; these will give the coed some idea as to what the organizations are like.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Home Economics Club is open to any student on the campus who is interested in home economics outside of the classroom. It sponsors a loan fund sale to maintain the Margaret W. Weeks Loan Fund, and holds an annual spring banquet.

Sock and Buskin is an organization consisting of students interested in dramatics. Membership is secured by application and examination.

Pre-Law and I. R. C. (International Relations Club) is open to all students of sophomore standing who are interested in discussion of problems of current happenings and international affairs.

Chamber of Commerce Club is composed of students in the Division of Commerce for the promotion of fellowship for the promotion of Commerce for the promotion of fellowship and professional ethics.

Foreign Language Clubss Capa y Espada (Spanish); French club; Liederkrantz (German); and S. P. Q. R. (Latin) all offer a variety of interests to students in their respective departments, and promote a "homeland" atmosphere.

W. R. A. and Major-Minor (Women's Recreational Association) consists of all women students interested in athletics. Among the various sports offered during the year are tennis, riflery, volley ball, archery, ping pong, and golf. To be eligible for membership one must obtain 50 points a semester in one or all of these sports.

Other clubs of interest to girls include the following: Philosophical Society, Pre-Law Club, Pre-Med Club, Biology Club, and Gargoyle Society (Department of Architecture and Allied Arts.)

Social Clubs include five all-girls' social clubs. Membership in these is by invitation. These clubs sponsor a Loan Library for the benefit of women students who need the service. Members of social clubs are active in other organizations and campus life.

Membership in one of the many organized church groups will afford the coed an opportunity for many happy and profitable associations with college students.

HONORARY ORGANIZATIONS

Freshman Honor Society is a scholastic honorary society for freshman and first semester sophomore girls who attain at least an "A-" average. The aims of the society are to promote scholarship and leadership among the freshman girls.

Phi Upsilon Omicron is a national home economics fraternity and selects its members on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and personality.

Forum is composed of fifteen senior girls outstanding for leadership, scholarship, and character.

Alpha Chi is an organization whose invitation for membership is sent to only a limited number of the highest ten per cent of the junior and senior classes. Its members boast the highest intelligence quotient and grade point average of any campus organization.

Theta Sigma Phi is a national organization for journalism students. Eligibility for membership is based on outstanding work in journalism and maintaining a "B" average on all journalism courses and a "C" average on all college courses.

Sigma Delta Pi is the national honorary Spanish fraternity "to foment a wider knowledge of and greater love for the Hispanic contributions to modern culture." An average of "B" must be maintained in all Spanish courses, and "B—" in other work.

Sing, Sister, Sing . . .

These are our school songs. We are all very proud of them and all Freshman should learn them "first thing" . . . no telling when some domineering upperclassman would like an audition.

The Matador Song sung before each football game:

Fight, Matadors, for Tech;
Songs of love we'll sing to thee
Bear our banners far and wide
Ever to be our pride.

Stand on heights of victory.
Strive for honor evermore;
Fearless champions ever be;
Long live the Matadors!

The College Hymn

O College Mother, Beautiful,
Our hearts go out to thee;
We raise our voices in a prayer
For thy prosperity.
O College Mother Beautiful,
Long be thy life, and blest,
May God crown all thy nights and days
With love and joy and rest.

O College Mother, Beautiful,
We love the words of truth
Deep graven in thy brick and stone
To guide the ways of youth.
Long may thy finger point the way
That earnest youth should tread,
And may the blessings of the free
Be ever on thy head.

The new Tech fight song, RED RAIDERS, written especially for Tech by Fred Waring:

Let's go RED RAIDERS, Let's every man get in the fray,
Let's go, RED RAIDERS, Let's fight until we win the fray,
The bells of victory will ring out—and ev'ry heart—
In Texas Tech is gonna sing out.
We'll show the foe—a Matador is master,
Oh we'll show the foe—the meaning of disaster.
They'll turn their backs—to the Texas Red and Blacks—
They'll run like hell, we'll ring the bell,
And show who wears the crown,
When the Red, Red, Raiders go to town.
Let's give a cheer, boys, send it down the field,
Let's make it clear, boys, Tech will never yield.
We'll give the Raiders' name a greater fame.
We'll show the foe we're out to win the game.
Hi Yi De Yi, they'll soon be bounding back,
Holding on high our glorious Red and Black.

Now Let's Take an Inventory

THE CLOTHES LINE

The Tech co-ed dresses for comfort and neatness. On the campus she wears low-heeled shoes, soft sweaters or blouses, and contrasting skirts, jackets, and suits. Sweaters and skirt are probably the most popular costume for school wear. It is not necessary to have a great number of these. Two skirts, three sweaters, and two or three wash blouses will see you through nicely, if you use discretion and get these in colors that will harmonize so that you may switch them around and make several different costumes. Accessories add variety to this group. A large harmonizing scarf is worn on the head, peasant style, when the sand is blowing. Otherwise, the coed goes bareheaded on the campus.

In the spring, tailored cottons will be comfortable in classes on warm days. Anklets are worn with oxfords and sport clothes only. For the spring picnics, slacks are appropriate.

The girl selected to take part in the Recognition Service is expected to wear a white spectator dress, without colored accessories. With this dress, she wears sport shoes. This same dress will do for initiation services when white is required.

FOR THAT SHINE

Your make-up should be applied so that it will be pleasing and inconspicuous. It should harmonize within itself and with your costumes. It is all right to freshen your make-up in public provided you don't make a ceremony of it and don't call attention to yourself. It is considered wiser by the Tech coed to let her "boy friend" think she is just naturally lovely and not let him see how she achieves her glamor, so let your judgment guide you.

Nothing can take the place of good soap and water, but creams should be used, too, since the West Texas winds are drying to the skin. Don't use your roommate's cosmetics, puffs, or comb. The use of such articles is unsanitary and in poor taste.

The Tech coed shampoos her hair once a week, keeping it clean and neatly combed. She does not meet classes with her hair in rollers. She brushes her hair often with a good brush to make it gleam with life.

In spite of the constant magazine advertising about dependable deodorants, many girls neglect the use of proper deodorants and thus lose their personal charm of daintiness. No coed can run the risk of losing friends and chances of promotion by being careless in this matter of careful grooming.

Watch Your P's and 2's

DATING

Next to eating and sleeping, the best thing in life is dates (and we don't mean the variety cultivated in Egypt.)

Coediquette

Never break a date with one man for another. You may change your mind in a restaurant but you can't reorder men as if they were Blue Plate Specials. Once you've picked him, you're stuck with him. More advice, telephone a man only if necessary. He usually sees through flimsy excuses. This is safe only when he is the "just like a brother" type. When you must refuse a date, do so graciously and in a straightforward manner. It is humiliating to keep a man dangling on a hook like a piece of bait while you see if something bigger and better isn't coming your way. If you have another date, say so, but not in that "how dare you think I didn't" tone of voice. Perchance you would like to go out with this male who calls when you are busy. You can convey the impression of warmth of tone, friendliness, and genuine regret that you cannot see him at the specified time. All we ask is that you do not put the poor devil on a spot by saying, "I'm not busy Sunday, though." We females must never be too obvious, or the ostrich will pull his head out of the sand and run.

When out with your date, let the conversation turn to topics other than to the men who have taken you out or the girls your escort dates. You will both end up mistrusting each other. Be a good sport even if you are sunk in boredom.

Blind Dates

We shun them, shudder at them, seek new thrills in them, and laugh at them; but everyone, out-of-town freshman to big-shot senior, indulge in them—blind dates. Once you take the "risk" and accept one, be nice to the "blind," even if he doesn't live up to the description. If you get a lemon instead of a date, be a peach about it. In this modern day, the boy doesn't always ask the girl out. Happily or otherwise, it's sometimes the other way around. In fact, after a girl has gone out with a boy several times she shows manners as well as interest by asking him to a dance, Sunday dinner at home, or some other function where she foots the bills.

You've heard the saying, "There's gold in them thar mountains," but it doesn't mean in men. When they ask you to go coking, don't order a double fudge sundae with nuts. You may supply the concern with a new dishwasher.

So you're walking? It's correct to keep him at your left. But most of us are still clinging to the old-fashioned custom, and we hate to be put on the outside. Play your part in the shifting of positions at street corners and, he'll soon notice that you prefer the inside. If you're walking with two men, walk between them. But if you and your roommate are sharing one man, put him on the outside.

Oh, you're riding? It's wonderful—let him open the door for you, so he can feel like Sir Galahad. Your procedure when arriving home depends upon the car and the time. If Josephine needs personal attention and coaxing to keep purring, or if it's two seconds before the fatal stroke of one, be a bright child and open your door.

If you go to the theater, follow the usher and let your escort tag along behind. Or, if there is no usher, follow your man down the aisle, squaw fashion. In either case, you have the privilege of stating your choice of seats.

When dining out, follow the head waiter or your date to the table or booth. Keep your gloves and purse on your lap—no fair above the board.

Now we come to the "how far should a girl go" business. This is absolutely up to you. If you want to watch the moon come up, there are benches conveniently placed around our campus. If you stoop to "necking," do it in a secluded spot, which does not include the lounges of the dormitories, the steps or lawns in front of the dormitories, or the Avenue. A really charming girl need not resort to this pastime in order to hold her date, say we in sly comment.

DANCING

At a formal dance always see that you and your date meet the chaperone. The coed should suggest this.

For the girl to refuse to dance with one man and then immediately dance with another is an open affront to the first one. It's too bad but if she dances with one she will have to dance with each of them and pray that it won't be a long dance. May we suggest that if you can't dance, you try to learn in some place other than on the ballroom floor.

Dancing on the Avenue is one of the favorite pastimes of the Tech coed. Here you can try out the latest steps without fear of being too conspicuous, as long as you never forget that you are a little lady.

The big dances of the year are the Sophomore Hodge Podge, Junior Prom, Freshman Dance, Military Ball, two All-College Dances, and the various social club formals.

For the formal dances, you may expect a corsage, but do not feel hurt if you don't get one. Flowers may be worn at the semi-formal dances, too, but it is the exception rather than the rule.

"HOWDY"

"A real lady," Robert Louis Stevenson once said, "is one who can meet a king without embarrassment, and a coal heaver without embarrassing him."

The most gracious form to use is "may I present" or more simply "this is." Simpler yet is "Mary Okes, Joe Dokes." A younger person is always presented to the elder; a man is presented to a woman, unless the man is unusually distinguished; for example; "President Whyburn, may I present Miss Tech?"

"Miss Fair-Sex, may I present Mr. Tall-and-Handsome?"

"Mrs. Has-a-Man, this is Miss Looking-for-One."

"Mr. Octogenarian, Miss Teen-age."

But it won't do much good to say the right thing in making an introduction, unless it is said clearly. Don't be a mumbler. We've all had the experience of starting out at a reception with a perfectly good name of our own, only to have it jumbled beyond recognition after three or four introductions. Pause a moment before you start an introduction, speak the names distinctly, and take your time—and you won't fumble.

Acknowledge with a smile and "How do you do?" If you wish to shake hands, it is your privilege as a woman to extend your hand. But people are often judged by the way they shake hands, so be careful and make your handshake a happy medium between a dead fish and an Amazonian strangle-hold. Make it gentle but firm, and brief. And never refuse a hand extended to you.

COURTESY TO OTHERS

General attitude, willingness to cooperate, and your house manners are important. The houses have many rules of discipline that are necessary to keep a group of girls living in harmony. If you feel regimented and smothered with regulations, remember that the happiness of many is worth more than the happiness of one.

General Attitude

What are your reactions to the duties assigned you and are you willing to comply when requested to do something for the good of your organization? Grumbling and scowling when you have hostess and telephone duty or when you must attend house meetings will make your presence in the house far from welcome. These tasks have to be done. Since all students are equal, you have to do your part as well as the next one. Whole-hearted cooperation will always make you an asset to any group with which you are connected.

Housemother

She is the head of the house. Her wishes and suggestions should receive the same courteous respect as any mother receives in her home. A housemother is a counselor, guide, and friend, but she also must maintain discipline and order. She and her assistant are always accorded every courtesy. You should rise when they enter the home.

PHONETTIQUETTE

The only part of you that the telephone records is the sound of your voice, since television hasn't been installed yet. Does your phone record a warm, vital and interested voice, or does it make the person who's calling feel guilty for having disturbed you because of your dull, aggrieved voice? Remember when you answer the phone, that it might be for you, so use your best voice.

And if it isn't for you, do you let them know that you've lost interest at once? Do you say, "Oh, yeah, Mary. Just-a-minute," with a downward inflection that hits low C? Or do you say "Mary? Just a moment, please, and I'll see if she's here."

Never be guilty of shrilling out an awed, "Mary, telephone, and it's a man," in an excited soprano voice. Or, there is the other extreme with a dead, "Telephone, Mary, it's just a girl."

The pet peeve of most people is the length of time other people talk on the telephone, so don't let yourself be the guilty party. Three minutes should be long enough. If it isn't, the conversation is too important to be given over the telephone.

Are you a doodler? If you are, just leave your pen or pencil on your desk before you take that phone call. Intelligent remarks like "Foo on you," or "Betty loves Johnny" aren't meant for a permanent record of the exploits of the science age to be read a thousand years from now. If you want to, think these thoughts, but don't make them immortal.

CAMPUS BEHAVIOR

Avoid peculiarities of dress and manner that make you conspicuous. Arrange your dress and hair before you leave your room; the class room is not the proper place for repairs.

Do not talk loudly, use slang, or chew gum; such crude behavior is objected to on our campus. The coed also frowns on such things as cleaning the fingernails in public, sniffing, feeling of the face, and twisting curls. The library is provided for plain and fancy studying. A small amount of conversation may be legitimate, but an hour of steady talking and giggling will be very annoying to those trying to study. The Tech coed is simple and democratic in her attitude toward her fellow students. She takes part in campus activities and speaks cordially and courteously to those whom she meets. She remembers that a smiling "hello" which includes the use of your name makes a lasting impression.

Borrowing

"Loan oft loses itself and friend." This is particularly true on a large campus. If you do borrow, be sure that you know how your friend feels about lending. It is always difficult to refuse to lend; don't embarrass others who do not approve of borrowing or lending. But if you do make an arrangement, be sure to be thoughtful enough to return the articles in as good condition as they were when they were borrowed. Don't write on borrowed books; don't fail to return them on time. Don't borrow anything that has not been used. Your friend has a right to the first thrill of the new dress.

Corridors and Walks

Give yourself time enough to reach your class room or bus station on time; it will not then be necessary to crowd or hurry other people. It is rude to block halls, walks, or stairs by holding conversation. Step to one side if you must finish a conversation already begun.

In the Spring a girl spends much of her time on the campus with the "boy friend." She should be very careful to retain a dignified and lady-like manner.

Conversation

To be a good conversationalist, one must have a genuine interest in people. At the first of school be careful not to talk too much about home since there may be girls present who are homesick. Do not monopolize a conversation. Slang is not disagreeable when used occasionally, for spice. Swearing shows one's lack of imagination. There is always a more clever way to express emotions.

Do's and Don't's

1. Do not talk too much about your high school accomplishments. See that your record in college speaks for itself.
2. Do not "gripe." A person who grumbles continually is a decided bore.
3. Do not gossip.
4. In your discussions consider the religious or political feeling of others.
5. Do not discuss strictly personal matters in the presence of strangers.
6. Do not discuss relative merits and faults of teachers; this is decidedly not good taste.
7. Do not ridicule someone who is not present. It is very rude.
8. Avoid unpleasant or embarrassing conversations; quietly change the subject.
9. Do not let the word "I" clutter up your conversation.
10. Do not interrupt a topic of conversation to change it to one you prefer.

IF YOU INDULGE

If you smoke, smoke for smoke's sake, not to show people how daring you are for having learned how. There are a few tips on smoking ethics that every girl should follow. If you don't know how to smoke well, practice in the privacy of your own room. Once the coed has the habit she does not regard all non-smokers as prudes and prunes. She is considerate of her date and does not always "bum" cigarettes. If her allowance doesn't allow for the "wicked weed," she doesn't start the habit because girl friends don't appreciate constant "bumming" either. She never smokes on the dance floor; her escort doesn't either. She doesn't smoke where smoking is not permitted—for example in the library building and the dining room of the dormitories. She is courteous in remembering that smoke sometimes irritates non-smokers. In short, if she desires to smoke, she does it in a well-bred, expert and casual manner. But remember, she doesn't have to smoke in order to fit into the group. She may say a mere, "No, thank you," when offered a cigarette if she'd rather not start a habit she'd be ashamed of back home.

BULL SESSIONS

"Bull session" is the college slang for those gatherings when you sit in dozens on the beds and on the floors, hair in curlers, and face well-greased, discussing such interesting topics as men, roommates, careers, and religion. These are the most intimate moments of a coed's college days. She often opens her eyes to new and mature worlds. The attraction of association with groups of girls is, therefore, great. She will get out of her college friendships exactly what she puts into them. She must remember that membership in any group means work and responsibility as well as fun. The people you know and the things you do can make or break your college career.
