This the day and year above written

I am told that nearly all Wills known to the English law of the olden time, by some expression, recognized the solemnity of the act, and also, by some expression, recognized that God was the giver of all good; so that the fact that the Testator possessed some earthly treasure, some disposition of which affection and conscience suggested should be made of among those most loved, who yet abide here after the Testator shall have departed this life, was and is to my mind an important consideration: - Therefore, invoking God's guidance upon the disposition to be made of my earthly possessions, I now make and declare this to be my last will and testament revoking all others, if any shall have been made. Indeed, I have never made any such instrument until now.

1st. I give and bequeath unto my beloved husband, John Waring Hampton, all properties of whatever kind - real, personal, chooses in action, or mixed properties wheresoever they may be, for and during his natural life, that he may enjoy the use and income of same, and having full control and management thereof; except some of my personal belongings, of no great value, of which I have made a list - too tedious to be incorporated in detail in this document - and delivered same to my ^{said} husband for his guidance in the bestowment of the said belongings, knowing that if he survives me he will perform my will in this matter.

2nd. Having given the management and control and income of all my properties as above, it may be well to specify that the real estate, nearly all of which is situate in and near Ashland, State of Kentucky, and believing its proper and profitable management might keep him there, when his desire might be to spend his ensuing years for the most part with our two children - William Ireland Hampton, who now resides at Fort Worth in the State of Texas; and Pamela Dorcas Miller, wife of Dr. J. L. Miller, who now resides at Thomas, Tucker County, West Virginia, and at whose home this will is being prepared; in view of this fact, I hereby clothe him with full right and title to all my real estate whether held jointly with others or severally, thus giving him power to sell and convert the same, all or any part thereof, into cash that he may loan the same on first class real estate securities in any stateshis judgment may distate, thereby giving an income that will require less attention than real estate. The investment thus to be made, the notes and mortgages or other securites to be made in his name as my executor under this will; or if he thinks best to invest in other real estate, or in any thing else by way of loan as above mentioned, then it must be by the consent of our said children, or by the consent of their personal representatives should they or either of them die before him.

Louisa Virginia Hampton.

3rd. All the principal of my estate of every kind and description, after the death of their father, shall be divided equally between our said children - William Ireland Hampton and Pamela Dorcas Miller; or their heirs, should either or both of them die leaving heirs, to take his or her part or moiety of the principal of my estate. and in the presence of each other, this the day and year above written.

4th. I have often wished to be able to give something to aid some charitable cause, as many are near my heart, but my husband and myself have given the prime of our lives to the cause of Christ and his church; and most that I have to bequeath now came to me directly or indirectly from my revered and beloved father Judge William Crutcher Ireland, and I conceive from his character and act under somewhat similar circumstancesm this is what he would advise me to do, could he impart to me his wish from his present happy home and existence.

5th. Having most explicit confidence in my husband's capacity and trustworthiness to manage my properties as affairs hereby committed to his charge, I name John Waring Hampton, my beloved husband, as my Executor of this my last will and testament; and request that the Court having jurisdiction for the purpose of probate shall not require of him any bond for the performance of his duty as such executor, that no appraisers of the estate be appointed by the Court, nor any future settlements be demanded by the Court of him, as my executor as aforesaid.

In testimony hereof I have hereunto subscribed my name in band and presence of the following witnesses, who by my request do and Christened the same on this the twenty-third day of August in the year of Our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Seven, at Thomas, Tucker County, West Virginia.

Louisa Virginia Hampton.

We, the undersigned, as subscribing witnesses, attest that the foregoing will was signed by Louisa Virginia Hampton in our presence, and we have hereto affixed our signatures as witnesses at her request and in the presence of each other, this the day and year above written.
