RE: TCR "Facts of Life"

Betty Anderson (Mrs. John A.) Program VP of the Lubbock League was here the other day to discuss the work she's doing on one of the amendments for the Voters Guide.

We were talking about many League things, and as we got into Publications, I showed her the charts you've made, Elizabeth. She noticed immediately that Lubbock has a nothing record for the "Facts" leaflet. Betty said that she bought 100 at Council and brought them home from Austin with her. Which probably means that other LLs bought some to take home, too.

It may be that in the pressure of Council business no record was kept of this - but I'm wondering if there might be some mention in your files, Veta? PR handled much of the presentation and work with the leaflets, so there might be some record of how many were purchased on the spot in that file.

It isn't of extreme importance, but we might have to give some Leagues the benefit of the doubt about whether they have any of these or not. I know that Amarillo did not take any home with them.

One other thing - that you may already know. Theme for study for AAUW for the next two years is something like "The Citizen and the Law" and it is suggested that local chapters include something on Constitutional Revision in Texas during these 2 years. The group here is having TCR for their first meeting this fall, with Dr. J. Wm. Davis as speaker. Vera Young is a VP in the Lubbock League and also active in AAUW...in fact, she arranged this program.....but she hadn't thought of distributing our "Facts" leaflet until I suggested it. Could we suggest to all our LLs that they contact their local AAUW to offer assistance and material if desired on TCR? This is one group that is not included in our list of 40 possible distribution areas.

(except with Voter Guides) Veta - how about a memo on this, with the August & program meeting? Perhaps a memo could attend the timeliness of spreading distribution - any mention of AAUW would be mentioned in your Aug/Sept issue.

Dear Mrs. Brownscombe,

Welcome to the State Board! I've heard many fine things about your capabilities and am looking forward to seeing you next week and to working with you on the Board.

Re: Memos of 3/3 and 3/5/67 (May) and 3/7/67 (Lancaster) on TRL proposals on S-LR and our legislative action thereon.

This is probably too late to be counted--all the time I could give to the League these last two weeks has had to be to local Leagues, especially the Dallas League's finance campaign.

I favor support of five of the six bills and constitutional amendments embodying the TRL recommendations as described in Rose's memo of 3/3, with the technical changes (tightened wording, etc.) pointed out by Janice in her memo of 3/5. There are specifics in these about which we have no consensus, to be sure, but in my opinion that should not rule out support. Clearly the Leagues did want greater flexibility in local government, and they wanted local government to be able to be more responsive to changing conditions. These bills and amendments loosen the straitjacket on local government, therefore I think we can support them under the consensus. Especially can we support them, I feel, because they are permissive, with the local voters having the final say as to whether provisions are to be carried out in their locality.

With regard to the remaining bill (Local Government Assistance Agency; Municipal Incorporation Review Board) I favor our supporting the agency only. Since the agency is what would administer the Interlocal Cooperation Plan and the Metropolitan Planning and Cooperation Act, which I favor supporting, I would want also to support the agency which will implement them.

So far as I know we have done no study along the line of a municipal incorporation review board, so I don't see how we can at present support that part of the bill. If the bill comes out of committee, however, still containing the provision for the board as well as for the agency I would favor re-assessing the situation and possibly supporting the whole bill in order to obtain an administering agency for the two bills (Interlocal Cooperation and Metropolitan Planning) which we definitely support.

I'm enclosing for Janice clippings from the Dallas Times Herald of 3/7, 8, 9, and 10 re Dallas County Judge Lew Sterrett's spearheading of opposition to the legislation embodying the TRL recommendations. Also enclosed is a clipping from Dallas Morning News of 3/11 re Tarrant County Judge Howard Green's support of the legislation.

RE: TRL Recommendations and S-LR Consensus

I shall make some statements, not necessarily in logical order, but to move us on, as we do need to interpret where we stand.

1. Having been on the Board less than a year, being the chairman of an item in which I have never been involved in depth, barely keeping up with new developments and much less having time to dig back sufficiently ....let it suffice it to say that I feel very inadequate in trying to resolve this problem.

2. 40 minutes at January Board was simply not sufficient time to discuss legal action on Amendment 7, our support positions on TRL, and how local leagues can act under our S-LR positions. The support positions received the least attention. Hindsight tells me I should have gone ahead and asked for permission for the off-board committee I suggested back in November and had a full ~~meeting~~ discussion with the Board committee plus these others on the content of TRL recommendations and related LWV support positions. I do not think we would have agreed necessarily but I would have felt on safer ground with a full face-to-face discussion behind us.

3. Those with strong opinions at this juncture are naturally those who went through different phases of this study over a period of years....blood, sweat, and tears....and no amount of reading through the files will replace opinions developed through their experiences.

4. Evidently the Board in working on SLR consensus in the past decided that the consensus should be on broad general principles (see SLR 1964-65 Consensus Memo Oct. 1964) and were aware that developments were taking place very rapidly in this field.

5. Our supporting these issues at this time is not based on permissiveness but on allowing a flexibility at the local level which requires a certain permissiveness at the state level, but with the state setting the stage. This includes both thoughts in the "support of flexible structure and adequate powers for local governments in Texas consistent with state responsibility for effective government"

6. I do not think by supporting the TRL package we are saying that all their studies and proposals cover exactly the problems we studied and just how we chose to solve the problems. I quite agree with Janice's wording (bottom p. 1; 3/5/67) that we can in good conscience support "in principle" the TRL package of proposals as being in line with the general tenor of our four-year SLR study results. I also agree that there are certain specifics which we haven't touched on (the whole idea of the Municipal Incoporation Review Board at the state level, state aid for studying and implmenting inter-local cooperation; state aid for COGs). I also agree that we will be more effective in making our support statements discriminatory with specific examples of some of the areas we do support and why, and at the same time put across our broad concern for "making local government in Texas more responsive to changing conditions."

7. From the consensus sheets (March 1965), although numbers do not indicate a large number of Leagues being for some one way of doing things, I think the Leagues did say that state law should be less restrictive, that local communities should be given optional forms of government at the county level, that the county should be able to add other municipal functions, and that the different local governments should be able to contract with each other when one could perform some duty better than the other. There's no reason to believe that all 35 Leagues could or should agree on what specfic functions....one county might be thinking of police powers; another zoning - depending on their local problems. The point is that they seem to feel they should have the opportunity to decide at the local level what best suits that locale and at the same time recognize that the statehas some responsibility for effective local government (we didn't go into what responsibility). I find that there are enough in the two bills (Interlocal Cooperation and County Land Use) and two resolutions (Urban Counties and Optional Plans for County Government) so that we can come out as supporting them in principle and in specifics.

8. The Local Assistance Agency stumps me. The one specific we can support is more accountability and regulation of single purpose special districts. The principle that I feel we would be supporting is "consistent with state responsibility for effective government." It would seem that more accountability for responsibility and more coordination at the state levelare implied here, but I do agree with Janice that we do not have the study and consensus to state what the role of the state in local communities should be and that it should be increased.

9. COGs is (are) next. I don't see why we can't support these as part of the package. Everytime we've mentioned them to LLs this past year we have indicated that they have great potentials and we might want further League study. I hope Local Leagues will want this. I think Janice's concern that we're putting something too important under a small umbrella is a legitimate concern. But, at any rate, many COGs are going ahead in areas of transportation and drainage and this is a vehicle by which cities and/or counties are given "more adequate and realistic power to perform services without overlapping costs and taxation." It also incorporates our support of metropolitan regional planning. Once again we can point out specific areas that we support.

10. and final. I will rework Workbook II, including technical changes Janice has pointed out. But I would like to hear from you and your general and specific reactions to this. You all have all the correspondence, I believe, from the middle of October on. (I'm copying Janice's memo of 3/3/67 for Brownscombe & Prashner). Please reread all this and give this some thought and react via carbons as soon as possible. I'm sorry State Office is going to have to wait on my two copies for Workbook II, but I think this is very important to get this ironed out now. I promise them both by the 20th. Don't know what else to do.

11. and really final. I am so blankety blank impatient for Mr. Stork by this time that this upheaval has been a welcomed breath of fresh air.

To: Joor, Casperson, Lancaster Re: Legislative Support of TRL proposals
From: May

According to the grapevine, the six Texas Research League proposals will be coming up for a hearing very shortly. Both theTRL and Terrell Blodgett were delighted that we would be testifying in favor of them.

In view of Rose's condition, Ruth's load at SO, and Beulah's distance, I presume I shall be doing the testifying. So now is the time to give me pointers.

I have been questioning Rose very closely on why the LWV of Texas can support the whole package on the basis of our consensus. I have done this deliverately because I need to know for the testimony and also to answer any questions from local Leagues who care to question our free-wheeling. After all, there are liberals among our members who don't care much for the TRL.

Rose has given me many good answers. You probably know that I opposed our endorsement of all the TRL proposals because I do not believe we have the necessary consensus, this being based on the fact that I conducted the consensus one year for the SB, headed up the Austin League's S-LR committee one year, andhad access to all the records when I was S-LR chairman. Apparently, no one was much interested in or convinced by my reasons, preferring to rely on Dorothy Brown and Betty Pettis.

In view of my lack of conviction, I have had to rely on Rose and will have to repeat her reasons.

The one proposal that I am particularly skittish about is support of the Local Government Assistance Agency. I do not recall that at any time did we support state aid to localities. We did support accountability for special districts (only one of many political subdivisions). We do support comprehensive state planning which includes coordination of state agencies and can include coordination of their services to local governments. The Local Government Assistance Agency bill goes much further, providing for special education programs to upgrade local governments.

I am wondering if we might say that we support "in principle" many of the TRL proposals because of our broad consensus. This could get us off the hook if LLs should question us and it would be like what we did on the judiciary bills which applied to district as well as appellate judges (our position pertained only to appellate judges).

Your help on this would be appreciated.

The Governor's state planning bill has passed the house. The Governor's Office is soft-pedalling this one and would just as soon not have our support. We could give it on the basis of our comprehensive state planning position. In view of their request, I submit that we not do anything other than a FYI such as Rose has already done.

P.S. On theLGAA, we tried to get consensus on a State Department of Urban Affairs the year we were working on special districts. We didn't get it.

Re: Last gasp effort to alter Legislative action on TRL proposals on S-LR

While I'm still in the mood, I would like to protest for the last time the decision to support without any sort of qualification whatsoever all the Texas Research League proposals on State-Local Relations. (This is not because I oppose them; I'm for all of them with gusto.) After I have my say, I'll be quiet. I firmly believe that our consensus does not reach to all the proposals; and I believe we can be just as effective, if not more so, before the Legislature and our communities if we make some discriminations in our support, just as we do in election-voter registration proposals and all the others we consider. We would not be pussy-footing, but would only be League-like and democratic as a membership organization should be.

About consensus generally.

I firmly believe in general consensus that allows flexibility for implementa- by the State Board. But I differs with others in what "general" means in a given situation and also as to what "flexibility" is appropriate in a given situation.

To give an illustration. I feel very strongly that the LWV of Texas should have come to consensus (as it did) on the method by which TOR was to be realized. To me this is "general" consensus. How to do such an important thing as revising the state's fundamental law is just as important as the decision to revise it in the first place. Both decisions are basic and in this state, controversial. The LWV would be less than democratic if it failed to allow the LLs to have their say on the important issue of methods of revision. If I had had my druthers, I would have preferred that the LLs give us a set of alternative methods of revision rather than sticking with just one method, but most experts go along with the convention method.

Another illustration. Under the reasoning now being employed to support the entire TRL proposal package, it would be possible for the LWV to support the optional municipal sales tax--for two reasons: (1) It is permissive legislation; (2) It would enlarge the financial resources of our cities, and we are for "adequate financing". And yet, we cannot support this legislation (and we are not, which is wise). The LLs simply refused or failed to give consensus to us although we asked it on, I believe, two occasions. At President's Council, I remember, Gwen Murphree asked in vain for some kind of feeling on taxation in 1963 or thereabouts. Also, I remember the abortive attempt to get some kind of agreement in Victoria in 1964. You never saw so much indecisiveness or plain old ignorance about the sales tax and the property tax in your life. The Austin League split all over the place on the sales tax in particular. The record will show that the LLs did not reach consensus on any kind of tax decision, even the relatively simple one of getting the stateout of the state property tax business. The moral of this: Our generally worded consensus can get us into positions where this is obviously no consensus. We must look at the historical record and not rely entirely upon wordings. The SB has no business manufacturing consensus when it asked for it and didn't get it and therefore had to rely on general language and then later, relying on that general language states that we have consensus on what we didn't get it on. (How is that for sentence structure, Elizabeth????)

TRL proposals in general

I think that we can probably in good conscience support "in principle" the TRL package of proposals as being in line with the general tenor of our four-year

S-LR xxx study results. But there are many "specifics" and some "generals" where we simply have no consensus (which I hope to bring to your attention below). I think we should be discriminatory in respect to them.

One general area where we gave some attention but not enough in my opinion was the role of the state in regard to local governments. An important feature of the TRL proposals is that they enlarge the role of the state -- both in terms of regulation and in terms of assistance. Actually, many cities are not too fond of the idea of the state sticking its nose into xxxx these matters, especially in regard to federal programs. When we enter this controversy, we should know why we support an expanded state role.

Permissibility as a principle xxxxxx upon which to act.

When I got materials together for Blueprint for Planning, I wanted to emphasize the arguments for and against an enlarged state role in planning and in regard to metropolitan problems generally. One question which I raised and gave alternate answers to was this: Should the State government order local governments to plan or should the local xxx governments simply be allowed to choose to plan with few or no restrictions?(permissibility) I got no consensus on this point although the role of the state was a suggested subquestion under the genERALLY phrased consensus questions. Now, I find that we are solidly behind regional planning and COGS because they are permissive. Was my consensus analysis on this point faulty?

I think we can support regional planning and COGS on other grounds, which I will bring up in due course.

New municipal incorporations and state regulation thereof.

The TRL proposals provide a new and very strict way by which aspiring urban places can incorporate. The state is given a new role via the Municipal Incorporation Review Board and the Local Government Assistance Agency. The TRL is opposed to carefree incorporation of new municipalities, many in violation of the law which has not been enforced because the machinery has been lacking. The LGAA would investigate and make recommendations when incorporation is petitioned and the final word would rest with the Board. (This proposal ought to get some spirited objection in the Legislature since many people like to incorporate to escape the clutches of the cities and their xxx taxes.)

To my knowledge this particular problemx and this particular solution have not been studied. I know that we have studied governmental fragmentation and annexation, but I don't recall this particular problemx. When I worked in the Governor's Office this summer, I personally became familiar xxxx with it for the first time and I have read all the League literature.

I don't think we have a position here. We might "in principle" but I would like to know more specifically on what k grounds.

A State Local Government Assistance Agency (LGAA).

LLs like to go into organizationxxxxxxxal aspects of new governmental agencies. The State Water Pollution Control Board is an example. Note the specific consensus questions pertaining thereto. Yet, here we are supporting a LGAA without any LL consensus, let alone any guidelines to the kind of state agency we want to assist local governments. We studied the desirability of a state agency of some kind under our special district study. We did not come to any decision. Look at the record.

Assuming we had consensus, which we don't, we would want to discuss certain general guidelines on a LGAA. For example, should it be single-headed or a board ~~xxxx~~-headed agency? Should there be an advisoyygroup of some kind, such as one composed of local government officials? LLs typically get this kind of question when theyx ~~xxx~~ reach consensus on governmental organization.

Functions of a Local Government Agency.

To my knowledge, we have never come to consensus on the principle of state aid to local governments. We do have some literature on the subject, in planning and in taxation (we discussed shared revenues, state grants-in-aid etc.).

The LGAA would both regulate and aid local governments. Under regulation it would require certain financial reports. We do have consensus for special district accountability, which we could use on this; but then, there are counties and cities where we do not have any accountability consensus or study even.

Assistance functions of the new agency would be many and varied. Some we have never studied. Among the latter is the program to upgrade the caliber of public service at the local level by such means as special education programs.

As far as I know we have never freally come to grips with the problem of state aid to local governments. We could support some coordination on the basis of our state planning position but not all the aid given.

County reorganization plans.

We are on more familiar ground here after our study of counties. The LLs couldn' decide just what they wanted, county home rule or optional plans or what, but they clearly wanted flexibility and I believe this gives us support for the TRL proposals. The LLs have studied their own counties and ought to have good ammunition for this one.

County functions.

We're not on such solid ground here, but we do have some general agreement on more functions. I think only two or three LLs actually mentioned giving the counties the power to zone, but most wanted more ~~xxx~~ county functions.

Planning and COGS

We can go full steam ahead on regional planning, I think. The consensus on regional and state planning was strong and clear. There was disagreement as to the specific organization for planning, but in order to support planning we obviously will have to support some kind of organization for it. I think we can go along with the general position already spelled out by Rose on this one. It would have been better to look at the organizational aspect in depth, as I tried to do with my consensus questions, but at least we had League literature on planning organization and thinking on this subject.

As for COGS, they engage in other than physical planning. We can support them, in my opinion, insofar as they engage in planning under the planning item, and also because they are an effective way of dealing with regional problems of which there is League literature in Blueprint and other publications of ours. However, it grieves me that our literature was not complete on COGS, which are such a promising new developingnt in metropolitan areas.. We really need to get our LLs some more materials, of which there are many now, on these councils. Insofar as local League action on their own COG is concerned, they can do research here for local action.

Part II. Proposed Changes in the Workbook II information on State-Local Relations.

1. On line xix six of the first full paragraph dealing with giving permission to a metropolitan area to set up various "plans". The term "plan" has a technical meaning in the S-LR literature and I do not think this is what is intended in this context. Perhaps the term "means" could be substituted or else we could spell out what is intended. Do you include organization for planning and solving regional problems, for example?

2. The "2" point on The Metropolitan Cooperation and Planning Act. It is not true that the League supported Regional Planning Commissions in 1965. We had no planning positions at all until 1966 at the State Convention, and at that time we came out for regional planning, not specifying any particular type of organization, having not come to specific consensus on this point.

The bill does not actually "legalize" COGS if you imply that they are illegal now. We have several, as you know. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that there would be specific state legislation applying to them, where none exists now, and should there be any question about the legality of present or existing COGs, this would be erased by the new legislation.

3. The "6" point on optional plans for county government. There are several factual errors here, which I checked out with the Texas Research League.

The proposed joint resolution (it is not a bill, technically speaking) is basically directed at county plans of governmental organization and would authorize the Legislature to draw up alternate (or optional) plans from which the county could choose by vote. The Amendment lays down certain guidelines only and does not itself lay out the plans. The five subpoints are not plans; they are guidelines for the Legislature. The Amendment also removes existing provisions that might make it impossible for the Legislature to draw up optional plans. Furthermore, there is no guarantee that after the Amendment the Legislature would ever get around to drawing up plans. All the Amendment does is to make it possible for the Legislature to draw them up if it chooses to do so.

The Act concerning state planning was passed by the House on February 27.

I would suggest that you add the names of the sponsors to the bills or resolutions you are discussing. Also, include the companion bills, if known. E.g. SJR 19 Ex, Bernal (HJR 38, Nowlin).

On the Bexar County resolution, I suppose we could add that this proposal was drawn up by the San Antonio League in consultation with a SB director, me.

what I mean is — conflicting state constitutional provisions would give way to this Amendment

COUNCIL WORKBOOK II - STATE PROGRAM CURRENT AGENDA ITEM III
STATE LOCAL RELATIONS (See Workbook I, pp 15 & 16)

The Texas League of Women Voters will support the "package" of recommendations proposed by the Texas Research League, as summarized below. In March each Local League received a more extensive outline of these proposals. Please consult Workbook I and note that these proposals (a) set up state machinery to coordinate assistance to local governments by the state (No. 1 below), and (b) give permission to metropolitan areas to set up various alternate plans to solve local problems (Nos. 2 through 6 below). Further note that local league action on specific plans must be preceded by local league study and consensus in cooperation with other leagues involved and the state board.

1. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE AGENCY; MUNICIPAL INCORPORATION REVIEW BOARD (SB 228; HB 462)

Would be within the Executive Department; collect statistical information on local governments; coordinate state and some federal services to local government; provide technical assistance to local governments. The bill creates a Municipal Incorporation Review Board, outlines the mode of incorporation in Texas and the role this Board will have.

2. THE METROPOLITAN COOPERATION AND PLANNING ACT. (SB 227; HB 463)

The LWV supported Regional Planning Commissions in 1965. This bill legalizes Councils of Governments and provides for state assistance. COGs must have at least 51% elected official voting strength and will have more power in implementing plans. This is an area where the LWV may want further study. It's new and full of potentials.

3/ THE INTERLOCAL COOPERATION INCENTIVE ACT (SB 230; HB 461)

Gives permission to local governments to contract with each other; provides grants for studying specific interlocal cooperation plans; provides grants to implement certain interlocal cooperation plans.

COPY

4. COUNTY LAND USE PROTECTION ACT (SB 229; HB 460)

Provides for the Commissiomers Court to protect the public health, safety and general welfare by regulating land use and non-agricultural building outside incorporated areas. Cooperation with cities is required in the extraterritorial jurisdictions of incorporated areas.

5. URBAN COUNTIES (Proposes Constitutional Amendment to be voted on Nov. 1968) (HJR 33)

Defines an urban county as either (a) with population density of 100 per square mile; or (b) containing an incorporated city of 50,000 or more. Allows such counties to levy taxes for specific county wide services without regard to the 80¢ Constitutional tax limitations. Allows urban counties to provide and tax for additional services performed by a general law city in areas that may be unincorporated but urban, by special enabling legislation.

6. OPTIONAL PLANS FOR COUNTY GOVERNMENT (Proposes Constitutional Amendment to be voted on Nov. 1968) (HJR 32)

This bill is very controversial but is of much interest to us to provide more flexibility at the local level to allow cities and/or counties adequate and realistic powers to perform services without overlapping costs and taxation. The bill spells out five optional forms, summarized below:

a) Provides for the substitution of appointive officers for elective administrative officials, the power to consolidate duties, or abolish offices, if each change is specifically authorized by local referendum. (County Clerk; Sheriff, Assessor and Collector of Taxes; Treasurer; Justice of the Peace; Constable; Public Weigher; Inspector of Hides and Animals; and District Clerk.)

b) Fixing of qualifications, tenures and duties of either elective or appointive positions listed above.

c) Provides for the reorganization of the county commissioners court by authorizing 4 to 8 commissioners and specifying that they may be elected from precincts, at-large or some combination or variation thereof.

....SESSION TIMING....

We will have to watch this very closely for the time is short to hold this kind of "revolving meeting".

10 minutes allowed on the Agenda to get from the Ballroom to Little Meeting rooms where coffee will be ready for LLeaguers to help themselves.

2 minutes is allowed for each team to leave one room and be ready for next session.

Recorders will be responsible for notifying Discussion Leaders when there is 2 minutes left to wind up each session. Synchronize your watches sometime Wednesday afternoon before the Little Meetings start! Do not summarize!

Chairmen have the responsibility of starting the first meeting promptly at 4:40 This may mean beginning with the introduction as some members are getting coffee and finding a place to sit.

FIRST ROUND: 4:40 - Chairman sets the stage with 2 minute introduction
4:42 - Begin — Team 1 with Group A in Maximillian Room
5:00 - Leave — Team 2 - Group B - Colonial Room
Team 3 - Group C - Travis Room — not Colonial Rm

Team 3 - Group B - Colonial Room

MATERIALS: Recorders be sure to have pen or pencil and adequate supply of paper(not note size, please, but the larger notebook size)
Resource people have any materials pertaining to your portfolio that you may want or need to refer to. You will be bringing these anyway to have with you at the Swapshop Sessions.

DELEGATE GROUPINGS: Designation of which Little Meeting to attend will be taken care of with A,B or C on each badge given out at Registration Desk.

GUIDE FOR LITTLE MEETINGS - 4:40 to 5:40 PM - April 5, 1967

I. PROCEDURE

CHAIRMEN

A. Start and end each session on time.

B. Introduce self and Recorder (name, town, State Board portfolio)

C. Give purpose of Little Meetings:
   1. To give delegates and observers opportunity to discuss informally the direction they wish State Program Items and National Program to take in the remaining year of the biennium.
   2. To provide an opportunity for delegates and observers to have their questions answered informally and as fully as time allows.

D. List the rule for the Little Meetings:
   1. All delegates and observers will remain in this room for the entire hour.
   2. There will be 3 teams of State Board members who will move between the Little Meeting Sections.
   3. We will spend approximately 10 minutes each for discussion of the four State Program Items and 18 minutes for National Program. We hope to have a minute or two for summarizing at the end of each of the 3 sessions.
   4. Everyone....observers as well as delegates...has the privilege of the floor.
   5. Each person speaking will give her name and League, as usual, for the benefit of the Recorder.
   6. Each speaker should try to keep to the subject under discussion, be as brief as possible - and to the point - and not speak again until all others wishing to comment have had an opportunity to express themselves.

E. Introduce members of each Resource Team as the item is to be discussed, giving her home town and State Board portfolio.

II. Discussion questions are provided for each item. These may be changed somewhat at pre-Council Board meeting. Discussion Leaders will start the questioning and the Resource Team can provide the answers. Any plan must be played by ear, especially with such short periods of time for discussion. The main problem will be to keep the discussion moving and to cover as much ground as possible. (Possible exception to all this is National Program - where Nolle may see need to insert questions as discussion progresses)

III. Recorders for meetings will please give notes to Casperson immediately following the Little Meetings. If the discussion leaders or resource teams take any notes, and it is hoped you will, these too should be turned over to Casperson so she and the Program people may analyze them before the Program Reports on Friday.

AND A P.S. - There will not be time for summarization by the recorder at the end of each session.....just a brief recap by the Discussion Leader soon after the Recorder's warning of 2 minutes remaining.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS FOR LITTLE MEETINGS

NOTE: Those attending Area Conferences in 1966 indicated they would like another in 1967. Ask about this at the beginning...tell them to be thinking of the possibility of these covering some area or areas of Program...and do they really want the Conferences?

Also - Listen for mention of Single List Structure. Do they like it? Why?

You will be referring to State Program in Workbook I. Ask them to mark out Current Agenda in the heading for each Item. That is an error since we use only State Program designation, listing each Item equally but working with each in varying degrees of emphasis.

THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE (page 13 - Workbook I)

Did the first year's study bring out any areas of interest that were not covered last year or are projected for next year?

From past material received (Post Board Reports) and the Presentation heard this afternoon they know the proposed content for the Facts and Issues and that consensus questions will be asked for each of the four (4) areas to be studied:

1) Aids to the Legislature
2) Structure
3) Procedures
4) Outside Influences

A Leader's Guide is proposed for each of these. Would they use it?

Would they prefer to have these issued one at a time? As a set of four?

Could their League plan to reach consensus on Annual Sessions in time for us to be effective if such an amendment should be on a November, 1967 ballot?

TEXAS CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION (Workbook I - page 14)

How have you promoted the climate for TCR in your League? In your community?

Do you have a list of citizens such as those we call "opinion makers"? Have they received copies of TCReview?

How have you handled the Time for Action on TCR that called for early contact with legislators? Did your members write? Through League efforts, did anyone in your community contact your legislators? (You could mention here the reminder that copies of all legislative correspondence goes to SO)

Could and would you promote and help sponsor a Model Constitutional Convention in your town if State Board prepared guidelines? Where best? Schools? What level? Do you think it a good area for the LWV to work if it is feasible to set up the basic plans?

Any question about current legislation that you have not had the opportunity to have answered?

VOTER REGISTRATION AND ELECTION LAWS

pages 17 & 18 - Workbook I

What is your direction for the recommendation that we add an 18th Criteria to the 17 we already have for a Permanent Registration System? Would you like to have it placed first on the list?

Is there better understanding in your League and your community of what the words Permanent Registration mean? What are you doing to expand recognition of the vast differences between Permanent and Annual Registration? p8 Workbk II

(We could have a final ruling on the validity of the Amendment 7 election by Council time. This would call for discussion of the implications for the LWV no matter what the decision is.)

STATE LOCAL RELATIONS (pages 15 and 16 in Workbook I)

There has been no further study this past year on SLR. Direction from Convention delegates a year ago recommended that this Item be so treated for the first year of the biennium.

What for this year? Would you like to see further study in such areas as Councils of Government? Interlocal Cooperation? Optional forms of County Gov't? State-Local Financing?

What tools, if any, will be needed during 1967 - 1968?

Any questions concerning current legislation under our SLR Item?

Do you understand how LL can work? Consensus?

NATIONAL PROGRAM (pages 17-20, Workbook I)

CURRENT AGENDA

DEVELOPMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES:

What is your local League's involvement in your community's Economic Opportunity Act Programs? Have you conducted a local survey? Have you taken action?

Do you like the flexibility of National's permission for local League's taking action without first getting National or State Board approval? (Do all Leagues recognize this is possible with this item?)

FOREIGN POLICY:

How effective was your use of "Foreign Policy at the Crossroads? To the membership? To the community? Is your League prepared to take the action we will be asked for on the Trade Expansion Act?

CHINA: Local League reports show that this is an interesting new study for the members.

What specific aspects of the subject received particular of your membership?

WATER: See page 20 of Workbook I. Questions - second paragraph.

CONTINUING RESPONSIBILITIES

No present action foreseen.

Evaluation of experimental structure for National Program. Do you find it satisfactory?

How does it compare to the State Program - Single List structure? How is the Single List structure working out for those Leagues who have adopted this at the local level?

(DISCUSSION LEADERS: Bring sharp pencils to pre-Council Board meeting. There could be some changes made in the Discussion Questions)

RE: Assignments in connection with Program Little Meetings at Council

Each of you will receive the detailed instructions, material and timing for these meetings.....not later than the pre-Board mailing. But this will give you the assignments ahead of that. So this is just an alert as of today!

There will be three sections of delegates and observers meeting in three different rooms. Chairmen and Discussion Leaders and Recorders will stay in the same room throughout the hour period. Program people will serve as Resource and will move from one room to the next. Each Program person will serve as Resource for her own item.

Group A - Maximillian Room.....Mrs. H.G. Taylor, Chairman
Group B - Colonial Room.....Mrs. S.E. Ziegler, " Group C - Travis Room.....Mrs. H.C.Martin, "

The above will be in Workbook II.

Discussion Leaders: Mrs. Abe Rosenzweig
Mrs. E.R. Bronscombe
Mrs. Darol K. Ramey

Again....you will receive all that you need for these sessions and there will be time at the pre-Council Board meeting for review and discussion.

"WHO ME? A LOCAL LEAGUE PRESIDENT?"

When the nominating committee chose you for president, it was because they were looking for a very special kind of person. A League president does not need to be all things to all people; no one person can be. League presidents come in all sizes, shapes, and varieties. They differ greatly in leadership experience, in enthusiasm for the job ahead, in physical stamina, in extent of family responsibilities and cooperation from family, in interests, and in natural ability.

When you become a local League president, you don't suddenly change into a new wonder-person with the solution to all problems. What does happen is that you are faced not only with new responsibilities with which you will learn to cope, but also with a group of League members with ability and desire to help you. Sometimes the hardest thing for a new president to learn is that "leaning" on others is not an admission of weakness, but a recognition of the most effective way to achieve results. League board members gladly share their talents. A limitation of one board member can be supplemented by the strength of another, who in turn will need help from someone else in another area.

While this publication deals primarily with how to organize and manage the administrative duties of the president, the greatest emphasis in your own mind should be that the member is more important than the administration.

Some of the roles of a local League president are:

1) The official voice of the League. Official statements to the public are not always written or spoken in person by the president, but they are always made with the knowledge and approval of the president. The president and at least one other board member should approve a statement or letter before it is presented. A League president should avoid speaking "off the cuff" in situations that can result in a quick opinion being reported as an official League opinion. In order to safeguard the reputation of the League, it is better to say you have no statement at present than to respond to a spur-of-the-moment question and later regret it. It would be wise to write down and keep near the telephone a statement such as, "This is a matter I will need to take up with the board. I will be glad to confer with the board and let you know the decision in a day or two." If it is a radio station wanting to record the League's opinion, ask if you can call back in a few minutes so you can organize your thoughts and information.

2) The one who sets the tone for the board and the membership as a whole. It is obviously helpful to be calm, cheerful, optimistic, objective, positive, diplomatic, and to have a sense of humor. But, practically, a League president is also human and therefore has failings; these are seldom fatal to the individual, to the board, or to the League. Even mistakes that seem devastating at the time will be lived through and lived down, especially if you use them as a learning process rather than treating them as unforgivable sins.

3) The coordinator; the chosen leader of a team. A president presides at meetings, but does not make decisions; that is the board's responsibility. The president does not vote except in the case of a tie. Keep the team aspect in mind; each member has a part to play, no one more important than another; each brings a different set of talents; each fills a certain need. As president, think always in terms of the board, the secretary, etc., never in terms of my board, my secretary.

4) A good listener. A president often acts as counselor, arbitrator, confidant. Listening to board members' concerns is the first step in resolving conflicts. It can help relieve tensions and discourage withdrawal or hurt feelings. Never betray a confidence.

5) An enthusiastic rooter. Don't forget the pat on the back for a job well done, the thanks for time and effort spent. Be quick to share successes and praise. Help save face for someone who falls short. Everyone functions better when appreciation, recognition, and help is freely forthcoming.

6) A developer of leadership. A president who seeks the right role for each person or the right person for each role, who delegates and shares responsibilities, will be developing leadership qualities in others. This helps to insure a smoothly-running League in future years. Take the time to seek the right leadership rather than taking on the job yourself. Encourage League leaders to involve new members in important work. Always work through the vice presidents.

7) A distribution center. Each local League president (or office, if there is one) receives League communications from the national office, the state office, and from other local and state Leagues. The president should be familiar with the types of mail being received - board reports, bulletins, Action Alerts, memoranda, and other notices. All should be scanned by the president; some need to be read carefully. Each must be forwarded quickly to the person who can make best use of it.

8) A telephone center. One of the initial surprises you will receive is the sudden increase in time spent on the telephone. It may be desirable to make a schedule of hours that are inconvenient for you to receive calls, so that board members will avoid these times when possible. Some local Leagues have a recording device to take calls when you can't answer the phone. Whatever the case, you will be talking - endlessly, it seems - to members, reporters, public officials, leaders of other organizations.

Some of the roles of a local League president might be totally foreign to your nature and can be better performed by someone else. Other roles you will learn, and they will give you a great sense of satisfaction and personal achievement. Becoming a League president should not mean giving up your existing interests, but certainly should expand your horizons.

At the end of your term, take a good look at yourself. You may be amazed at the extent of your growth in poise, tact, tolerance, patience, and diplomacy. This is part of the reward for being a local League president.

LEAGUE TOOLS YOU NEED

The basic League tools should be in a notebook which you can easily bring to each board meeting. A similar notebook for every board member would be very helpful.

Your Own Local League

- Bylaws
- Budget
- Membership list
- Board list
- Policy sheets (non-partisan and board)
- Committee lists
- Local program list
- Calendar for the year
- Publications catalog, if any
- Unit officer list, if applicable

In addition, you need a historical file for the year and the most recent copies of the following:

- Budget analysis or treasurer's report
- Finance report
- Board minutes
- Local VOTER

GETTING STARTED

If you are not serving on the board at the time you accept the nomination to become president, you will find it very helpful to attend as many meetings as possible of the old board. In this way you can begin to identify strengths and weaknesses of the method of operation and of individuals who may be continuing on the new board.

A. Your local League bylaws and policy sheet. Study them carefully. They are the official rules by which you must function. Be sure that you are familiar with the following points:

1) When do newly-elected directors and officers take office? Sometimes this is at the close of the annual meeting and sometimes at a specified date. Be sure also that both the retiring and newly-elected directors are clear on this point.
2) How many board members can be appointed in addition to those elected? The bylaws state the maximum, not the required number, thus providing a great deal of flexibility.
3) What are the provisions for a nominating committee? Usually two board members must be appointed immediately in addition to the chairman and two elected at the annual meeting.
4) What are the provisions for a budget committee? The Art of Budget Building suggests that a budget committee should meet in early fall for good planning and to stimulate innovative ideas.
5) Note the dates when specific functions or procedures are required:
   Annual meeting
   Calls to convention or council
   Board-recommended program to reach members
   Deadline for receiving program suggestions
   Board-recommended bylaw changes
   Proposed budget

   These are the dates around which your calendar for the year must be planne

B. Your local League budget. Read it and ask the treasurer or the budget chairman to explain what you do not understand. Be sure that your League has obtained an Employee's Identification Number (IRS Taxpayer's Identificat Number). Every League must have one in order to preserve the tax-deductible status of the League.

C. Local Program. Consult with the program vice president, the past president, and others to become familiar with current program and imminent activity.

D. In League - Guidelines for League Boards. This is the greatest accumulation of League wisdom you will find anywhere. Read it, refer to it, lean on it. If possible, make a copy available to each board member.

E. LWV-Texas Directory. An updated version will be published about the middle of the summer, but be sure you are aware immediately of the wealth of information it contains. This includes:
1) Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of:
   State board members and TEF trustees. Note which ones live nearest to you. Why not invite them to a meeting?
   State committee chairmen
   All local Leagues, state units, and members-at-large in Texas
   Field Service Representatives

2) Local Leagues identified by governmental regions:
   Congressional district
   State Senatorial district
   State Representative district
   County
   River basin
   Council of government

3) LWV-Texas Bylaws

4) Adopted state program

5) Tips for planning your local League calendar with a list of deadlines and suggestions for scheduling.

6) LWV-Texas & TEF budgets adopted for the current fiscal year and local League PMPs. These indicate the sources of revenue for the state League and plans for spending it.

7) Checklist for local board members. This gives information and requirements for communications to and from state and national Leagues.

F. State Board Contacts. The organization vice president is the state board member directly responsible for organizational questions in local Leagues. Changes in local League operations, such as a name change or a change in jurisdiction, must be cleared with the organization VP before final action at your annual meeting. Each local League is assigned a Field Service Representative (FSR) who is the one to whom you can turn for help, suggestions, a sympathetic ear, and through whom you can communicate with the state board. At times you may want to contact state board members about specific portfolio questions or for reasons of convenience, but the FSR is the person directly assigned to your League.

G. Organizing the Local League Board. It is neither necessary nor customary to wait until after the annual meeting election to begin planning for the new year. It is necessary to formulate decisions by official board action after the new term begins. The organizational steps would include the following:

1) Selection of portfolios by elected directors.
2) Appointment of additional directors for additional portfolios.
3) Appointments to off-board positions. The board decides which portfolios shall be on-board and which off-board.
4) Selection of executive committee or emergency action committee, if your bylaws provide for one.
5) Decisions on administrative details.
   Determine the method for distribution of material received to be sure that it promptly reaches the person for whom it is intended. If at all possible, plan for at least one DPM (Duplicate President's Mailing) from national and state, so that it can be distributed by portfolio. The president's mailing is then available for complete reading and for the official League file.
6) Selection of board representatives to nominating committee. This is the only committee of which the president is not an ex-officio member. The nominating committee can help identify potential leaders throughout the year, not just for annual meeting election.

7) Adopt a calendar for the year. You may appoint a calendar committee to bring recommendations to the board. Final adoption can be delayed until August after receipt of the LWV-Texas Directory and in time to send to members with the September bulletin (VOTER). Adjustments can be made during the year if changed circumstances warrant. A calendar serves three major purposes:

a. To identify dates for state and national reporting such as annual reports, membership lists, per-member payments, consensus reports, etc.

b. To schedule local meetings (unit, general, annual) in order to meet program deadline requirements.

c. To identify requirements of local bylaws. You will learn to work backward from the annual meeting date to determine times for local program planning, budget recommendations, nominating committee reports, bylaw recommendations, etc.

8) Plan time before September for:

a. Board orientation

Time for board members to get acquainted.
Time for new board members to learn board procedures.
Time to be sure that files are exchanged.
An ideal time to call upon your FSR for consultation and/or training assistance, if scheduling permits.

b. Setting priorities. Pages 25-27 of In League will be very helpful. It is important to have total board participation, and sometimes further member involvement in deciding priorities. Some local League boards plan a board retreat for this purpose. An overnight or day-long meeting away from the daily pressure of League work - and away from the telephone - can provide a relaxed atmosphere in which to evaluate past performance, identify strengths and weaknesses, and devise strategies for attacking problems. Intra-board camaraderie and cooperation are also enhanced.

c. Scheduling non-program activities such as membership orientation, finance drive, VS/CI activities, discussion leader and observer training, etc.

d. Review of non-partisan and board policies.

POLICY REVIEW

One of the first responsibilities of the local board as a new League year begins is to review the local policy guide and make any necessary changes. A committee of board members is generally charged with this review and then brings its recommendations to the full board for discussion and decision. When the policy guide has been approved, it should be sent to every member. This annual review should be specified in the policy guide.

In reviewing your League's nonpartisan political policy, refer to In League, pp. 10-11. The effort should be toward flexibility and away from rigidity; toward simple, clear language and away from ambiguity. Your League's standing and acceptance in the community is an important factor. Board policies that are too restrictive can seriously inhibit the League's ability to secure the commitment of its best leadership. Try to keep specific restrictions to a minimum; aim for policies that enable rather than confine.

If dues amounts and dues collection procedures have been removed from your bylaws, these should appear in the policy guide. A policy regarding the use of the membership roster is frequently included. The local board is free to develop whatever policies it deems necessary as oong as those policies are not in conflict with local bylaws.

Remember that a policy guide is only that -- a guide to decision making. In the final analysis, it is the responsibility of the board to study each situation on a case-by-case basis and consider what is best for its own League.

LOCAL LEAGUE ORGANIZATION

The Local League Function Chart which follows is a change from the conventional organization chart in that it shows functions rather than portfolios. Many variations and combinations are possible, depending upon individual interests and time commitments. Some individuals will be responsible for several functions at the same time, while others will perform only one. Every function will not necessarily be covered every year, nor will all the functions covered be performed by board members.

The chart makes no attempt to show the weight or time commitment of a function. For example, "Community contributions" is a sub-heading under "Income," which is a sub-heading under "Financial"; it is of major importance even though it looks insignificant on the chart. And PROGRAM looks like a small function compared to ADMINISTRATION and COMMUNICATION, even though a large number of members on and off the board will usually be carrying program portfolios.

To some extent the functions that you include in any given year will be determined by your decisions on priorities, but your decisions on priorities may also be affected by the individuals available to carry them out.

A sample organization for a board might be as follows:

President
Program Vice President
Organization Vice President
Public Relations Vice President
Secretary
Treasurer
Directors:
- Finance
- Membership
- Publications
- Unit Organization
- Local Program Study
- Action
- State Program Study (current)
- Natural Resources, at all levels
- Human Resources, at all levels
- VS/CI
- VOTER Editor

Off-board:
- Speakers Bureau
- Observers
- State Program (possibly several individuals, each with responsibility for one item)
- National Program (Several individuals, as under State Program)

Each vice president might carry one of the portfolios in addition to some administrative responsibilities. Each portfolio should have a committee to share the work and the planning. Watch for any individual who may feel overburdened or underutilized and adjust responsibilities in accordance with the individual's time commitment and availability. Look for ways to lighten the work load, including innovations that may be untested but are worth trying. Some approaches that have proved successful:

- Sharing resources with other nearby local Leagues.
- Dividing portfolios into smaller parts, shared by more people.
- Using experienced members like past presidents as consultants to help new members who may have more time but less experience.
- Creating a close relationship with a few other local League presidents, to share ideas and experiences, and to maintain your perspective.
- Deciding on priorities, with the resulting decision not to cover all aspects of program.

LOCAL LEAGUE BOARD MEETINGS

A. Purpose

The purpose of a board meeting is to evaluate what the League's leadership is accomplishing and to plan for the future. Both the evaluation and the planning should be in light of the members' response at meetings and in light of board members' beliefs as to what can reasonably be accomplished by the membership. Evaluation of accomplishments should be recorded in board minutes for assistance in next year's planning. (Did members like the change of format? Should we repeat it?) Decisions should be recorded in the minutes to remind board members who is doing what and why.

B. Sample Agenda

Administration

Minutes: Any additions or corrections.

Treasurer's Report: Previous balance, expenditures, income, current balance.

President's Announcements: Correspondence received and sent, invitations to speak, meetings attended, etc. Detail should be available but usually should not take up much board time. The president can give additional information on items of special importance. A list of all items can be helpful.

Organization

Membership: Prospects, plans for getting new members, plans for orientation, involvement, etc. Report of number of new members since last meeting, total current membership, total membership same time last year.

Units: Plans for coming unit meetings and briefing sessions, plans for board member attendance at unit meetings. Analysis of past meetings, attendance, and member comments.

Finance: Plans, goals, prospects, workers, advisory committee, etc.

Program

National, State, Local Program: Report on progress of committees for each item that has current activity. Board decisions on plans for meetings and consensus.

National, State, Local Action: Report of Action Alerts, plans for reaching the members and the public. Proposals for implementing local program positions.

Public Relations/Communication

Voters Service: Plans, publicity, etc.

Speakers Bureau: Dates, subjects, speakers, etc.

Publications: Information about new materials. Discuss plans for distribution to members and public

- more -

Public Relations: Plans for reaching the public, etc.

VOTER: Deadline, content, specific responsibilities, etc.

Adjournment - Total time, 2 1/2 - 3 hours.

Some boards use a timed agenda containing estimates of time needed for each item. Others find this too rigid. In any case, an agenda must be flexible to allow for emergencies, changes, absences, etc. The time needed for an item will change from one time of year to another, depending upon the calendar and what events are in priority position.

Change the order of reporting from meeting to meeting, so that no one is given the feeling of always being last. The suggested three-hour total time may be completely unrealistic for your League. If it is, give some thought to how much board time is being used for committee work rather than board decisions. Be sure that no one is left out because of oversight or a non-assertive personality, if that portfolio requires a decision. Keep meetings as short as possible while allowing full participation.

Because decisions are the responsibility of the total board, all board members should be expected to attend board meetings for the total time. If circumstances arise to prevent full attendance, the president should be informed in advance. Arriving late or leaving early should not become a regular, accepted way of life.

C. Preparing the Agenda

Minutes of the last meeting and the last meeting and the agenda for the coming meeting should be in the hands of each board member ahead of time. Direct contact with each board member to determine time needed is desirable. Larger Leagues will profit from an agenda planning meeting of the president, vice presidents, and secretary.

You will find it valuable to make provision for pre-board meeting reports from board members to be distributed to the entire board in advance. This is especially helpful in a large League or one that includes a wide geographic area. Such reports should be kept as brief as possible to cut down on preparation time and cost, and to encourage reading. They should contain a brief report on activity since last meeting, points on which decisions are needed, background on which to base decisions, and committee recommendations.

D. Parliamentary Procedure

The Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure says: "Parliamentary law is the code of rules and ethics for working in groups. . . . It provides the means for translating beliefs and ideas into effective group action." If you keep this in mind you will find that board meetings can be very informal; reference to parliamentary procedure will rarely be called for. The conduct of an effective meeting of a small group, such as a League board, requires common sense and courtesy rather than formality.

Keep in mind, however, that the board is making official decisions for operation and policy of the local League. A large part of your bisiness can be conducted by common consent. It is wise to have important decisions made in the form of a motion (moved, seconded, and either passed or failed). These are recorded in the minutes for easy reference later. Each item on which a decision is made should be stated clearly, so that each person will understand what is being voted upon. Responsibility for carrying out the decision should be clearly assigned.

* * * * * * * * *

N.B. The minutes are your League's only record of decisions, action, participation, and performance. Any pre-board meeting reports should become part of the official minutes. You may be surprised at how often the minutes will be referred to throughout the coming months. It is usually better to err on the side of including more than is necessary in the minutes rather than risk omitting important information that will be needed. It is, of course, always desirable to avoid wordiness.

THE FILES

There are many valuable suggestions about League filing systems in In League - Guidelines for League Boards. You will find that most of your questions are answered there.

As soon as you are nominated for president, a few hours or days spent getting acquainted with the current filing system will pay off in time saved throughout your term. Some of the advantages of spending this time before you take office:

1) You will know more about your own League than you ever realized could be known.
2) You will have a better understanding of other levels of the League.
3) You will learn how to find things in the files before the time comes when you really need to.
4) You may find the system so inefficient that you will want to change it. If this is the case, find a member who is experienced with files, and who has the time to help you make changes. There may be a past president or some other long-time member who will help cull out-of-date material. You should then end up with:
   a) A good current file, using a simple filing system.
   b) A historical file of past records that should be kept because they are not available elsewhere, but should not clutter your working file.
   c) A trash basket full of outdated masterpieces that are no longer needed.

Here are some of the important points to consider in creating and working with a filing system:

1) Keep it simple. Anything that works for you is a good filing system, but it should be simple enough for others to understand easily.
2) Be sure that everything is dated.
3) Within any one folder, file chronologically with most recent material in front.
4) If you mark the top right corner with P for permanent and T for temporary, also mark a date when the T stands for "trash" and the item should be removed.
5) To decide what is P, imagine that twenty years from now you are writing a history of the local League. Would this piece of paper help you tell the story? Local bylaws, bulletins, budgets, annual reports, program materials, and any action by your League at all levels should be marked with a P. Save state and national material as long as it applies to a current program or until it has been replaced by a more recent publication.
6) When removing something from the files for current use, be sure it is identified properly for return to the correct place. It is also wise to insert a sheet identifying the removed article and who has it.
7) If an item applies to more than one file heading, insert a cross-reference sheet identifying the article and where it is filed.

You may find it advantageous to use the same filing system as the state office; a copy of this system follows.

Diane B. Sheridan, President
LWV of Texas
1212 Guadalupe, #107
Austin, Texas 78701

Dear Diane:

Thank you for your letter of June 15. I appreciate your thoughtful expression of concern about the concurrence taking process at convention and the implications of this process on member understanding of the new position. I welcome your suggestions and clearly, we will take up your suggestions and others about how best to deal with this position at the July board meeting.

Reaching concurrence by delegate approval at the convention, I believe, could not have occurred without substantial member agreement through the various mailings that local Leagues had received. While coming to concurrence at convention is a road seldom taken, it is a legitimate way to reach a new position. It happens so seldom, that it must reflect wide agreement on the action taken.

I appreciate your expression of caution to the Texas League about the scope of the position. We will try to send a full position statement as soon as we can, and will reprint the whole position in the next Voter.

Diane, I will keep you informed about what we plan to do in answering your concerns. In the meantime, thanks for your concern and understanding.

With best wishes,

Susan S. Lederman
President

PROGRAM

National and State Program. Much of the basic research and preparation of resource material for national and state program items is done by those levels of the League and made available to local Leagues, It is the task of the local League to adapt these materials to local needs, practices, and plans. It is often desirable to expand the material through further research at the local level: this can help in understanding the relationships to local problems or to local program positions. This local expansion is not normally required, even if desirable, when limitations in time and people make it a hardship.

It is necessary, however, to decide on specific plans for presenting the program item and the resource material to the members, and to decide on the method by which member agreement/consensus will be sought. Pages 34-42 of In League give an excellent discussion of the entire area of League program and action, and include many suggestions for managing program and reaching member agreement. Remember that in 60 years of existence, the League has never been a static organization. Methods and procedures change constantly. Don't be afraid to try new ideas, but do help members understand the new methods so that resistance to change can be minimized.

Local Program. The local League is responsible for all work connected with local program. This includes choice of items, research, publication, presentation and action. Make plans and time schedules for carrying out all phases of a program item, from adoption to action. Preliminary plans might be made prior to the annual meeting, in order to present an "Outlook for Work" at that time. But be prepared for modification or rejection by the members. It is a responsibility of the members at anuual meeting to give direction to the board as to what they expect from the item.

An "Outlook for Work" should include:

- Statement of the item.
- Definition of the scope.
- Plans for both member and community involvement
- Estimate of time needed for research and preparation and for presentation.
- Suggestions for resource material needed and for possible publications.
- Ideas for number and types of meetings needed.
- Possible action the study might le d to.

The "Outlook for Work" is developed by the resource committee, based on member suggestions. The board accepts or modifies committee plans and relates them to the total workload for the year.

Each member of the League should have a record of the total local program. This could be in the form of a list of all current positions, or position papers which give a history of action and progress made on each item. Full records of consensus should be in the permanent League file.

ACTION

You may think of League action as Times for Action, Calls to Action, or Action Alerts from national and state. But all work in the community is a type of action. For instance, we act when we:

Attempt to influence community opinion
- through a Speakers Bureau
- by distributing publications
- by taking part in a parade
- by expressing League opinions on radio or TV, or to the press
- by talking to friends about League positions
- by starting a dialogue between diverse segments of the community

Try to get our message to public officials
- by getting acquainted with the officials through interviews
- by communicating with them
- by testifying at hearings
- by drafting legislation
- by lobbying

Engage in litigation
Join a coalition.

Check pages 38-42 on Action in In League, and the LWV-Texas publication, Taking Action: Guidelines for Local Leagues, for guidance and restrictions.

The object is to make it easy for a local League to take action when members understand and are in agreement, but difficult to take action that goes beyond member intentions or that might create a conflict between overlapping jurisdictions, with other local Leagues, or with other levels of League consensus.

When an Action Alert is received from LWVUS, send an official communication to the designated person in the name of the local League and send carbons to both the national and state offices. When the request for action comes from LWV-Texas, send an official communication to the designated legislator and a carbon to the state office. If the same communication is sent to a number of legislators, a single carbon to the state office is sufficient, provided that a list of other legislators receiving it is attached. If you make no response to the request for action, send a letter explaining why to the appropriate League office, state or national.

If you receive a substantive reply that would help our lobbyists, send a summary or summarizing copy to the national office if it relates to Congressional action, or to the state office if it relates to Texas legislative action.

When making a statement on behalf of your local League before a state legislative committee holding a hearing in your vicinity, it is important to check your remarks with the state board member responsible for the issue in question.

When LWVUS or LWV-T has already taken action or sent out a request for action, you may take further action on the same subject on your own initiative, but only on an authorized issue, not on a related issue on which the League has no position.

Action at the local level on local positions is based on the decisions of the local board. Timeliness, supporting and opposing forces, degree of member interest, and priorities for the year should be considered before deciding on techniques to be used, the degree of involvement to strive for, and even whether action should be taken at all.

PUBLICATION ORDERS

STATE

Presidents Mailing One copy of all new material intended for local League use, including State Board Reports, is sent monthly by first class mail to the president of each local and provisional League.

Duplicate Presidents Mailing (DPM) This is a duplicate of all material sent to the local League president, unless otherwise specified in the president's mailing. Price is $25 per year. Must be ordered and renewed annually for each person who is to receive it; subscriptions expire May 31 of each year. Almost a MUST for vice presidents and publications chairmen; valuable to all board members. Available to any member, but not to non-members.

discontinued

Standing Orders (SO) This order includes material every local board member should receive. The total number is sent in a package to one local board person, usually the publications chairman, for distribution immediately by mail or in person to the other board members who subscribe. Please note that the Standing Order number should not include those persons on the board who are receiving DPMs. Standing Orders cost $7 per year and all subscriptions expire on May 31. Available to any member, but not to non-members.

NATIONAL

Presidents Mailing One free copy of each new publication and memo intended for local League use is sent by first class mail as soon as it is available to the president of each local, provisional, and state League. The national office must be notified about any change in name or address (and please include the name of your League) of the president, or the name on file will continue to receive the mailing automatically, and the new president will not receive it. Send a separate letter which does not refer to any other subject; be specific; and be sure, once again, to include the name of your League.

No other local or state board member receives material automatically from the national office. If any wish to do so, a Duplicate Presidents Mailing (see below) is recommended.

Duplicate Presidents Mailing This is a duplicate of much of the material contained in the Presidents Mailing, and is available to any member, but not to non-members. It is furnished on a subscription basis, and must be ordered or renewed each year for each person who is to receive it. See current national publications catalog for price. Recommended especially for vice presidents and publications chairmen; useful for all board members. Subscriptions may be transferred to another member upon notice to the national office. Please include the name of your League.

OTHER ORDERS

It is most efficient to designate one person (usually the publications chairman) to order publications from state and national. This will help ensure that the proper prepayment is made and that the appropriate discount for quantity orders is calculated. Usually the treasurer prepares the check to accompany an order. Be sure the person ordering has current LWVUS and LWV-Texas publication catalogs, order blanks, and tax information.

CONTACTS WITH THE NEWS MEDIA

"Consider the press. Treat it with tact and courtesy. It will accept much from you if you are clever enough to win it to your side. Never fear it or despise it. Coax it, charm it, interest it, stimulate it, shock it now and then if you must, make it laugh, make it cry, but above all, dear pioneers, never bore it. . . ." Paraphrase of Sir Noel Coward.

Your PR director has arranged some interviews. What do you do? Let's take a look at a variety of situations you might experience during your term.

Newspaper Interviews

Interviews are a matter of being familiar with your topic. Know the 5 W's -- Who, where, what, when, why. It is most helpful to have something in your hand such as a press release or a copy of testimony. Whenever possible, take another League member with you; the PR director or the resource committee chairman can help cover important points you might miss.

Do not use abbreviations.

Make full identifications, such as Councilman Smith or Board of Education member Ms. James, etc. Reporters may know who those people are, but chances are the public doesn't.

If you must use "League language" (consensus, concurrence, resource committee, etc.), explain it.

Don't use bill numbers unless accompanied by an explanatory title, such as "Collective Bargaining Bill SB 275."

Reporters who are specialists (energy, transportation, etc.) will probably know the background, but general assignment reporters will not, In such cases, treat them gently; be precise, supply background. It is always wise to have extra copies of a release or statement to distribute.

Radio and Television News

Keep in mind that time is very limited on both radio and TV. Your answers should be concise. Short, simple sentences are clearer and easier for a listening audience to grasp. Avoid the use of too many statistics; you will lose the audience.

For TV, look directly at and talk to the interviewer and don't worry about the potential audience. Let the cameraman worry about the angle. You will be more natural and relaxed. Use gestures which are normal for you.

Radio stations often do taped interviewe by telephone. If you have a prepared statement, do not try to read it. You will not sound natural. Select the most important points and talk naturally.

- more -

Always have extra copies of statements you are making. Learn where the press table is located at city council, county commissioners court, board of education, etc., and leave copies. Do not wait to be asked. If you arrive early, you or the League member accompanying you can personally distribute your statement and call attention to the important points.

RELAX. Do not be afraid of the media. Approach them openly. The reporter is trying to do a job honestly and quickly and will appreciate your help. Members of the media frequently do need to be educated about the League. As a warmup for talking with the uninformed, try your hand and mind at these questions:

How long has the League been around? (A new segment of the women's movement?)

Why haven't you changed your name to reflect the fact that male members are welcome?

Isn't this action unusual for the League? (Nonpartisan policy.)

Are you really a registered lobby?

How can you expect to accomplish anything if you take two years to study it?

YOU AND THE LOCAL LEAGUE MEMBER

The member is the League. Don't allow yourself or the board to get so involved in the job of running the League that you let the member get lost.

Most members join originally because of a personal contact. Members are often lost because of a failure to maintain the personal touch. In a small League it is usually easy to know every member, but even then special effort is needed to maintain friendly contact. As a League becomes larger, it is increasingly difficult, if not impossible, for any single person to know every member. Extra effort is needed to compensate for this fact.

Recognize the importance of the local VOTER or bulletin. This is the only direct contact with every member, especially those who do not attend meetings. If it is sufficiently attractive, informative, and interesting, it will be read. Encourage the board and the editor to find ways of making sure that it will gain attention.

Urge board members to attend unit meetings -- as many and as often as possible. This puts the member in touch with the board and the board in touch with the member. Everyone gains.

Be sure that members are informed of board activity. Report to them in the VOTER and at League meetings. Effective League action requires member participation in that action, so don't leave them behind.

There should be a place in the League for members of all degrees of commitment. Some will lend support but not time or work. Others will work willingly but may need help in meeting financial obligations. Find ways to make them all a part of League, and be sure they know that their desired degree of involvement is really acceptable.

NEVER FORGET that the board's first duty is to administer the League as an expression of the collective will of its members. Regardless of how brilliantly a League board may be functioning, if the local League members are being left behind or shunted aside, the board has failed its primary responsibility.

INFORMATION FOR NOMINATING COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN --

LWV-Texas
PRESIDENT'S COUNSELOR 1980

Appendix I

The Nominating Committee

October is usually the time to activate the nominating committee. Make sure the board has appointed the two board members to the committee.

Seeking leadership in all fields of activity is the year-round responsibility of the nominating committee. In addition to a slate of board members to be presented to members at the annual meeting, you should be prepared to make recommendations for committee membership and for filling vacancies on the board at any time during the League year if the board requests this service.

Here is the suggested timetable to guide you in planning your work for the coming year:

EARLY FALL — Committee meeting -- Check bylaws and positions to be filled. Assign committee members to attend board meetings, unit and general meetings and workshops to observe prospects for potential leaders. Do all committee members have a copy of In League and your local bylaws?

LATE FALL — Encourage members to make suggestions. This can be done by a notice in the VOTER, or a nominating form at unit meetings. Interview board members, unit leaders, and committee chairmen for possible nominees.

DEC. & JAN. — Talent search -- Committee members attend meetings as observers to become familiar with likely candidates for office.

LATE JAN. — Hold another committee meeting to list prospects and one or two alternates for each position. Plan to contact those who will be asked to serve. Assign one member to talk with each prospect to determine availability.

FEB. — Work continues until slate is completed. Chairman should be notified as each acceptance is secured. It is a courtesy to announce the completed slate to the board before making the public announcement in the VOTER.

SPRING — Publish slate in the VOTER at least one month before the annual meeting. Publicize the right of the membership to present additional nominations from the floor, with the consent of the nominee.

ANNUAL MEETING — Present the slate to the members and move its election.

A GUIDE FOR NOMINATING COMMITTEES

If your local League is going to be an effective force in your community the leadership is extremely important. The nominating committee has the responsibility of finding this leadership. One of the most important duties a member can perform is to serve on this committee. To do the job well requires time, good judgment, imagination, and thorough understanding of the League and how it operates. The persons who serve on this committee should be well acquainted with the membership and thoroughly familiar with the responsibilities of the offices to be filled. They must be tactful, persuasive, and discreet.

The nominating committee consists of five people: a chairman and two members elected at the annual meeting, plus two members appointed from the board after the annual meeting.

Seeking membership in all fields of League activity is the year-round responsibility of the nominating committee. It should make recommendations for various committee memberships, and for filling vacancies on the board at any time during the League year that the board requests this service. The nominating committee should make sure that prospective leaders understand all the duties and responsibilities of the job they are being asked to fill.

GENERAL PROCEDURES:

-- Review the bylaws to determine the offices to be filled.

-- Read In League and consult with the board to determine the duties and qualifications of each portfolio to be filled. The committee nominates directors and officers and may pass on suggestions, but only the board should assign portfolios.

-- Attend board meetings, unit and general meetings, workshops -- all League activities -- to become familiar with members and likely candidates for office.

-- Consult the membership list and interest files.

-- Solicit suggestions from the board and committee chairmen for names of people who show potential leadership.

-- Solicit suggestions from the membership. This can be done through the VOTER, announcements at meetings, or nominating forms.

-- Try for a balance between new board members and experienced ones. Don't renominate persons merely because they have served well. Bring in some candidates who have never been on the board before. Rotation in office is the best way to ensure that Leagues will grow and develop new leadership.

-- Get an early start. Be on the alert year round.

-- Interview potential nominees. Discuss the importance of the position to be filled, and the opportunity the nominee will have to make a contribution to the League and to broaden League experience.

-- Be honest in explaining the expected workload. Make it clear that a board member is expected to attend all board meetings, help with membership and the financial growth of the League, and contribute to total board planning.

-- Discuss the nonpartisanship policy with each nominee. Discuss restrictions on partisan activities. Remember the purpose of the nonpartisan policy of the LWV is to ensure the confidence of the community. It is important that the community have full confidence that the League is really a nonpartisan organization; that its leadership is composed of those earnestly working for government in the public interest.

-- Avoid selecting individuals identified with one special cause, those who may want to use the League of Women Voters for any objective other than to carry out the purpose of the League, or those who are identified with highly controversial issues.

-- Nominating committee discussions should never be aired outside the committee.

Steps to a Successful Succession

If your League is going to have a new president, there are some simple steps you can take to start your successor off smoothly and ease those "pangs of transition."

FIRST: Be sure your files are up to date! It's a frightening enough experience for a new president to be handed the keys to the filing cabinet without also simultaneously receiving several overflowing boxes of "stuff" you "just never got around to filing."

SECOND: Help to familiarize your successor with your League's files, suggest a working calendar, explain the importance of careful attention to bylaws provisions, and make clear the working relationship with other levels of League.

THIRD: If subscriptions expire in the next few months, or the people who've been receiving them are not going to be on the new board, arrange for renewals after you've consulted with the new president. Make suggestions for handling the distribution of mail to the appropriate on or off-board members, explain how to use the various publications necessary to the smooth operation of the organization. Be sure your successor gets and understands the forms from state and national that must be filled out.

FOURTH: Discuss the community climate in which your League works as something that must be understood for maximum return on League resources expended. This would include the subtleties required in working with elected officials and their staffs, with the news media available to your League, with the leaders of other organizations. Explain where and from whom to expect honest information, advice, and support.

FIFTH: Make it evident that you understand things will be done differently because the two of you are different people, and that the League will gain strength from your differences.

SIXTH: Offer to give information and help when it is asked, and support at all times; but remember, once the annual meeting is over, that you are no longer president of your League.

SEVENTH: You can think of at least a dozen more additions to this list to make the job easier, things that by now you do as second nature.

EIGHTH: Enjoy your new life as an "ex" president.

The Annual Meeting

Review Annual Meeting section of In League, page 53.

Preparation for the annual meeting usually starts about four months in advance of the actual date.

Check local bylaws for the time for the annual meeting and for the number of members necessary for a quorum. The local board determines the exact date.

Set time and date and decide kind of meeting that is likely to have maximum attendance (luncheon followed by meeting, meeting followed by luncheon, meeting followed by luncheon and speaker, pot luck supper followed by meeting, etc).

The purposes of the annual meeting are serious and important. It is then that we take stock of what we have done in the past year and chart our course for the year to come. The decisions made at the aunual meeting to a great extent will decide for the coming year how important the League will be in our communities and how satisfying it will be to be a member of the League. The president and the entire board must be aware of the need to involve the members as widely as possible in each step of the preparations.

The purposes of this meeting are to adopt local program, elect officers and directors, adopt a budget, and make necessary bylaws changes. The League is member oriented. Full and active participation of the membership in the important decisions culminating in the annual meeting results in a greater sense of responsibility for these decisions and a deeper commitment on the part of every member to carrying them out.

There is room for imagination and humor in the way information is presented at the annual meeting. Consider, for example, the budget. If it is done imaginatively and in a lively fashion, it sells the membership on more than the adoption of the budget; it often sells them on working actively on the League program and in the League finance drive as well. Two essentials of good budget presentation are -- to have the budget on display where all can see it during the meeting, and to present an explanation of any item whose meaning or scope is not self evident. Some Leagues have copies of the budget and explanations, originally published in the VOTER, to give to members as they arrive at the meeting. Other Leagues have the budget printed, large enough for all to see, on poster board or a blackboard.

Presentation of proposed local program can often be made more vivid, too, through posters, flip charts, flannel boards, slides, graphs, enlarged reproductions of pertinent reports, etc.

Very important to the success of the annual meeting is having a timed agenda, carefully worked out by the board, and faithfully adhered to at the meeting itself.

Leagues in general find that the most satisfactory agenda is one which allows a minimum of time for routine matters and a maximum for matters (such as the budget and the proposed local program) which take considerable explanation and evoke discussion. Bylaws changes and the treasurer's report may, on occasion, require more than the routine amount of time, but the call to order, appointment of a parliamentarian, a timekeeper, and tellers (if these are to be used) and adoption of the order of business will usually take only a few minutes. The report of the nominating committee, nominations from the floor, and the election itself customarily take but little time also.

- more -

Many Leagues no longer schedule a reading of the full minutes of the last annual meeting, but use a summary instead. And in place of individual committee reports, Leagues frequently have a comprehensive report by the president, covering all aspects of League work and achievement during the past year.

The use of a block of time allotted on the agenda for proposed local program requires board planning also. Don't forget to use some of this time for not-recommended items -- sometimes they get adopted. A few guidelines, presented to the annual meeting for approval, are useful in achieving fruitful discussion of program proposals. Rules commonly used are: alternating of pro and con speeches on an item; limitation on length of speeches; and no person to speak a second time before everyone else who wants to speak has spoken once.

To sum up, a successful annual meeting begins with careful planning by the board and includes:

-- a realistically timed agenda faithfully adhered to;
-- minimum time for routine matters, maximum time for matters such as budget and local program;
-- imaginative handling of reports, budget, and local program;
-- guidelines to promote fruitful discussion on program proposals.

Have Roberts Rules or Simplified Parliamentary Procedure (LWVUS) available and at your fingertips. Be familiar with either or both.

And after the annual meeting, take time to jot down what seemed particularly successful and what could be improved upon -- for the guidance of the board next year when it will be planning the next annual meeting.

SAMPLE AGENDA FOR A LOCAL LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

This agenda can be adapted to suit your convenience and your League. You may wish to have this business meeting before or following a luncheon with a speaker.

Social Hour	(Membership committee may act as facilitators to encourage mingling and to introduce people and see that all are seated on time).	(Treasurer at table to collect dues. Someone to collect for luncheon if one is planned. Publications display and sale. Name tags & register).
Welcome and Introduction
Business Meeting
Call to order; quorum present
Minutes - approval of last annual mtg.		(Not to be read)
Treasurer's Report & acceptance		(Need motion & majority vote)
President's Annual Report
Report of budget committee		(Presentation of budget; copy should be available for each member or on display)
Discussion of budget		(If proposing increase in dues, two budgets should be printed in VOTER).
Adoption of budget		(Majority vote)

- more -

Presentation of proposed bylaws changes	(If change in dues is proposed, this should be voted on before budget is presented).
Discussion
Adoption of changes	(Requires a two-thirds vote).
Presentation of proposed program
Presentation and consideration of not-recommended items	(Majority vote required for consideration).
Discussion and debate on all program items -- recommended and not-recommended.	(Be sure to allot time for each item and encourage pro and con discussions. Board members should be prepared to state why item not recommended. Maximum member participation should be encouraged).
Adoption of program	(Motions made for each program item. Majority vote for recommended items. Not-recommended items need either majority or 2/3 vote depending on your bylaws).
Discussion of adopted program	(The board needs to know the scope, focus, and emphasis desired by the members).
Report of nominating committee
Nominations from the floor	(Consent must be secured in advance).
Election
Special reports

Thank you's and acknowledgements

(Turn the meeting over to the new president who may wish to greet the members and make some brief announcements).

"WHO ME? A LOCAL LEAGUE PRESIDENT?"

When the nominating committee chose you for president, it was because they were looking for a very special kind of person. A League president does not need to be all things to all people; no one person can be. League presidents come in all sizes, shapes, and varieties. They differ greatly in leadership experience, in enthusiasm for the job ahead, in physical stamina, in extent of family responsibilities and cooperation from family, in interests, and in natural ability.

When you become a local League president, you don't suddenly change into a new wonder-person with the solution to all problems. What does happen is that you are faced not only with new responsibilities with which you will learn to cope, but also with a group of League members with ability and desire to help you. Sometimes the hardest thing for a new president to learn is that "leaning" on others is not an admission of weakness, but a recognition of the most effective way to achieve results. League board members gladly share their talents. A limitation of one board member can be supplemented by the strength of another, who in turn will need help from someone else in another area.

While this publication deals primarily with how to organize and manage the administrative duties of the president, the greatest emphasis in your own mind should be that the member is more important than the administration.

Some of the roles of a local League president are:

1) The official voice of the League. Official statements to the public are not always written or spoken in person by the president, but they are always made with the knowledge and approval of the president. The president and at least one other board member should approve a statement or letter before it is presented. A League president should avoid speaking "off the cuff" in situations that can result in a quick opinion being reported as an official League opinion. In order to safeguard the reputation of the League, it is better to say you have no statement at present than to respond to a spur-of-the-moment question and later regret it. It would be wise to write down and keep near the telephone a statement such as, "This is a matter I will need to take up with the board. I will be glad to confer with the board and let you know the decision in a day or two." If it is a radio station wanting to record the League's opinion, ask if you can call back in a few minutes so you can organize your thoughts and information.

2) The one who sets the tone for the board and the membership as a whole. It is obviously helpful to be calm, cheerful, optimistic, objective, positive, diplomatic, and to have a sense of humor. But, practically, a League president is also human and therefore has failings; these are seldom fatal to the individual, to the board, or to the League. Even mistakes that seem devastating at the time will be lived through and lived down, especially if you use them as a learning process rather than treating them as unforgivable sins.

3) The coordinator; the chosen leader of a team. A president presides at meetings, but does not make decisions; that is the board's responsibility. The president does not vote except in the case of a tie. Keep the team aspect in mind; each member has a part to play, no one more important than another; each brings a different set of talents; each fills a certain need. As president, think always in terms of the board, the secretary, etc., never in terms of my board, my secretary.

4) A good listener. A president often acts as counselor, arbitrator, confidant. Listening to board members' concerns is the first step in resolving conflicts. It can help relieve tensions and discourage withdrawal or hurt feelings. Never betray a confidence.

5) An enthusiastic rooter. Don't forget the pat on the back for a job well done, the thanks for time and effort spent. Be quick to share successes and praise. Help save face for someone who falls short. Everyone functions better when appreciation, recognition, and help is freely forthcoming.

6) A developer of leadership. A president who seeks the right role for each person or the right person for each role, who delegates and shares responsibilities, will be developing leadership qualities in others. This helps to insure a smoothly-running League in future years. Take the time to seek the right leadership rather than taking on the job yourself. Encourage League leaders to involve new members in important work. Always work through the vice presidents.

7) A distribution center. Each local League president (or office, if there is one) receives League communications from the national office, the state office, and from other local and state Leagues. The president should be familiar with the types of mail being received - board reports, bulletins, Action Alerts, memoranda, and other notices. All should be scanned by the president; some need to be read carefully. Each must be forwarded quickly to the person who can make best use of it.

8) A telephone center. One of the initial surprises you will receive is the sudden increase in time spent on the telephone. It may be desirable to make a schedule of hours that are inconvenient for you to receive calls, so that board members will avoid these times when possible. Some local Leagues have a recording device to take calls when you can't answer the phone. Whatever the case, you will be talking - endlessly, it seems - to members, reporters, public officials, leaders of other organizations.

Some of the roles of a local League president might be totally foreign to your nature and can be better performed by someone else. Other roles you will learn, and they will give you a great sense of satisfaction and personal achievement. Becoming a League president should not mean giving up your existing interests, but certainly should expand your horizons.

At the end of your term, take a good look at yourself. You may be amazed at the extent of your growth in poise, tact, tolerance, patience, and diplomacy. This is part of the reward for being a local League president.

LEAGUE TOOLS YOU NEED

The basic League tools should be in a notebook which you can easily bring to each board meeting. A similar notebook for every board member would be very helpful.

Your Own Local League

- Bylaws
- Budget
- Membership list
- Board list
- Policy sheets (non-partisan and board)
- Committee lists
- Local program list
- Calendar for the year
- Publications catalog, if any
- Unit officer list, if applicable

In addition, you need a historical file for the year and the most recent copies of the following:

- Budget analysis or treasurer's report
- Finance report
- Board minutes
- Local VOTER

LWV-Texas

- League Directory, current issue
- State Board Reports
- LWV-Texas Policy Guide
- Budget analyses (LWV-T & LWV-TEF)

GETTING STARTED

If you are not serving on the board at the time you accept the nomination to become president, you will find it very helpful to attend as many meetings as possible of the old board. In this way you can begin to identify strengths and weaknesses of the method of operation and of individuals who may be continuing on the new board.

A. Your local League bylaws and policy sheet. Study them carefully. They are the official rules by which you must function. Be sure that you are familiar with the following points:

1) When do newly-elected directors and officers take office? Sometimes this is at the close of the annual meeting and sometimes at a specified date. Be sure also that both the retiring and newly-elected directors are clear on this point.
2) How many board members can be appointed in addition to those elected? The bylaws state the maximum, not the required number, thus providing a great deal of flexibility.
3) What are the provisions for a nominating committee? Usually two board members must be appointed immediately in addition to the chairman and two elected at the annual meeting.
4) What are the provisions for a budget committee? The Art of Budget Building suggests that a budget committee should meet in early fall for good planning and to stimulate innovative ideas.
5) Note the dates when specific functions or procedures are required:
   Annual meeting
   Calls to convention or council
   Board-recommended program to reach members
   Deadline for receiving program suggestions
   Board-recommended bylaw changes
   Proposed budget

   These are the dates around which your calendar for the year must be planned.

B. Your local League budget. Read it and ask the treasurer or the budget chairman to explain what you do not understand. Be sure that your League has obtained an Employee's Identification Number (IRS Taxpayer's Identification Number). Every League must have one in order to preserve the tax-deductible status of the League.

C. Local Program. Consult with the program vice president, the past president, and others to become familiar with current program and imminent activity.

D. In League - Guidelines for League Boards. This is the greatest accumulation of League wisdom you will find anywhere. Read it, refer to it, lean on it. If possible, make a copy available to each board member.

E. LWV-Texas Directory. An updated version will be published about the middle of the summer, but be sure you are aware immediately of the wealth of information it contains. This includes:
1) Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of:
   State board members and TEF trustees. Note which ones live nearest to you. Why not invite them to a meeting?
   State committee chairmen
   All local Leagues, state units, and members-at-large in Texas
   Field Service Representatives

2) Local Leagues identified by governmental regions:
   Congressional district
   State Senatorial district
   State Representative district
   County
   River basin
   Council of government

3) LWV-Texas Bylaws

4) Adopted state program

5) Tips for planning your local League calendar with a list of deadlines and suggestions for scheduling.

6) LWV-Texas & TEF budgets adopted for the current fiscal year and local League PMPs. These indicate the sources of revenue for the state League and plans for spending it.

7) Checklist for local board members. This gives information and requirements for communications to and from state and national Leagues.

F. State Board Contacts. The organization vice president is the state board member directly responsible for organizational questions in local Leagues. Changes in local League operations, such as a name change or a change in jurisdiction, must be cleared with the organization VP before final action at your annual meeting. Each local League is assigned a Field Service Representative (FSR) who is the one to whom you can turn for help, suggestions, a sympathetic ear, and through whom you can communicate with the state board. At times you may want to contact state board members about specific portfolio questions or for reasons of convenience, but the FSR is the person directly assigned to your League.

G. Organizing the Local League Board. It is neither necessary nor customary to wait until after the annual meeting election to begin planning for the new year. It is necessary to formulate decisions by official board action after the new term begins. The organizational steps would include the following:

1) Selection of portfolios by elected directors.
2) Appointment of additional directors for additional portfolios.
3) Appointments to off-board positions. The board decides which portfolios shall be on-board and which off-board.
4) Selection of executive committee or emergency action committee, if your bylaws provide for one.
5) Decisions on administrative details.
   Determine the method for distribution of material received to be sure that it promptly reaches the person for whom it is intended. If at all possible, plan for at least one DPM (Duplicate President's Mailing) from national and state, so that it can be distributed by portfolio. The president's mailing is then available for complete reading and for the official League file.
6) Selection of board representatives to nominating committee. This is the only committee of which the president is not an ex-officio member. The nominating committee can help identify potential leaders throughout the year, not just for annual meeting election.

7) Adopt a calendar for the year. You may appoint a calendar committee to bring recommendations to the board. Final adoption can be delayed until August after receipt of the LWV-Texas Directory and in time to send to members with the September bulletin (VOTER). Adjustments can be made during the year if changed circumstances warrant. A calendar serves three major purposes:
   a. To identify dates for state and national reporting such as annual reports, membership lists, per-member payments, consensus reports, etc.
   b. To schedule local meetings (unit, general, annual) in order to meet program deadline requirements.
   c. To identify requirements of local bylaws. You will learn to work backward from the annual meeting date to determine times for local program planning, budget recommendations, nominating committee reports, bylaw recommendations, etc.

8) Plan time before September for:
   a. Board orientation
      Time for board members to get acquainted.
      Time for new board members to learn board procedures.
      Time to be sure that files are exchanged.
      An ideal time to call upon your FSR for consultation and/or training assistance, if scheduling permits.
   b. Setting priorities. Pages 25-27 of In League will be very helpful. It is important to have total board participation, and sometimes further member involvement in deciding priorities. Some local League boards plan a board retreat for this purpose. An overnight or day-long meeting away from the daily pressure of League work - and away from the telephone - can provide a relaxed atmosphere in which to evaluate past performance, identify strengths and weaknesses, and devise strategies for attacking problems. Intra-board camaraderie and cooperation are also enhanced.
   c. Scheduling non-program activities such as membership orientation, finance drive, VS/CI activities, discussion leader and observer training, etc.
   d. Review of non-partisan and board policies.

POLICY REVIEW

One of the first responsibilities of the local board as a new League year begins is to review the local policy guide and make any necessary changes. A committee of board members is generally charged with this review and then brings its recommendations to the full board for discussion and decision. When the policy guide has been approved, it should be sent to every member. This annual review should be specified in the policy guide.

In reviewing your League's nonpartisan political policy, refer to In League, pp. 10-11. The effort should be toward flexibility and away from rigidity; toward simple, clear language and away from ambiguity. Your League's standing and acceptance in the community is an important factor. Board policies that are too restrictive can seriously inhibit the League's ability to secure the commitment of its best leadership. Try to keep specific restrictions to a minimum; aim for policies that enable rather than confine.

If dues amounts and dues collection procedures have been removed from your bylaws, these should appear in the policy guide. A policy regarding the use of the membership roster is frequently included. The local board is free to develop whatever policies it deems necessary as oong as those policies are not in conflict with local bylaws.

Remember that a policy guide is only that -- a guide to decision making. In the final analysis, it is the responsibility of the board to study each situation on a case-by-case basis and consider what is best for its own League.

LOCAL LEAGUE ORGANIZATION

The Local League Function Chart which follows is a change from the conventional organization chart in that it shows functions rather than portfolios. Many variations and combinations are possible, depending upon individual interests and time commitments. Some individuals will be responsible for several functions at the same time, while others will perform only one. Every function will not necessarily be covered every year, nor will all the functions covered be performed by board members.

The chart makes no attempt to show the weight or time commitment of a function. For example, "Community contributions" is a sub-heading under "Income," which is a sub-heading under "Financial"; it is of major importance even though it looks insignificant on the chart. And PROGRAM looks like a small function compared to ADMINISTRATION and COMMUNICATION, even though a large number of members on and off the board will usually be carrying program portfolios.

To some extent the functions that you include in any given year will be determined by your decisions on priorities, but your decisions on priorities may also be affected by the individuals available to carry them out.

A sample organization for a board might be as follows:

President
Program Vice President
Organization Vice President
Public Relations Vice President
Secretary
Treasurer
Directors:
- Finance
- Membership
- Publications
- Unit Organization
- Local Program Study
- Action
- State Program Study (current)
- Natural Resources, at all levels
- Human Resources, at all levels
- VS/CI
- VOTER Editor

Off-board:
- Speakers Bureau
- Observers
- State Program (possibly several individuals, each with responsibility for one item)
- National Program (Several individuals, as under State Program)

Each vice president might carry one of the portfolios in addition to some administrative responsibilities. Each portfolio should have a committee to share the work and the planning. Watch for any individual who may feel overburdened or underutilized and adjust responsibilities in accordance with the individual's time commitment and availability. Look for ways to lighten the work load, including innovations that may be untested but are worth trying. Some approaches that have proved successful:

- Sharing resources with other nearby local Leagues.
- Dividing portfolios into smaller parts, shared by more people.
- Using experienced members like past presidents as consultants to help new members who may have more time but less experience.
- Creating a close relationship with a few other local League presidents, to share ideas and experiences, and to maintain your perspective.
- Deciding on priorities, with the resulting decision not to cover all aspects of program.

LOCAL LEAGUE BOARD MEETINGS

A. Purpose

The purpose of a board meeting is to evaluate what the League's leadership is accomplishing and to plan for the future. Both the evaluation and the planning should be in light of the members' response at meetings and in light of board members' beliefs as to what can reasonably be accomplished by the membership. Evaluation of accomplishments should be recorded in board minutes for assistance in next year's planning. (Did members like the change of format? Should we repeat it?) Decisions should be recorded in the minutes to remind board members who is doing what and why.

B. Sample Agenda

Administration

Minutes: Any additions or corrections.

Treasurer's Report: Previous balance, expenditures, income, current balance.

President's Announcements: Correspondence received and sent, invitations to speak, meetings attended, etc. Detail should be available but usually should not take up much board time. The president can give additional information on items of special importance. A list of all items can be helpful.

Organization

Membership: Prospects, plans for getting new members, plans for orientation, involvement, etc. Report of number of new members since last meeting, total current membership, total membership same time last year.

Units: Plans for coming unit meetings and briefing sessions, plans for board member attendance at unit meetings. Analysis of past meetings, attendance, and member comments.

Finance: Plans, goals, prospects, workers, advisory committee, etc.

Program

National, State, Local Program: Report on progress of committees for each item that has current activity. Board decisions on plans for meetings and consensus.

National, State, Local Action: Report of Action Alerts, plans for reaching the members and the public. Proposals for implementing local program positions.

Public Relations/Communication

Voters Service: Plans, publicity, etc.

Speakers Bureau: Dates, subjects, speakers, etc.

Publications: Information about new materials. Discuss plans for distribution to members and public

- more -

Public Relations: Plans for reaching the public, etc.

VOTER: Deadline, content, specific responsibilities, etc.

Adjournment - Total time, 2 1/2 - 3 hours.

Some boards use a timed agenda containing estimates of time needed for each item. Others find this too rigid. In any case, an agenda must be flexible to allow for emergencies, changes, absences, etc. The time needed for an item will change from one time of year to another, depending upon the calendar and what events are in priority position.

Change the order of reporting from meeting to meeting, so that no one is given the feeling of always being last. The suggested three-hour total time may be completely unrealistic for your League. If it is, give some thought to how much board time is being used for committee work rather than board decisions. Be sure that no one is left out because of oversight or a non-assertive personality, if that portfolio requires a decision. Keep meetings as short as possible while allowing full participation.

Because decisions are the responsibility of the total board, all board members should be expected to attend board meetings for the total time. If circumstances arise to prevent full attendance, the president should be informed in advance. Arriving late or leaving early should not become a regular, accepted way of life.

C. Preparing the Agenda

Minutes of the last meeting and the last meeting and the agenda for the coming meeting should be in the hands of each board member ahead of time. Direct contact with each board member to determine time needed is desirable. Larger Leagues will profit from an agenda planning meeting of the president, vice presidents, and secretary.

You will find it valuable to make provision for pre-board meeting reports from board members to be distributed to the entire board in advance. This is especially helpful in a large League or one that includes a wide geographic area. Such reports should be kept as brief as possible to cut down on preparation time and cost, and to encourage reading. They should contain a brief report on activity since last meeting, points on which decisions are needed, background on which to base decisions, and committee recommendations.

D. Parliamentary Procedure

The Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure says: "Parliamentary law is the code of rules and ethics for working in groups. . . . It provides the means for translating beliefs and ideas into effective group action." If you keep this in mind you will find that board meetings can be very informal; reference to parliamentary procedure will rarely be called for. The conduct of an effective meeting of a small group, such as a League board, requires common sense and courtesy rather than formality.

Keep in mind, however, that the board is making official decisions for operation and policy of the local League. A large part of your bisiness can be conducted by common consent. It is wise to have important decisions made in the form of a motion (moved, seconded, and either passed or failed). These are recorded in the minutes for easy reference later. Each item on which a decision is made should be stated clearly, so that each person will understand what is being voted upon. Responsibility for carrying out the decision should be clearly assigned.

* * * * * * * *

N.B. The minutes are your League's only record of decisions, action, participation, and performance. Any pre-board meeting reports should become part of the official minutes. You may be surprised at how often the minutes will be referred to throughout the coming months. It is usually better to err on the side of including more than is necessary in the minutes rather than risk omitting important information that will be needed. It is, of course, always desirable to avoid wordiness.

THE FILES

There are many valuable suggestions about League filing systems in In League - Guidelines for League Boards. You will find that most of your questions are answered there.

As soon as you are nominated for president, a few hours or days spent getting acquainted with the current filing system will pay off in time saved throughout your term. Some of the advantages of spending this time before you take office:

1) You will know more about your own League than you ever realized could be known.
2) You will have a better understanding of other levels of the League.
3) You will learn how to find things in the files before the time comes when you really need to.
4) You may find the system so inefficient that you will want to change it. If this is the case, find a member who is experienced with files, and who has the time to help you make changes. There may be a past president or some other long-time member who will help cull out-of-date material. You should then end up with:
   a) A good current file, using a simple filing system.
   b) A historical file of past records that should be kept because they are not available elsewhere, but should not clutter your working file.
   c) A trash basket full of outdated masterpieces that are no longer needed.

Here are some of the important points to consider in creating and working with a filing system:

1) Keep it simple. Anything that works for you is a good filing system, but it should be simple enough for others to understand easily.
2) Be sure that everything is dated.
3) Within any one folder, file chronologically with most recent material in front.
4) If you mark the top right corner with P for permanent and T for temporary, also mark a date when the T stands for "trash" and the item should be removed.
5) To decide what is P, imagine that twenty years from now you are writing a history of the local League. Would this piece of paper help you tell the story? Local bylaws, bulletins, budgets, annual reports, program materials, and any action by your League at all levels should be marked with a P. Save state and national material as long as it applies to a current program or until it has been replaced by a more recent publication.
6) When removing something from the files for current use, be sure it is identified properly for return to the correct place. It is also wise to insert a sheet identifying the removed article and who has it.
7) If an item applies to more than one file heading, insert a cross-reference sheet identifying the article and where it is filed.

You may find it advantageous to use the same filing system as the state office; a copy of this system follows.

KEEPING FILES

The state office attempts to code materials sent to local Leagues to assist in maintaining an orderey filing system with less effort. For example, a memo on LWV-T Council would be coded: I. H. 2.

PROGRAM

National and State Program. Much of the basic research and preparation of resource material for national and state program items is done by those levels of the League and made available to local Leagues, It is the task of the local League to adapt these materials to local needs, practices, and plans. It is often desirable to expand the material through further research at the local level; this can help in understanding the relationships to local problems or to local program positions. This local expansion is not normally required, even if desirable, when limitations in time and people make it a hardship.

It is necessary, however, to decide on specific plans for presenting the program item and the resource material to the members, and to decide on the method by which member agreement/consensus will be sought. Pages 34-42 of In League give an excellent discussion of the entire area of League program and action, and include many suggestions for managing program and reaching member agreement. Remember that in 60 years of existence, the League has never been a static organization. Methods and procedures change constantly. Don't be afraid to try new ideas, but do help members understand the new methods so that resistance to change can be minimized.

Local Program. The local League is responsible for all work connected with local program. This includes choice of items, research, publication, presentation, and action. Make plans and time schedules for carrying out all phases of a program item, from adoption to action. Preliminary plans might be made prior to the annual meeting, in order to present an "Outlook for Work" at that time. But be prepared for modification or rejection by the members. It is a responsibility of the members at anuual meeting to give direction to the board as to what they expect from the item.

An "Outlook for Work" should include:

- Statement of the item.
- Definition of the scope.
- Plans for both member and community involvement
- Estimate of time needed for research and preparation and for presentation.
- Suggestions for resource material needed and for possible publications.
- Ideas for number and types of meetings needed.
- Possible action the study might le. d to.

The "Outlook for Work" is developed by the resource committee, based on member suggestions. The board accepts or modifies committee plans and relates them to the total workload for the year.

Each member of the League should have a record of the total local program. This could be in the form of a list of all current positions, or position papers which give a history of action and progress made on each item. Full records of consensus should be in the permanent League file.

ACTION

You may think of League action as Times for Action, Calls to Action, or Action Alerts from national and state. But all work in the community is a type of action. For instance, we act when we:

Attempt to influence community opinion
- through a Speakers Bureau
- by distributing publications
- by taking part in a parade
- by expressing League opinions on radio or TV, or to the press
- by talking to friends about League positions
- by starting a dialogue between diverse segments of the community

Try to get our message to public officials
- by getting acquainted with the officials through interviews
- by communicating with them
- by testifying at hearings
- by drafting legislation
- by lobbying

Engage in litigation
Join a coalition.

Check pages 38-42 on Action in In League, and the LWV-Texas publication, Taking Action: Guidelines for Local Leagues, for guidance and restrictions.

The object is to make it easy for a local League to take action when members understand and are in agreement, but difficult to take action that goes beyond member intentions or that might create a conflict between overlapping jurisdictions, with other local Leagues, or with other levels of League consensus.

When an Action Alert is received from LWVUS, send an official communication to the designated person in the name of the local League and send carbons to both the national and state offices. When the request for action comes from LWV-Texas, send an official communication to the designated legislator and a carbon to the state office. If the same communication is sent to a number of legislators, a single carbon to the state office is sufficient, provided that a list of other legislators receiving it is attached. If you make no response to the request for action, send a letter explaining why to the appropriate League office, state or national.

If you receive a substantive reply that would help our lobbyists, send a summary or summarizing copy to the national office if it relates to Congressional action, or to the state office if it relates to Texas legislative action.

When making a statement on behalf of your local League before a state legislative committee holding a hearing in your vicinity, it is important to check your remarks with the state board member responsible for the issue in question.

When LWVUS or LWV-T has already taken action or sent out a request for action, you may take further action on the same subject on your own initiative, but only on an authorized issue, not on a related issue on which the League has no position.

Action at the local level on local positions is based on the decisions of the local board. Timeliness, supporting and opposing forces, degree of member interest, and priorities for the year should be considered before deciding on techniques to be used, the degree of involvement to strive for, and even whether action should be taken at all.

PUBLICATION ORDERS

STATE

Presidents Mailing One copy of all new material intended for local League use, including State Board Reports, is sent monthly by first class mail to the president of each local and provisional League.

Duplicate Presidents Mailing (DPM) This is a duplicate of all material sent to the local League president, unless otherwise specified in the president's mailing. Price is $20 per year. Must be ordered and renewed annually for each person who is to receive it; subscriptions expire May 31 of each year. Almost a MUST for vice presidents and publications chairmen; valuable to all board members. Available to any member, but not to non-members.

Standing Orders (SO) This order includes material every local board member should receive. The total number is sent in a package to one local board person, usually the publications chairman, for distribution immediately by mail or in person to the other board members who subscribe. Please note that the Standing Order number should not include those persons on the board who are receiving DPMs. Standing Orders cost $7 per year and all subscriptions expire on May 31. Available to any member, but not to non-members.

NATIONAL

Presidents Mailing One free copy of each new publication and memo intended for local League use is sent by first class mail as soon as it is available to the president of each local, provisional, and state League. The national office must be notified about any change in name or address (and please include the name of your League) of the president, or the name on file will continue to receive the mailing automatically, and the new president will not receive it. Send a separate letter which does not refer to any other subject; be specific; and be sure, once again, to include the name of your League.

No other local or state board member receives material automatically from the national office. If any wish to do so, a Duplicate Presidents Mailing (see below) is recommended.

Duplicate Presidents Mailing This is a duplicate of much of the material contained in the Presidents Mailing, and is available to any member, but not to non-members. It is furnished on a subscription basis, and must be ordered or renewed each year for each person who is to receive it. See current national publications catalog for price. Recommended especially for vice presidents and publications chairmen; useful for all board members. Subscriptions may be transferred to another member upon notice to the national office. Please include the name of your League.

OTHER ORDERS

It is most efficient to designate one person (usually the publications chairman) to order publications from state and national. This will help ensure that the proper prepayment is made and that the appropriate discount for quantity orders is calculated. Usually the treasurer prepares the check to accompany an order. Be sure the person ordering has current LWVUS and LWV-Texas publication catalogs, order blanks, and tax information.

CONTACTS WITH THE NEWS MEDIA

"Consider the press. Treat it with tact and courtesy. It will accept much from you if you are clever enough to win it to your side. Never fear it or despise it. Coax it, charm it, interest it, stimulate it, shock it now and then if you must, make it laugh, make it cry, but above all, dear pioneers, never bore it. . . ." Paraphrase of Sir Noel Coward.

Your PR director has arranged some interviews. What do you do? Let's take a look at a variety of situations you might experience during your term.

Newspaper Interviews

Interviews are a matter of being familiar with your topic. Know the 5 W's -- Who, where, what, when, why. It is most helpful to have something in your hand such as a press release or a copy of testimony. Whenever possible, take another League member with you; the PR director or the resource committee chairman can help cover important points you might miss.

Do not use abbreviations.

Make full identifications, such as Councilman Smith or Board of Education member Ms. James, etc. Reporters may know who those people are, but chances are the public doesn't.

If you must use "League language" (consensus, concurrence, resource committee, etc.), explain it.

Don't use bill numbers unless accompanied by an explanatory title, such as "Collective Bargaining Bill SB 275."

Reporters who are specialists (energy, transportation, etc.) will probably know the background, but general assignment reporters will not, In such cases, treat them gently; be precise, supply background. It is always wise to have extra copies of a release or statement to distribute.

Radio and Television News

Keep in mind that time is very limited on both radio and TV. Your answers should be concise. Short, simple sentences are clearer and easier for a listening audience to grasp. Avoid the use of too many statistics; you will lose the audience.

For TV, look directly at and talk to the interviewer and don't worry about the potential audience. Let the cameraman worry about the angle. You will be more natural and relaxed. Use gestures which are normal for you.

Radio stations often do taped interviewe by telephone. If you have a prepared statement, do not try to read it. You will not sound natural. Select the most important points and talk naturally.

- more -

Always have extra copies of statements you are making. Learn where the press table is located at city council, county commissioners court, board of education, etc., and leave copies. Do not wait to be asked. If you arrive early, you or the League member accompanying you can personally distribute your statement and call attention to the important points.

RELAX. Do not be afraid of the media. Approach them openly. The reporter is trying to do a job honestly and quickly and will appreciate your help. Members of the media frequently do need to be educated about the League. As a warmup for talking with the uninformed, try your hand and mind at these questions:

How long has the League been around? (A new segment of the women's movement?)

Why haven't you changed your name to reflect the fact that male members are welcome?

Isn't this action unusual for the League? (Nonpartisan policy.)

Are you really a registered lobby?

How can you expect to accomplish anything if you take two years to study it?

YOU AND THE LOCAL LEAGUE MEMBER

The member is the League. Don't allow yourself or the board to get so involved in the job of running the League that you let the member get lost.

Most members join originally because of a personal contact. Members are often lost because of a failure to maintain the personal touch. In a small League it is usually easy to know every member, but even then special effort is needed to maintain friendly contact. As a League becomes larger, it is increasingly difficult, if not impossible, for any single person to know every member. Extra effort is needed to compensate for this fact.

Recognize the importance of the local VOTER or bulletin. This is the only direct contact with every member, especially those who do not attend meetings. If it is sufficiently attractive, informative, and interesting, it will be read. Encourage the board and the editor to find ways of making sure that it will gain attention.

Urge board members to attend unit meetings -- as many and as often as possible. This puts the member in touch with the board and the board in touch with the member. Everyone gains.

Be sure that members are informed of board activity. Report to them in the VOTER and at League meetings. Effective League action requires member participation in that action, so don't leave them behind.

There should be a place in the League for members of all degrees of commitment. Some will lend support but not time or work. Others will work willingly but may need help in meeting financial obligations. Find ways to make them all a part of League, and be sure they know that their desired degree of involvement is really acceptable.

NEVER FORGET that the board's first duty is to administer the League as an expression of the collective will of its members. Regardless of how brilliantly a League board may be functioning, if the local League members are being left behind or shunted aside, the board has failed its primary responsibility.

PERSONAL CHECKLIST FOR PRESIDENT

(This is for your use; it does not imply a report to anyone.)

After the annual meeting

Send to the state office:

____Minutes of annual meeting (3 copies), 1 copy also to FSR
____List of board members and portfolios (on gold form provided at Council or Convention
____Local program (on same gold form as above)
____Adopted budget, 1 copy also to FSR
____Local bylaws, when rewritten to include any revisions (1 copy to LWVUS)

Have you

____Filled appointed board positions after consultation with elected members
____Scheduled an organization meeting for new board
____Conferred with each board member? Do those members have:
___The necessary file from predecessor
___The name and address of state board counterpart
___A committee
___An understanding of the job for the coming year
___A copy of In League
___LWV-Texas & LWVUS publications catalogs
____Conferred with the publications director about ___DPMs from state and national ___Standing Orders from state and national ___Ordering (how to) quantity publications from state & national ____Reviewed your own files and filing system
____Appointed board members to nominating committee
____Appointed the budget committee
____Scheduled local calendar planning
____Arranged for responses to calls for action from state & national ____Arranged for review of local policy guide

Arrange for monthly mailing of the following

_____VOTERS to state board and state office, national office, other local Leagues, and your FSR
_____Press clippings to state PR director
_____Monthly membership additions, changes, drops to state and national (on yellow forms from national)
_____Minutes of board meetings to state office (3 copies), plus 1 copy to FSR

Monthly as your president's mailings arrive

_____Immediately check for deadlines to be observed and inform board member responsible
_____Read (perhaps a bit later) the rest of the mailing

- more -

Monthly before each board meeting

____Check materials received during the month; which need to be distributed to board; which require board decision and action
____Check local League calendar for two or three months in advance and schedule board discussion of coming activities
____Prepare written board agenda to be sent out about a week in advance
____Confer with bulletin editor about material for current edition
____Set deadline for bulletin material

At least four months before the annual meeting

____Check local bylaws for deadlines for budget, bylaw revisions, local program recommendations, auditing of books
____Be sure the nominating committee is functioning
____Appoint bylaw revision committee
____Be sure the budget committee is functioning
____Arrange for board discussion and recommendations on suggestions from members for local program.

YOU, THE PRESIDENT

You may feel that you have never before worked so hard.

You will probably feel you have never before gained so much.

* * * * * * *

Relax; stop worrying.

Watch yourself grow in self-fulfillment.

Share the work and you will share the rewards.

The Nominating Committee

October is usually the time to activate the nominating committee. Make sure the board has appointed the two board members to the committee.

Seeking leadership in all fields of activity is the year-round responsibility of the nominating committee. In addition to a slate of board members to be presented to members at the annual meeting, you should be prepared to make recommendations for committee membership and for filling vacancies on the board at any time during the League year if the board requests this service.

Here is the suggested timetable to guide you in planning your work for the coming year:

EARLY FALL — Committee meeting -- Check bylaws and positions to be filled. Assign committee members to attend board meetings, unit and general meetings and workshops to observe prospects for potential leaders. Do all committee members have a copy of In League and your local bylaws?

LATE FALL — Encourage members to make suggestions. This can be done by a notice in the VOTER, or a nominating form at unit meetings. Interview board members, unit leaders, and committee chairmen for possible nominees.

DEC. & JAN. — Talent search -- Committee members attend meetings as observers to become familiar with likely candidates for office.

LATE JAN. — Hold another committee meeting to list prospects and one or two alternates for each position. Plan to contact those who will be asked to serve. Assign one member to talk with each prospect to determine availability.

FEB. — Work continues until slate is completed. Chairman should be notified as each acceptance is secured. It is a courtesy to announce the completed slate to the board before making the public announcement in the VOTER.

SPRING — Publish slate in the VOTER at least one month before the annual meeting. Publicize the right of the membership to present additional nominations from the floor, with the consent of the nominee.

ANNUAL MEETING — Present the slate to the members and move its election.

A GUIDE FOR NOMINATING COMMITTEES

If your local League is going to be an effective force in your community the leadership is extremely important. The nominating committee has the responsibility of finding this leadership. One of the most important duties a member can perform is to serve on this committee. To do the job well requires time, good judgment, imagination, and thorough understanding of the League and how it operates. The persons who serve on this committee should be well acquainted with the membership and thoroughly familiar with the responsibilities of the offices to be filled. They must be tactful, persuasive, and discreet.

The nominating committee consists of five people: a chairman and two members elected at the annual meeting, plus two members appointed from the board after the annual meeting.

Seeking membership in all fields of League activity is the year-round responsibility of the nominating committee. It should make recommendations for various committee memberships, and for filling vacancies on the board at any time during the League year that the board requests this service. The nominating committee should make sure that prospective leaders understand all the duties and responsibilities of the job they are being asked to fill.

GENERAL PROCEDURES:

-- Review the bylaws to determine the offices to be filled.

-- Read In League and consult with the board to determine the duties and qualifications of each portfolio to be filled. The committee nominates directors and officers and may pass on suggestions, but only the board should assign portfolios.

-- Attend board meetings, unit and general meetings, workshops -- all League activities -- to become familiar with members and likely candidates for office.

-- Consult the membership list and interest files.

-- Solicit suggestions from the board and committee chairmen for names of people who show potential leadership.

-- Solicit suggestions from the membership. This can be done through the VOTER, announcements at meetings, or nominating forms.

-- Try for a balance between new board members and experienced ones. Don't renominate persons merely because they have served well. Bring in some candidates who have never been on the board before. Rotation in office is the best way to ensure that Leagues will grow and develop new leadership.

-- Get an early start. Be on the alert year round.

-- Interview potential nominees. Discuss the importance of the position to be filled, and the opportunity the nominee will have to make a contribution to the League and to broaden League experience.

-- Be honest in explaining the expected workload. Make it clear that a board member is expected to attend all board meetings, help with membership and the financial growth of the League, and contribute to total board planning.

-- Discuss the nonpartisanship policy with each nominee. Discuss restrictions on partisan activities. Remember the purpose of the nonpartisan policy of the LWV is to ensure the confidence of the community. It is important that the community have full confidence that the League is really a nonpartisan organization; that its leadership is composed of those earnestly working for government in the public interest.

-- Avoid selecting individuals identified with one special cause, those who may want to use the League of Women Voters for any objective other than to carry out the purpose of the League, or those who are identified with highly controversial issues.

-- Nominating committee discussions should never be aired outside the committee.

Steps to a Successful Succession

If your League is going to have a new president, there are some simple steps you can take to start your successor off smoothly and ease those "pangs of transition."

FIRST: Be sure your files are up to date! It's a frightening enough experience for a new president to be handed the keys to the filing cabinet without also simultaneously receiving several overflowing boxes of "stuff" you "just never got around to filing."

SECOND: Help to familiarize your successor with your League's files, suggest a working calendar, explain the importance of careful attention to bylaws provisions, and make clear the working relationship with other levels of League.

THIRD: If subscriptions expire in the next few months, or the people who've been receiving them are not going to be on the new board, arrange for renewals after you've consulted with the new president. Make suggestions for handling the distribution of mail to the appropriate on or off-board members, explain how to use the various publications necessary to the smooth operation of the organization. Be sure your successor gets and understands the forms from state and national that must be filled out.

FOURTH: Discuss the community climate in which your League works as something that must be understood for maximum return on League resources expended. This would include the subtleties required in working with elected officials and their staffs, with the news media available to your League, with the leaders of other organizations. Explain where and from whom to expect honest information, advice, and support.

FIFTH: Make it evident that you understand things will be done differently because the two of you are different people, and that the League will gain strength from your differences.

SIXTH: Offer to give information and help when it is asked, and support at all times; but remember, once the annual meeting is over, that you are no longer president of your League.

SEVENTH: You can think of at least a dozen more additions to this list to make the job easier, things that by now you do as second nature.

EIGHTH: Enjoy your new life as an "ex" president.

The Annual Meeting

Review Annual Meeting section of In League, page 53.

Preparation for the annual meeting usually starts about four months in advance of the actual date.

Check local bylaws for the time for the annual meeting and for the number of members necessary for a quorum. The local board determines the exact date.

Set time and date and decide kind of meeting that is likely to have maximum attendance (luncheon followed by meeting, meeting followed by luncheon, meeting followed by luncheon and speaker, pot luck supper followed by meeting, etc).

The purposes of the annual meeting are serious and important. It is then that we take stock of what we have done in the past year and chart our course for the year to come. The decisions made at the aunual meeting to a great extent will decide for the coming year how important the League will be in our communities and how satisfying it will be to be a member of the League. The president and the entire board must be aware of the need to involve the members as widely as possible in each step of the preparations.

The purposes of this meeting are to adopt local program, elect officers and directors, adopt a budget, and make necessary bylaws changes. The League is member oriented. Full and active participation of the membership in the important decisions culminating in the annual meeting results in a greater sense of responsibility for these decisions and a deeper commitment on the part of every member to carrying them out.

There is room for imagination and humor in the way information is presented at the annual meeting. Consider, for example, the budget. If it is done imaginatively and in a lively fashion, it sells the membership on more than the adoption of the budget; it often sells them on working actively on the League program and in the League finance drive as well. Two essentials of good budget presentation are -- to have the budget on display where all can see it during the meeting, and to present an explanation of any item whose meaning or scope is not self evident. Some Leagues have copies of the budget and explanations, originally published in the VOTER, to give to members as they arrive at the meeting. Other Leagues have the budget printed, large enough for all to see, on poster board or a blackboard.

Presentation of proposed local program can often be made more vivid, too, through posters, flip charts, flannel boards, slides, graphs, enlarged reproductions of pertinent reports, etc.

Very important to the success of the annual meeting is having a timed agenda, carefully worked out by the board, and faithfully adhered to at the meeting itself.

Leagues in general find that the most satisfactory agenda is one which allows a minimum of time for routine matters and a maximum for matters (such as the budget and the proposed local program) which take considerable explanation and evoke discussion. Bylaws changes and the treasurer's report may, on occasion, require more than the routine amount of time, but the call to order, appointment of a parliamentarian, a timekeeper, and tellers (if these are to be used) and adoption of the order of business will usually take only a few minutes. The report of the nominating committee, nominations from the floor, and the election itself customarily take but little time also.

- more -

Many Leagues no longer schedule a reading of the full minutes of the last annual meeting, but use a summary instead. And in place of individual committee reports, Leagues frequently have a comprehensive report by the president, covering all aspects of League work and achievement during the past year.

The use of a block of time allotted on the agenda for proposed local program requires board planning also. Don't forget to use some of this time for not-recommended items -- sometimes they get adopted. A few guidelines, presented to the annual meeting for approval, are useful in achieving fruitful discussion of program proposals. Rules commonly used are: alternating of pro and con speeches on an item; limitation on length of speeches; and no person to speak a second time before everyone else who wants to speak has spoken once.

To sum up, a successful annual meeting begins with careful planning by the board and includes:

-- a realistically timed agenda faithfully adhered to;
-- minimum time for routine matters, maximum time for matters such as budget and local program;
-- imaginative handling of reports, budget, and local program;
-- guidelines to promote fruitful discussion on program proposals.

Have Roberts Rules or Simplified Parliamentary Procedure (LWVUS) available and at your fingertips. Be familiar with either or both.

And after the annual meeting, take time to jot down what seemed particularly successful and what could be improved upon -- for the guidance of the board next year when it will be planning the next annual meeting.

SAMPLE AGENDA FOR A LOCAL LEAGUE ANNUAL MEETING

This agenda can be adapted to suit your convenience and your League. You may wish to have this business meeting before or following a luncheon with a speaker.

Social Hour	(Membership committee may act as facilitators to encourage mingling and to introduce people and see that all are seated on time).	(Treasurer at table to collect dues. Someone to collect for luncheon if one is planned. Publications display and sale. Name tags & register).
Welcome and Introduction
Business Meeting
Call to order; quorum present
Minutes - approval of last annual mtg.		(Not to be read)
Treasurer's Report & acceptance		(Need motion & majority vote)
President's Annual Report
Report of budget committee		(Presentation of budget; copy should be available for each member or on display)
Discussion of budget		(If proposing increase in dues, two budgets should be printed in VOTER).
Adoption of budget		(Majority vote)

- more -

Presentation of proposed bylaws changes	(If change in dues is proposed, this should be voted on before budget is presented).
Discussion
Adoption of changes	(Requires a two-thirds vote).
Presentation of proposed program
Presentation and consideration of not-recommended items	(Majority vote required for consideration).
Discussion and debate on all program items -- recommended and not-recommended.	(Be sure to allot time for each item and encourage pro and con discussions. Board members should be prepared to state why item not recommended. Maximum member participation should be encouraged).
Adoption of program	(Motions made for each program item. Majority vote for recommended items. Not-recommended items need either majority or 2/3 vote depending on your bylaws).
Discussion of adopted program	(The board needs to know the scope, focus, and emphasis desired by the members).
Report of nominating committee
Nominations from the floor	(Consent must be secured in advance).
Election
Special reports
Thank you's and acknowledgements

(Turn the meeting over to the new president who may wish to greet the members and make some brief announcements).

Membership snafu

Why are members who paid locally being billed for dues from your office? I received a bill and I have been a member for forty years, paid all the way. I'm laughing but some of the members are not, especially the old timers. What's up?

Sincerely,
Carolyn R. Fromuth

RE: Cleburne State Unit

Since Mary Orwig had asked to be relieved of the responsibility of serving as the chair of the Cleburne State Unit, I had asked her to let me know who will be in charge for 1988-89. She telephoned the other day to give me this information. You will see why I opted to send you a note with all of this in it rather than making a phone call.

No one agreed to be chair, but two people agreed to be co-chairs.

Elizabeth Hutto [redacted] Has agreed to receive the mail for the unit. However, her mother lives with her and Ms. Hutto would prefer not to receive phone calls. However, should you absolutely have to talk with her the number is [redacted]

Jacqueline Cunningham [redacted] Your phone contact for the unit at [redacted] However, she's not there during the day very often (but would be in the evening) so...

Mary Orwig is home all day and would be able to receive phone calls then at [redacted] She just doesn't want to be chair!

Complicated, isn't it? I'll leave it up to you to figure out how to squeeze this into the League Directory.
