

Mark Olson & Gary Louris – Bio

From the mid 1980's through till late 1995 Olson and Louris were members of Minneapolis based band, The Jayhawks. When Olson departed to pursue a solo career, Louris helmed the band till 2004. Although The Jayhawks have never officially announced their break up, the band members have not worked together during the ensuing years.

Olson and Louris recommenced working together during late 2005 by undertaking a short tour playing their own songs as well as material from The Jayhawks catalogue. They toured together again the following spring. Their duo album “Ready For The Love,” produced by Chris Robinson of The Black Crowes, was released by the Hacktone label during the late summer of 2008.

An individual Mark Olson biography can be found elsewhere on the FolkWax site.

Discography: “Ready For The Love” [2008] :

Arthur Wood

Kerrville Kronikles 08/08.

[115 words]