

790 Case Avenue, Cleveland.

Oct. 13. 1884.

My dear Miss Tved:-

Father has asked me to write to you for him, and enclose some leaves which he brought home from his trip abroad.

The mulberry leaf and twig are from Shakespeare's birth-place, Stratford-on-Avon. Two large ivy leaves and holly are from Kenilworth, and the small ivy leaf is from Stoke Pogis. It is to call to mind the picture in Gray's Elegy.

the last nineteen years of his life. Father asks me to say further that he and mother visited their old home and the place where they were married and had a delightful time from beginning to end.

The mooping owl does to the moon ^{claim} complacently Of such as wander near her secret tower Meet her ancient solitary reign."

Hoping that you may realize your study of English history and literature by a visit across the ocean, and with kind remembrances from father to your mother, ^{sister} and yourself, I am,

Very respectfully yours,
Anne Henry McHenry.
To Miss Anna Ford.

P. S. Father says that I am mistaken in saying that the mulberry leaves are from Shakespeare's birth place. They are from the scion of the mulberry tree which the poet planted at "New Place" where he spent

Dear Miss Lored

Your card and am indeed pleased to hear that you are enjoying yourself so well. & while I hope you will realize more than you expected from your visit it would have pleased me to know that you would soon be in New York, as I now intend to go east - Start on 28th of this month and be in N.Y. from 3rd about 10 till.

My daughter will be pleased to meet you, in N.Y. Indeed my whole family would like to detain you here on your way home if you could find it convenient to stop with us. Can't you do so?

I think I said to you that I intended to visit my married daughter -ta at Green Bay but have written her I could not do so. She said she could not stand the disappointment & immediately came home, & her husband came last Friday.
My daughter ^{Mary} has a classmate from Nashua N.H. with her. Well our house is large enough for several more & our heart large enough for nearly all the Pilgrimage Co. of 21st with the kindest regards to you both & mine I am yours cordially
