

Portland, Maine

Dear Miss Tweed, -

I was indeed happy to receive your note from Harrison, and glad to know that you found both the journey & country pleasant.

In fun thought. Helms Park twice since you left us and to-day drove on to the Two Lights which you will remember the driver pointed out to us.

Words are inadequate to describe the majesty of the spot we visited. The rugged rock bound coast as full as the eye could reach, and the glorious surf made a picture which I'll not soon forget. How I wanted you there! I sat glued to the rocks and think I should be there now, had I not been pulled away.

If you do come back to Portland be sure and dine over there. You will never regret it.

My father surprised us by coming in upon us last Thursday night. It goes without saying we were glad to see him.

The two ladies left us last night and I am afraid the trip did not prove a very pleasant one as we had a storm night before last & yesterday, and there must have been a heavy sea. How glad I am your sister did not go.

My table linen is not all hemmed as yet but I am happy to say that there is an end to all things unpleasant, and the end to that is in sight.

Geo. & Alice have gone gunning and we are expecting to dine upon game to-morrow. Won't you run in and try a bit?

They wished me to extend to you their kind regards and to say you were indeed a miss from our table.

How I wish I could see you all again, but as I shall return sometime this week fear it cannot be. At any rate, I'm glad you came here, for my visit was surely made happier in consequence.

Please remember me most kindly to Mrs. Palmer + your sister.

Sincerely,
Lucy B. Lich
