

Mrs. Martin To Attend Conference

Mrs. Herbert C. Martin, 4403 West Third, will leave Wednesday morning for Chicago where she will attend the Constitution Revision Conference of the League of Women Voters of the United States.

Mrs. Martin is chairman of the constitution revision committee for the Texas League.

She will be met in Chicago by Mrs. Horton Wayne Smith, a past president of the Texas League, and also a past chairman of the Texas committee working on revision of the state constitution.

There will be 50 delegates from 19 states at the Chicago meeting which has been working since 1952 to arouse citizen interest in revision of outmoded state constitutions. Reports will be made by the 19 state committees and addresses made by Dr. John P. Wheeler, director of the State Constitution Studies Project for the National Municipal League and Samuel W. Witwer, chairman of the Illinois Committee for Constitutional Revision and Reapportionment.

"We are very encouraged here in Texas that the State has begun the necessary research that will enable the citizens to make their decision on how to update their constitution," Mrs. Martin said.

"But Texas is not the only state with an unwieldy and cluttered State constitution, written for another way of life. We hope that this national conference will give us a chance to exchange ideas on how to bring about a better revision for our states."

old Congress last year Russia was likely to produce more ICBMs at times in the early 1960s, particularly in 1962.

But it argued that there would be no "destruction gap" — a period when Russia would have superior power to wreak destruction.

There has been no complacency, however, about the relative American-Soviet positions. The new defense high command was reported to have 25 to 30 items on its agenda for strengthening U.S. defense.

Baptist College Integration Asked

HOUSTON (AP) — About 60 Houston Baptist ministers say they want the Southern Baptist colleges in Texas integrated.

The ministers adopted a resolution Monday asking officials of the Baptist General Convention of Texas to use their influence to get the schools' governing boards to admit Negroes.

There are 10 undergraduate Baptist schools in Texas with an enrollment of about 10,000. Wayland College at Plainview, with an enrollment of 600, is the only integrated Baptist school.

Baylor at Waco is the largest.

In a Senate speech in August, 1958, for example, then-Sen. Kennedy said, "The gap will begin in 1960." He said that the most critical years of the missile gap apparently would be 1960-1964.

Last June, in another Senate speech, he called for stepped up missile development to "close the gap."

It had been predicted in Congress that Russia would gain a 3-1 majority over the United States in ICBMs in the early 1960s.

Interviews

Being Made

ABILENE RE-PORTER
9-8-60

At least 100 "opinion makers" in Abilene and Taylor County will be interviewed this month by members of the local League of Women Voters.

The women making the survey are taking part in a state-wide check on opinions about the Texas Constitution and a possible revision of that lengthy document.

Mrs. Jack Sparks, president of the League in Abilene, said that about a dozen women on the special committee assigned to the project will just be taking a "cross-section" of opinions.

"We are not working on a selected list, for our organization is not large enough for that," she said.

Included in the tentative interview list, however, are educators, government officials, owners and managers of business, labor leaders, small businessmen, members of the professions, newspapermen and other communications media, political party leaders, civic organization leaders, and farmers and ranchers.

The league, which has as its purpose the encouraging of political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government, has been working toward the arousing of opinion for a revision of the Texas Constitution since 1948, Mrs. Sparks said.

Plainview Leader Dies by Gun Shot

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 31 (Special)—John V. Aldridge, 45, one of Plainview's most active civic leaders, was found dead here this evening, shot through the head with a slug from a .45 caliber automatic revolver.

Police Chief H. P. Pelphrey said Aldridge was found lying on the floor of the office of George L. Taylor Distributors at 411 Broadway. Several men working in the back of the building made the discovery, he said.

Aldridge and Taylor, his brother-in-law, were partners in the Pioneer Drilling and Machinery Co., located adjacent to the building occupied by the distributing firm.

The body was found about 6 p.m. with one .45 caliber slug through the right temple, Pelphrey said. The gun was found on the floor near the body, he added.

Clarence Lewis, justice of the peace, had not ruled on the cause of the death late Tuesday evening.

Aldridge, who lived at 1107 Yonkers, came to Plainview in 1947 after he was discharged from the U.S. Army. He was a major in the Army Reserve unit here.

Aldridge first worked 2½ years in the Hale County State Bank and then joined his brother-in-law as partner in the Pioneer Drilling and Machinery Co.

He had been chosen chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board here the past year. Other director of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the board of deacons of First Presbyterian Church, almost every office of the Plainview Noon Lions Club, including president, and president and treasurer of the Plainview United Fund drive.

Aldridge also was a member of Plainview's Wilson Brothers VFW Post and held a life membership in the Texas Lions Crippled Children's Hospital organization.

Survivors include his wife, Beverly, of the home; two sons, John and Bryan, and a daughter, Sidney, all of the home, and one sister, Mrs. George L. Taylor of Plainview.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Wood Funeral Home here.

Right To Work Law Defended

AUSTIN (AP)—A resolution defending Texas' "Right to Work" law was handed to a House committee today for recommendation.

The resolution by Rep. Will Ehrle of Childress urges Congress to reject a pending amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act that would remove the state's right to prohibit closed shops.

The resolution said Texas is one of 19 states that have such laws. "Texans believe in states' rights and states' responsibilities and desire to retain the right to work

Mrs. Meireles Is Entertained By Voters' League

Mrs. Cecilia Meireles of Rio de Janeiro was entertained by the League of Women Voters with a luncheon Friday at 12:30 p. m. in the small dining room of the Home Economics tea house.

Mrs. Meireles has been conducting classes in Portuguese at the Latin-American institute at the University of Texas and will leave Wednesday for her home.

Mrs. A. N. McCallum, Sr., presided at the luncheon in the absence of the local president, Mrs. Marvin Hall, and introduced the honor guest, Mrs. Meireles, and the following other guests of the league: Dr. Arthur S. Aiton, Dr. and Mrs. Preston James and Mr. Heitor Grillo, husband of Mrs. Meireles.

Books Presented

The books are to be given in behalf of the league to the South American institute which she represents, and are the first donation that the league has made to a Latin American republic. Plans are being made for another collection of books which will be presented to one of the other republics, and the league members are receiving donations of this kind.

Original Poem Read

An outstanding feature of the program was the reading of an original poem by Mrs. Meireles in her native tongue, Portuguese. The poem was first given in English by Dr. Aiton.

Bowls of roses were used on the small corner tables about the room while mixed summer flowers were the decorations on the luncheon table. A festive air was added by the bright colored jackets on the books which were placed on the speakers table.

Bad Showing Made

Sports made a bad showing in the World War. Few sports figures enlisted and many employers and managers used every known device to keep their muscular chattels out of uniform.

"We don't want to deprive the American citizens of their right to see a ball game whenever they please," a draft officer told us. "But we doubt if many of the local draft boards throughout the country will look upon single athletes with no dependents as being 'indispensable.' It seems to me that there are an awful lot of good substitutes sitting on ball club benches.

"We're hoping that the first prominent athlete whose name is drawn out of the 'fishbowl' will put down his bat or his boxing gloves, or his football or his tennis racquet, and get right off to camp. It will be a great thing for the draft if he does, for it will show that we are playing no favorites."

"It seems to us that athletes and owners of athletic teams should be concentrating a little less on how to escape conscription. France waited until a week before it was invaded to do what we're doing today."

College football players in the age range will be required to register and will be subject to call, but a clause in the draft bill defers for one year the reporting date of all college students. After July 1, 1941, however, the all Americans will be no different than Joe Doe, the plumber's assistant, in the eyes of draft authorities.

No Part-time Service

There is no chance big league ball players who are called will be able to take six months' service in the army or navy at the end of this season, report for baseball in April, then take their other six months of training. By the same token, fighters will not be permitted to stagger their training period make it coincide with their shows. Schmidt 5,000,000 single men with dependents, who hold non-essential jobs in non-essential industries, will serve as the group from the first 400,000 men will be selected. If a Feller or a Ted

U.S. Policy

A survey on U. S. governmental policy toward Japan will be started by the Austin League of Women Voters at a meeting of its foreign policy group Friday at 9:30 a. m. at the University Y.M.C.A. when Mrs. Rhoda Clayton will talk on the Japanese in Mexico.

This will be followed by discussion of aid to China and discrimination against Japan, based on a memorandum of the major steps the United States has taken in the Far East since 1937. This memorandum was received by Mrs. Claude E. Hill from the National League of Women Voters.

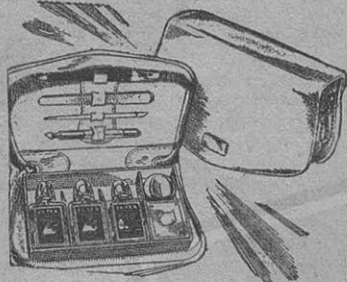

Miss May Coolbaugh is head of the foreign policy group.

A survey of American policy in the Far East is necessary at this time, Mrs. Hill explained, in view of proposals to increase aid to China by sending airplanes or by further restricting shipments to Japan. Women voters can help in the present crisis by providing a ready and alert understanding of the situation, she said. Mrs. Hill also pointed out that aid to China is likewise aid to Britain "because if Japan, as an ally of Germany, controls the Far East with its essential raw materials and dominates the Singapore naval base, the jeopardy of Britain would be greatly increased."

Art Classes Illustrate Own Sheet Music

Pupils Observe Week Set Aside In National Move

During National Music week the art classes of Mathews worked with that idea in mind. First each child illustrated his own selection of music-popular or otherwise. The best of these were put on display in the halls with their respective names on each.

At the second class meeting—a record was played which had outstanding tempos. The classes were shown how to draw this on their paper. After these lines were drawn as the piece played the child was allowed to decorate or change the line as he saw fit. The third and last lesson was to see if the children could catch the mood of different pieces. They drew anything that came into their minds that sounded like the music. All of these were put on display on other bulletin board.

New President Is California Native

Mrs. Alfred Taylor, newly elected president of the League of Women Voters, is a native of California and received her education in Oregon and Idaho. Except for a brief sojourn in British Columbia, her life has been spent in the Western States until 1940 when she came to Austin with her husband, who is research biologist in the University of Texas.

Mrs. Taylor has a varied background of experience in church, civic and fraternal organizations. She says she could hardly be the child of her parents without being "league minded," as she was reared in a household politically and socially conscious. During the past year she has served as secretary of the Texas League of Women Voters and has been active in Red Cross work in Austin.

The following corps of officers will assist Mrs. Taylor during the coming year: first vice president, Mrs. A. N. McCallum, Sr.; second vice president, Mrs. Beverly Gardner; third vice president, Mrs. D. K. Shepard; recording secretary, Mrs. R. A. Burgess; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. C. Currie; treasurer, Mrs. Amor Forwood.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Marion Fowler, retiring president, the league has accomplished some notable work in Austin during the past two years. Some of the highlights of this period are the organization of the Campus League of Women Voters, under the guidance of Miss Anna Hiss, and the poster contest for the sale of defense stamps, conducted in the public schools under the supervision of Mrs. David Cole.

In cooperation with other groups the league was instrumental in the movement which resulted in the formation of the planning committee for community action. At the present time, the league is actively at work on its "War-Time Service," a project which is informational to the present situation and in which the local league is using the theme "Making Democracy a Reality." Membership in the league is open to all women interested in active citizenship.

Mary Elizabeth Sutherland Wins Final Letter Contest

Miss Mary Elizabeth Sutherland, 1900 Forrest trail, was announced this week as the winner in the final letter contest on the control of inflation sponsored by the Austin League of Women Voters.

Last week's $5 prize went to J. W. Boss, Jr., 3404 Speedway.

Miss Sutherland's letter follows:

I have just come from Washington, now the scene of one of the bitterest battles that Capitol Hill has ever witnessed. It is the battle against inflation.

Here is a battle, the outcome of which will affect every man, woman, and child in America. That is why we can't afford to be arm-chair strategists in this battle. We can't just hope that prices don't go up. It is as useless as it would have been for our marines to sit anchored off Tarawa and hope the Japs would show themselves.

Our battle against inflation has seven fronts: a stabilization of prices, stabilization of wages, payment of private debts, buying bonds and stamps, rationing essential materials, maintaining a ceiling on rent, and taxing excess profits.

On each one of these fronts it is necessary to achieve victory. The front on which it is most necessary, but hardest, to win is the stabilization of prices. The bugaboo cry of "subsidies" has echoed in the halls of congress until it has become a catch phrase all over the country. Yet an opinion poll reports that half of the US public does not know what a farm subsidy is. To me, the problem is as simple as this: "Farmers can't get as much money as they should for some foods they produce. So, we must do one of two things: (1) Let farmers get higher prices than they do now by releasing all our ceilings, or (2) Let the government pay farmers something out of taxes so they won't need higher prices."

To do the first would mean that every food item would soar. Where we have been paying 50 cents for a pound of meat, we would pay 75. Other differences in costs of living would be just as drastic, but they are too many to recite here.

The power to win the war against inflation lies with congress but it also lies with us, for they are our representatives. Right now the long arm of the farm bloc is reaching out to every senator it can touch (and that's plenty) in an attempt to prevent this program against inflation from being received favorably by the senate. That is why it is necessary for the people to exert equal pressure. That is all I know and that is all I need to know. And that is what I mean to write my senators.

Speaking of People...

By MARCELINE TOWNSLEY

SOMETIME IN MARCH . . . when Liz Sutherland and Les Carpenter become Mr. and Mrs. the collaboration they began over a year ago will start on a life-time basis. While at the university they made quite a name for themselves as a team when they wrote "Time Staggerers On," the review presented each year by Theta Sigma Phi.

They're clever people. Liz received her degree in journalism from the U of T in '42 after writing a nice little chapter in school history. She was vice president of the student body, active in the Orange Jackets, Alpha Phi, the YWCA, Wesley foundation, Students' Assembly and on down the line. She was also co-sponsor of the Freshman Fellowship club and filled more than one column as a staff member of the Daily Texan.

Since her graduation she's been in Washington, D. C., with a senate investigating committee and later as a reporter in a news bureau. She is a member of the White House Correspondents' association and Mrs. Roosevelt's Correspondents' association.

Les doesn't have to hang his head in shame. He was associate editor of the Texas Ranger, night editor of the Texan, on the Cactus staff, and the only journalism student ever to receive gold awards from all three publications. In his spare time he was a Goodfellow and helped push things along in the YMCA, Sigma Delta Chi and the Wesley foundation, not to mention working on his degree.

Now an ensign in the navy, Leslie is stationed at Key West, Fla.

Their engagement was announced Wednesday afternoon by Mary Elizabeth's mother, Mrs. T. S. Sutherland, at a delightful gathering of Liz's old friends and school chums. Main topic of conversation was Lyndon Johnson's speech at the Driskill Thursday night, which Jean Begeman, Mrs. Joe Storm, June Cheatham, Kathy Bland and Ellen Gibson were urging everyone to hear. All members of the Campus League of Women Voters, they are carrying the torch for subsidies. Excuse the aside, but cheers to these women and all the organizations that are becoming an important pressure group in the fight for subsidies.

Back to the party, one of the favorite guests was Liz Wharton, who is picking all the winners as a United Press reporter in the capitol correspondents' bureau in Jefferson City, Mo. She's another journalism grad who is going places.

Elizabeth says she is determined to vote in Texas elections this year although she knows more about what's going on in Missouri. Doesn't want to get out of touch with her home state politics.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bridgewater and their children, Sally David, from Akron, Ohio, are visiting Mrs. Bridgewater's mother, Mrs. Robert L. Ramsdell. Mrs. Bridgewater, who is the former Ann Ramsdell, and the children will stay for a short visit after Mrs. Bridgewater returns.

Poster Cong. Johnson Will Warn Of Inflation

Cong. Lyndon Johnson, whose "holiday" schedule has him making as many as three speeches a day, will draw a representative consumer audience Thursday evening for a discussion of inflation and methods of controlling it.

The Austin League of Women Voters, which is sponsoring this open meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Driskill hotel's crystal ballroom, has met with widespread response to the idea of a practical, commonsense workaday analysis of inflation, its causes and effect.

Housewives, business and professional men, employers and employees and servicemen's dependents—in short, a cross-section of consumers for whom the fight against inflation is a major homefront campaign—will be in the audience and are expected to take part in the general discussion after the congressman's talk.

Judge Ireland Graves will be in charge of the question-answer period and Mrs. Donald Strong will open the meeting and introduce the 10th district congressman. Everyone at the meeting is free to bring up any question he has on his mind to contribute to a lively, instructive part of the program.

Johnson's own record is consistent with his warning that unbridled inflation is capable of wrecking homefront economy at the very moment allied arms are bringing victory over physical enemies.

Democracy at Work

Tonight Austin and Central Texas citizens have the opportunity of participating in what appears to us to be a fine example of democracy at work.

That is the meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters at the Driskill hotel when Cong. Lyndon Johnson will speak on inflation.

Advance publicity announces that after a brief general talk on the subject, Cong. Johnson will be available for a question and answer period in which the audience has the opportunity of quizzing him on such subjects as they wish.

It seems to us a healthy sort of a thing when a representative of the people comes before them to talk on matters of common importance to all and then to answer the questions anyone wants to ask.

The meeting, while sponsored by the League of Women Voters, is open to all who wish to attend. And such a meeting should be more than worth attending in days such as these.

G. F.

Inflation Evil Is Johnson Speech Topic

Cong. Lyndon Johnson will square off against the homefront enemy of inflation in a speech of vital interest to consumers Thursday at 8 p. m. in the crystal ballroom of the Driskill hotel.

The Austin League of Women Voters, sponsor of the meeting, emphasized that the assembly is for the general public, and everyone is urged to take this opportunity to hear an authoritative discussion of what causes inflation and how it can be controlled.

The 10th district congressman, widely regarded as one of the outstanding young men in Washington, has done more than talk against inflation; he has voted against it and has declared his intention of continuing to vote against this major economic danger.

After Cong. Johnson's speech, Judge Ireland Graves will invite members of the audience to speak up with the questions they have in mind. This informal, informative session promises to be one of the highlights of the meeting. Mrs. Donald Strong will preside and will introduce Cong. Johnson.

Johnson has been meeting with the people of his district in a series of holiday assemblies, all of them planned for a general exchange of ideas between constituents and their representative. A good many of the meetings have been for specific groups; the one Thursday night is for the general consuming public, and a telephone survey by women voters showed that housewives, business and professional men, servicemen's dependents and students and teachers are a cross-section of this audience.

Soldier Vote

Aid Promised

By Johnson

Assurance that he will support a measure to get the ballot to servicemen was given by Cong. Lyndon Johnson Thursday night during a lively question-answer period that followed his talk before a public anti-inflation meeting.

The meeting, called by the Austin League of Women Voters, drew a capacity crowd to the Driskill's crystal ballroom and evoked unusual audience interests. Questions on everything from rent control to the "why" of hate groups extended the program an hour beyond the congressman's talk.

"I'm going to do what I can," Johnson said, "to support a measure to get the ballot to them, get it back and get it counted correctly."

"And," he added, chuckling, "I know something about honest counts, too."

He made at least three good-humored references during the evening to his 1941 U S senatorial race, in which he was edged out by W. Lee O'Daniel, and his listeners laughed and applauded. A show of hands at close of the program indicated the audience was overwhelmingly with Johnson in his justification of subsidies as a necessary implement.

Pointing to the U S's dramatic production record, Johnson reminded, "And there was no famine, no starvation in our land. That, you may remember, was what they were telling us in those organized food conferences that were held in various places. . . . The American farmer equaled the record of his industrial brother."

Johnson called the political turn on pressure groups hacking away at the nation's price control system by warning, "They want to take the lid off now, then they'll go around shouting next November, 'Look what the democrats did to the country.' A year from now 'too little price control' and 'too little OPA' will be the big talk, and they'll make it an issue in the campaign."

He pictured some of the pressure groups as carrying "political pistols in each hand, sayin' 'If you don't give me my increases, I'll murder you!' The halls are full of them."

He mentioned the farm bureau, the National Grange, and the American Milk association among the groups that would like "just a little inflation." Somebody also wanted "just a little inflation" in China, where cigarettes now sell at $15 a pack and a second-hand Ford fetches $31,000, Johnson suggested.

Referring to his own votes for subsidies and against the 35-cent oil hike, Johnson said, "It isn't easy to hold the line by yourself. But I can hold up my head after I vote."

Mrs. Donald Strong introduced the congressman and Ireland Graves conducted the question-answer period. At Judge Graves' suggestion, men who comprised about half the audience gave the Women Voters a vote of appreciation for an assembly of topflight, meaningful interest.

Sino-Writing U.S. Machine Speeds War

AP Features

An American machine that "writes Chinese," transmitting in facsimile almost anything written on paper, is being used in China to speed up wartime communications.

Telegraphing in China has been slow in the past because, instead of our alphabet of 26 letters, the Chinese have thousands of characters and each is transmitted by code number. There are more than telegraph number code used in that country. After a telegram arrives, the numbers are decoded back into the corresponding characters, delaying telegrams important to the war effort.

The Telefax, which has been called the "Telegraph of Tomorrow," is the nearest thing to automatic operation that communications engineers have devised. The sender of a telegram by this method places his telegram in the transmitter and presses a button or turns a switch. The telegram is then electrically transmitted and arrives at its destination a facsimile of the sent message, whether it be written in English or in Chinese.

Already enough of this ultra modern apparatus to operate two major long distance telegraph lines linking four important Chinese cities has been built by Western Union and is being sent to the Far East for the U. S. army signal corps. More apparatus is to be sent to link two other Chinese cities in the system.

Car Ends Up As Bond Find

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(AP) Two and a half years ago when he went into the army Rex Hankins gave his automobile to his brother, Joe. Nine months later the latter turned the vehicle to brother L. A., and went off to war.

When L. A.'s army summons came he told his father, "You take the car. Do what you please with it."

Father Hankins sold the car, invested the money in war bonds.

Women Voters Launch Final Letter Contest on Inflation

Winner in the third letter contest on prevention of inflation conducted by the Austin League of Women Voters is J. W. Boss, Jr., 3404 Speedway.

The contest will be conducted for the last time during the coming weeks with entries due at League headquarters, 904-A West 221-2 street, on Thursday.

The letters, not to exceed 350 words, are to be based upon the following seven points: taxes on profits, ceilings on prices and rents, stabilization of wages, stabilization of farm prices, rationing of essential materials, buying stamps and bonds and payment of private debts. A $5 prize will be awarded for the best letter submitted. Judges are R. O. Zollinger, the Rev. John Barclay and Mrs. C. E. Lyon.

Previous winners are Mrs. James Markham, 703 East 24th street, and Mrs. Marion S. Storm, 1503 Alameda drive.

Boss' letter follows:

Pressure to prevent inflation is not being popularly exerted for two reasons: because we have not been made completely aware of what a further degree of inflation will do to our insurance values, our savings accounts, our war bond savings; and because we have no effectual means of expressing our desires quickly.

The points listed in your announcement are excellent: further taxes on contract profits should be written into a national bill immediately, and the renegotiation of contracts should be continued rather than discontinued as proposed in the new federal tax bill. Ceilings should be maintained not only on retail prices and rents, but on wages and farm prices. The rationing of essential materials should be broadened in scope, and a perpendicular tax applied to luxury goods. Payment of private debts would thus be accelerated.

Further, a campaign with all our publicity resources behind it should be launched to tie inflation prevention to bond buying. If high taxes and inflationary prices are imaginatively contrasted with the continuation of present standards of savings in the form of bonds, it is my belief that the inherent good sense of the American people would respond positively and immediately. If such voluntary campaign did not succeed within three months time, forced savings should be resorted to on the per capita basis used for income taxes, and in the quantity needed to keep our war expenditures on a near-current basis. Staggered bond maturity dates might be necessary if the requisite volume were sold.

Pressure for the program outlined must be brought to bear directly on members of congress by individuals. If one columnist should locally sell the idea of making our wills in the matter known to congress and of using bond-buying to prevent inflation, it is my belief that the movement would snowball rapidly; and that one of the nationally-known columnists would seize opportunity to sell it to the nation. Other publicity media immediately suggest themselves. Furthermore, with Christmas out of our systems we are ripe for the acceptance of these ideas; and 1944 is, of course, a propitious time for getting congress to express the democratic will.

J. W. BOSS, JR.

Wiley Denies Subsidies Evil

Speaking before the Austin League of Women Voters Friday at the Central Christian church, Dr. C. A. Wiley, professor of economics at the University of Texas, denied recent charges that subsidies and inflation control will ruin democracy.

"Democracy," he said, "is any form of government in which the policies are the will of the majority of the people."

He encouraged his audience to know what they want and to fight certain tactics being employed today in order to muddy up the stream with the hope that people will become so confused that they will give up.

RAF Bomber 12:11

The cold blast brought Austin its prospects of a second hard freeze for the winter, this region having experienced a 20-degree low on Dec. 16.

There is considerable danger to the citrus fruits in the Valley in this cold wave, Dunham pointed out. As far south as Del Rio, below freezing weather has already hit.

In the ranch country—Brady, Eldorado and Fredericksburg—the mercury was in the 20's. At Brady Friday night the thermometer dipped to 22; at Eldorado, it was 21; and at Fredericksburg, 24.

The stiff winds, nowever, in this region had not interfered with air traffic. The ceiling was rising Saturday morning and air activity normal.
