TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

Texas Tech is a state-supported multi-purpose university of 23,000 students enrolled in six colleges—Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, and Home Economics—and two schools, the Graduate School and the School of Law. The Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center and the Museum of Texas Tech University complete the roster of organizations known jointly as the Texas Tech University Complex.

As is necessary for an educational institution of its scope and purposes, Texas Tech operates in several locations. Beyond its 1,800-acre Lubbock campus—all in one tract—the university operates a 13,800-acre agricultural and biological laboratory through the Texas Tech University Center at Amarillo. Under development are other agricultural research and teaching facilities in Lubbock County and in Terry County. As a part of its medical role, the Health Sciences Center has in various stages of development three Regional Academic Health Centers: in Amarillo, in El Paso, and in Odessa-Midland. The 400-acre Texas Tech University Center at Junction, in the Texas hill country, serves a broad range of educational needs for several colleges.

Paul Whitfield Horn, the first president of Texas Tech University, drew from the broad, open plains of West Texas his vision for the institution. "Let us make the work of our college fit into the scope of our country," he said. "Let our thoughts be big thoughts and broad thoughts. Let our thinking be in world-wide terms."

Horn's challenge to Texas Tech, now embarked on its second fifty years, continues as a viable force, as we—faculty and students, administrators and alumni, supporters and friends—strive continually to shape Tech's programs and activities to meet in increasing degree the highest standards of excellence in teaching, research, and public service.

ACADEMIC DRESS AND PROCESSION

The wearing of academic dress at commencement dates from the early history of the oldest universities somewhere in the twelfth or thirteenth century. Since educated people were almost always of the clergy, the black gown is somewhat of an adaptation of the cope, a mantle of silk, or other cloth, worn by church dignitaries in processions and on other occasions. The long gown and cowl (similar to the academic hood of today) were worn by priests and monks for warmth in the cold medieval buildings.

In the early centuries, a great diversity of color and style of cap, gown, and hood appeared in different universities of Europe. The European custom of wearing academic dress was later introduced at American colleges. Not until after 1895 was a uniform academic code of dress adopted by most colleges and universities in the United States. Today, the black robe, hood, and cap are worn at most institutions of higher learning.

The gown is cut differently for the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees. Usually the bachelor's robe has long pointed sleeves; the master's has closed sleeves, square at the end with a slit at the elbow; the doctor's is faced with velvet and has round open sleeves with three bars of velvet. The color of velvet represents the field of study.

The doctor's hood has side panels and is slightly longer than the one worn for the master's degree. The color used in the velvet border of the hood indicates the degree. The velvet border is widest on the doctor's hood. The colors in the lining of the hood indicates the college or university which conferred the degree. For example, those persons who have received advanced degrees from this University wear hoods lined with red.

The Oxford cap, the so-called mortar board, is black and has a long tassel fastened to the middle of the top which is usually worn pendant over the left front of the cap. The tassel on the cap of the doctor's candidate, except for professional degrees, is either gold or black. Different colored tassels are often worn on the bachelor's and master's cap to indicate the type of degree.

The undergraduate-degree candidates will wear the tassel on the right side of the cap at commencement. After the degrees have been conferred, all candidates receiving baccalaureate degrees will turn the tassel to the left side of the cap, thus showing that they are now graduates.
