CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION RESOLUTION 34

By Delegate Jones of Taylor

To Committee on Rights and Suffrage.

C.C.R. 34, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION that the Committee on Submission and Transition be authorized to provide in its report that Article XI, Section 1 of the proposed constitution will be submitted to the voters as a separate proposal that would, if the new constitution is not adopted, amend the 1876 Constitution by deleting Article XVII, Section 1 and substituting Article XI, Section 1 of the constitution proposed by the convention. Article XI, Section 1 is as follows:

Section 1. AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION. (a) Amendments to this constitution may be proposed to the qualified voters of the state by a record vote of two-thirds of the membership of each house. The legislature may submit proposed revisions of one or more sections of an article as one proposal and in the same proposal amend other sections or articles that are germane thereto.

(b) A proposed amendment shall be submitted at the next statewide general election following the expiration of 90 days after it is proposed by the legislature, or at such other time as the legislature may determine. Procedures shall be provided by law for publicizing proposed amendments. Proposed amendments shall be publicized in the English language and in such other languages as may be provided by law.

(c) A proposed amendment shall become a part of this constitution on approval by a majority of the qualified voters voting on the question.

COMMENTS

The section would be submitted to the voters as an amendment to the 1876 Constitution. Article XI, Section 1 would also be included in the main body of the proposed new constitution. If the new constitution is approved, Article XI, Section 1 would be a part of that document. If the new constitution is rejected by the voters, the separate proposal, if approved, would allow Article XI, Section 1 to be incorporated into the 1876 document. The wording of the ballot and any necessary schedule provisions would also appear in the Submission and Transition Committee report.

The proposal is offered to ensure that, if the new constitution is not approved, it will be possible to revise the present constitution on an article-by-article basis. Section 1 of this proposal states that:

The legislature may submit proposed revisions of one or more sections of an article as one proposal and in the same proposal amend other sections or articles that are germane thereto.

The constitutional convention has devoted a great deal of effort and time toward writing a constitution that will be suited to the needs of present and future generations of Texans. Likewise, the Constitutional Revision Commission spent eight months conducting preparatory research and preparing a draft document for consideration by the convention. As a result of these combined efforts, the product of the convention's deliberations will be a document that is substantially improved both in form and substance.

Despite these circumstances, the record in other states which have held constitutional conventions in recent years indicates the acceptability of the final product by the voters cannot be predicted with certainty and may depend partly on factors beyond the control of the convention. In the event the proposed constitution is not approved by the voters, the adoption of Article XI, Section 1 as an amendment to the present constitution will ensure that the work of the constitutional convention can be of enduring value to the people of the state.
