Diane--overall we got pretty good marks. Some of the comments were surprising to me in the things they picked out to say they liked or disliked. Just got these today, so sending them right on with just a quick glance through.

Don't know if I mentioned it, but the idea of the "lost" signs was that of Jackie and Novelle. They were in Jackie's car all the time. She explained her reasons, and I told her she should have discussed it with me or let someone know before taking such action. Obviously many Leaguers like the signs and designated seating. at lunches anyway.

Program debate - would have liked more time to debate Child Abuse on Sat - since we had time not used on other items, I wish some could have been reassigned to Child Abuse or Child Care.

7. What suggestions do you have for procedures, arrangements, or activities for future conventions?

I really missed the local delegation signs at the tables. Our delegation was usually not able to find seats together. I have always liked the way they were used in the past - easier to find other delegations, too.

On the agenda page, include the page number where that item can be found, or at least the color of the pages in the section where the details can be found. The workbook is so large that it's sometimes difficult to flip back and forth to the correct place quickly.

It's not your fault, but the dining rooms and meeting rooms were so COLD the first two days and nobody seemed able to do anything about it.

Present the old bylaw section alongside or immediately above or below the proposed changes so that page flipping is not necessary.

The incoming president's workshop: spend less time on hearing individual introductions and stories. Spend more time on how to be a president. I gained from Diane Sheridan's presentation but was disappointed that it wasn't a MUCH larger portion of our allotted time.

I derived no real benefit out of the presidents' dinner. We had a nice social time but spent essentially NO time discussing League. I went to Convention to learn, and feel more of our precious and condensed time together should be spent on League and not on talk of shopping and gossip.

For luncheons and dinners: find out in advance (on pre-registration forms?) who the smokers are and then seat them together. Also ask on the forms if anyone has special dietary needs, such as low cholesterol or vegetarian. Although most of the people seemed to enjoy the menu, some ate very little.

Dr. Lee's speech and the workshop on long-range planning were the highlights of the meeting for me. I also feel proud to be part of an organization in which fairness and consideration are paramount and in which business is conducted in an efficient and logical manner.

The State League and the Convention Committee, along with the hosts, are to be commended for the fine job they did planning this large event. The note-burning ceremony was especially moving.

I'm looking forward to next time.

I would suggest, as the mother of 2 Eagle Boy Scouts who have taught me proper flag display, that the Natl. &
State flags be displayed properly, i.e. the eagle atop
the Natl flag faced the mirror throughout convention instead of the audience. I know this is a small detail, however,
the L.W.V.-T is known for conducting "everything" in the proper way and we should all work to preserve this high image.

Sunday morning's plenary session during the adoption of program and budget was too protected. There was too much hair splitting, revisions, substitutions, etc.
