Mr. L. De Bona,
Eagle Pass, Tex.

We have received from you an advertisement headed, "Misstating the facts", clipped from the Austin Statesman of Nov. 16, with the inquiry appended, if the statements contained in the ad are true. We do not think there is a single true statement in the ad. The report of the Canadian Government referred to states plainly and boldly, that Price's Baking Powder is adulterated 20%. It states also that 10 grains of his baking powder gives off a certain amount of gas. In quoting from this report Price says 5 grains give off this amount of gas; thus falsely doubling the strength in his ads, as shown by the report. The report does not make any such statement as, that the Royal contains amonia or tartar^{ate} of lime. Whereas it does say, that Price's baking powder contains a large amount of insoluble matter, consisting of tartrate of lime and other substances. The Canadian authorities, however, recently issued another report on the subject of baking powders; and this Dr. Price does not quote from. It shows the Royal very much superior to his in strength and purity.

The United States Government has just published its report upon baking powders, after a lengthy and exhaustive examination made by the authority of Congress. This shows the Royal highest in strength and purest in quality of any baking powder made.

It will not do for you to pay much attention to the ads inserted by the Price Baking Powder people. They are found making such deliberate misstatements and fraudulent use of official authorities that the National Board of Health has been compelled to call public attention to them and to stamp them as fraudulent. You may continue to sell the Royal Baking Powder under the guarantee, that it is absolutely pure, wholesome and the highest in strength of any baking powder in the market. We will guarantee that to you and your customers all the time. Thanking you for calling our attention to the ad, we are,

Very respectfully,

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.

Dear Sir

If you are not to be closed today I w^d prefer that the wagon is not loaded till the man is ready to start out.

He has to bring out several pastures.

I have also ordered a keg of staples from Ladner
as we need them I will deem it a favor if you will see that the man gets them.

That today was Thanksgiving
had occupied my mind till yesterday evening or I w^d have sent Adair yesterday.
