J R Binyon jr of Seattle Washington.

Our comrade was long a resident of our city and did his part in the advancement of our city from a hamlet to a city of more than 100,000 souls.

His was a well known figure for years in the busy marts of our commerce.

He leaves among his friends and comrades a well earned reputation for uprightness in business and a useful citizen.

He was a kind father a good husband and a true and loyal member of the community

Our comrade did his part in cementing our more perfect union before the great struggle imperfect, and now
"By the flow of the inland river
Whence the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead.
