

New York, 9th Sept. 1878.

My Friends:

Although this will probably reach you just in time to be read on your journey home, write to redeem myself for delaying the reply to your previous letter so long.

The Rev. Wm. Montague Kerr conducted the service at St. Timothy's Church yesterday, was not there myself but hear that he did very well.

The Truck, Steam is quite full again and next Sunday hope my infirmities (due to increasing years) will admit of my rising in time to attend Church,

Have spent considerable of my time at Brighton (Coney Island) since seeing you, but the weather has grown so cool the last week its glory has departed,

All the young gentlemen, who stand in the rear of the Church during Sunday School time, are out in full force and I have no doubt are anxiously looking for your familiar face, as well as the writer,

By the way Min Hunt has told everything most. No more now, Yrs truly
Min Anna S. Hunt
