Dear Ray -

Hope all is well in Waco. I would enjoy being on the Baylor campus the week after Baylor beat USC. That must have been quite a game.

Hope your classes are good and that you're having fun also. Have you given any thought to what you want to do next year? If you haven't decided, don't worry. Believe me, I understand.

If you're thinking about ever doing anything in real estate, you might consider getting your salesman's license as soon as possible. (whether you ever plan to use it or not) It's always easier to pass the test when the classes are fresh on your mind.

Grad school is a good idea if you can find a program which interests you. Don't go just because there's nothing else you'd rather do - you probably wouldn't enjoy it if you did that.

Good luck with everything. We'll see you soon.

Love,
Gordon
